JUNE 5 REPEAL ELECTION VOTED BY BOTH HOUSES

Extend City Beer Tax

Two amendments to Chicago's beer ordinance were passed yesterday. One extends the city tax to all retail dispensers. The other compels brewers to state the exact alcoholic content of the beer on the labels. Details on page 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Wets in the general assembly today achieved two victories.

First, both houses passed separate bills ordering an election, to be held June 5 in connection with the regular judicial election, for the purpose of selecting delegates to a state convention which will vote on the proposed 21st amendment to the United States constitution. The 21st amendment, when it is approved by thirty-six states, will repeal the 18th or prohibition amendment.

Second, the state law regulating the sale of 3.2 per cent beer was passed in the senate, 38 to 11, and was sent to Gov. Horner, who signed it. Last week the bill, which had been passed by a large majority in the house, failed of approval in the senate. The thirty-eight senatorial votes it received today were four more than the number necessary to make the bill immediately effective.

Another Vote Necessary.

Certain technical obstacles to the June 5 election of repeal convention delegates still must be ironed out. It is expected that this will be done in a session of the senate which is scheduled to start at 12:01 Friday morning.

While the bill passed by the senate was identical with that passed by the house, the state constitution requires passage by both houses of the same bill. A race had developed to determine which bill would finally be approved.

In order to get the bill through this week, it was found that one house or the other would have to hold a post-midnight session Friday to pass the bill from the other house. At a conference of leaders of the two houses it was agreed it would be easier to hold the smaller senate until that hour.

Therefore the Schnackenberg - Sinnett bill from the house will be the one pressed. Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] was anxious to have the senate bill bearing his name chosen, but in the conference announced he waived any rights he might have in the hope that early passage of an approved measure "for the general welfare" would ensue.

Proponents Pleased.

Gov. Horner and representatives of the Crusaders, the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment are jubilant over the almost certain outlook for the repeal measure. The senate passed its bill by a vote of 40 to 6 and the house adopted its bill by 122 to 22, in each instance the affirmatives having a wide margin above the two thirds votes of 34 and 102 respectively.

One feature of the day that brought comment was the fact that the senate invocation was pronounced by the Rev. William H. Nicholas of the Grace Lutheran church, Springfield, former president of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois.

The speed displayed in getting the bills through came close to setting a legislative record at Springfield. There was little argument either for or against in either house.

It was the senate which acted first. Senator Ward called up the bill and after outlining its provisions argued briefly but emphatically for its passage.

"Both the Democratic party and the Republican party are pledged to immediate repeal," he said. "Referenda of the voters of the state established the fact that Illinois insists on repeal in the shortest possible time. If this bill is not passed the people will demand a special election that might cost a million dollars."

Some Explain Votes.

Senator Noah M. Mason of Oglesby protested that the special election would not cost over $250,000 and then the roll call was begun. During the call there were brief explanations by a few senators of the reasons for their votes, but only two arguments were made against the bill.

Thomas P. Gunning [Rep., Princeton] said the people of the state would be better satisfied if the convention

PHILIPPINE AUDIT DISPUTES REPORT BY ROOSEVELT

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, P. I., April 26.—The annual report of Brig. Gen. Creed Hammond, the insular auditor, showed today a wide discrepancy with the report previously released by former Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Gov. Roosevelt had said:

His report claimed a surplus of about 2,000,000 pesos, whereas the official audit shows a deficit of almost 5,000,000 pesos. (The peso is worth 50.62 cents at current exchange rates.)

The auditor was unable to explain the wide difference in his figures and Col. Roosevelt's except from the fact that the governor general's report was prepared for publication before the official figures were available, and therefore was based on optimistic estimates only.

GADGET PERMITS PATIENT TO RUN DENTIST'S DRILL

Atlantic City, N. J., April 26.—(AP)—A dentist's chair gadget which gives the patient control over the drilling going on in his mouth was introduced to the New Jersey Dental association here today.

The patient holds the gadget in his hand and when the drill begins to hurt presses a button and stops it whether the dentist likes it or not.

"The remote control," J. C. Forstbauer of New York explained, "enables the dentist to render services pleasantly and it enables the nervous patient to keep calm through the knowledge that he can stop the drill at any time."

Expert Pegler Shows How to End the Crisis

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—I have just about decided to wash my hands of the whole gummy business of inflation, farm relief, international debts, and so forth and go to some ball games, convinced that however much I worry about it all, that which is going to be is inevitably going to be, and that the outcome will be a fairly even compromise between the best hopes and the direst fears of my countrymen. It always has been so, and a champion country, like a champion horse, ought to run fairly true to form.

Down here in Washington journalism consists largely of an effort to make people think, but now that they are catching up on the thinking which they neglected through all the years of the wonderful nonsense it does no perceptible good. More people are out of jobs today than were out of jobs when Mr. Roosevelt took over on the 4th of March, the constitution has been suspended in spots, the President has been too busy high-spading Mr. MacDonald to turn the sunshine of his smile upon the citizens for more than a week, and all is, in round numbers, confusion.

But We Live On.

But life goes on.

There was a great patriotic debate in the senate this afternoon, with Mr. Vandenberg of Michigan, a minor league publisher in private life and a county attorney type of orator, up on his feet, swishing his coat tails, and shooting his cuffs as he viewed with alarm the proposal to dilute the gold dollar. But on the bulletin board in the back room of the press gallery, where they stick up little memoranda like "Mr. Wilson, your wife says call her up," and "Mr. Anderson, your horse was scratched," there was a notice reading, "Washington vs. Red Sox, wet grounds."

How do you go about diluting a dollar, and what happens then? You're asking me? I am a baseball writer and fight man. How the hell should I know when no two of the statesmen themselves can agree? In fact, no one statesman can agree. How should my colleagues of the Washington set know? Who are they? A lot of graduate rewrite men, telegraph editors, men up from the courthouse beat, and night police, and the state capitols at Little Rock, Springfield, Hartford, and such places.

MAYOR AND AIDS TAKE PAY FIGHT TO SPRINGFIELD

Postpone Action on School Closing.

First Bill Passed

Illinois house of representatives passed the Skarda bill, the first of Mayor Kelly's tax collection measures, by a vote of 112 to 25, and it was speeded to the senate. The bill would enable the county treasurer to act as receiver for tax delinquent properties and collect income from the properties to pay taxes. Details on page 6.

Chicago's governmental leaders moved on Springfield last night, there to urge the legislature to prompt action on Mayor Kelly's program for tightening the screws on tax dodgers. By the enactment of this program they are confident that the flow of public revenue will be revived sufficiently to pay school teachers and other public employes.

Other events of the day, before members of the school board and city council joined Mayor Kelly in the trip to Springfield, were these:

1. Demonstrating teachers applauded Mayor Kelly when he asked support in his fight to get pay for them, and their leaders called off another demonstration scheduled for tomorrow. Previously the teachers had created the most disorderly scene of their campaign outside the Chicago Title and Trust company.

2. The school board voted to postpone until May 10 consideration of closing the schools. The school trustees pledged their support to Mayor Kelly in his insistence that the school budget be trimmed. The mayor opposed closing the schools, but suggested as a minimum goal in the economy campaign the amount which would be saved if they were closed, about 9 million dollars.

3. State's Attorney Courtney opened his part of the campaign against tax dodging owners of income bearing property by appearing before County Judge Jarecki, who ordered that nine owners of large tax delinquent properties and the Chicago Title and Trust company, as holder of tax funds placed in escrow, appear in court on May 9 for examination of their records.

Mayor Promises Payment.

The reaction of the demonstrating teachers to Mayor Kelly's speech before them was in marked contrast to their recent treatment of other officials. The teachers had been barred from the council meeting yesterday because the gallery was filled when a throng of them reached the city hall, but they were admitted after the meeting.

"My statement printed in the morning papers," Mayor Kelly told them, "was that the bankers have agreed to give substantial—and I mean substantial—aid to you. I agreed to do all I could to make tax warrants good security. This was no idle promise.

"You're going to get the money, and I think that if this legislation is passed within a week you'll get some money immediately afterward. But I think you are ill advised to interfere with business in the loop. You should have confidence, for a reasonable time at least, to see what I can do."

Calls Off Teachers' Parades.

"I, personally, am willing to go along with Mayor Kelly," he said. "He is a fighter. He didn't tremble in talking to us as some of the so-called big-wigs did."

Later, Mr. Fewkes announced that there would be no more demonstrations or parades for at least a week, pending the outcome of Mayor Kelly's appeal for legislation at Springfield.

The teachers' demonstration yesterday started outside the Title and Trust company building at 69 West Washington street, where the teachers jammed the street, shouting, "Pay your taxes." Holman D. Pettibone, president of the company, appeared at a window and through a megaphone told the teachers that the company had paid all the taxes on its own properties.

Teachers March to Bank.

From there the demonstrators moved south to the First National bank, where they demanded an interview with Melvin A. Traylor, president. While Mr. Traylor was preparing to receive a committee from the group, the lure of a movie cameraman attracted the whole throng to the street. While they were there the bank closing hour arrived, and the

CANDOR BETTER THAN ALLIANCES, MacDONALD SAYS

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Pleading not for an alliance but for the coöperation of hearts that beat in harmony and minds that look to the same goal, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain spoke before more than 1,000 members of the Pilgrims of the United States tonight.

Pleased with His Visit.

Thus ended the mission upon which Mr. MacDonald came to this country—the mission of consulting with President Roosevelt upon a comprehensive program of international action for world stabilization.

Mr. MacDonald expressed satisfaction with the results of his Washington visit and paid tribute to President Roosevelt.

"When I arrived at the White House I shook hands with a host who happened to be your President as a guest who happened to be the prime minister of Great Britain," Mr. MacDonald said. "When I left this morning, I shook hands with a host and President who, in the brief interval of a long week-end had come to be regarded by me as an old and firm friend."

These references were applauded.

Wants Mutual Confidence.

At another point Mr. MacDonald declared:

"Alliances I do not want, nor do you. An alliance is a bargain. Of what use is a bargain except for hampering purposes when hearts are beating in harmony, when minds are looking to the same goal, and when the determination of the best is guiding feet towards that goal?

"That is the coöperation I want, the coöperation of free nations, the coöperation of peoples who can talk candidly to each other, the combination which comes when common respect and common confidence determine a common policy. Anglo-American relations, I hope, will always be that because that, to you, to us, and to the world at large, is going to yield the most precious results."

Takes Look at Future.

As to future conditions Mr. MacDonald said:

"The society of the future is to be no place for loafers. The society of the future is to be no place for men and women who enjoy without giving service. But the society of the future must provide that men and women who are anxious to give service which will entitle them to an honest and an honorable living—the society of the future must give them the opportunity to do that service. That is the problem we are up against today."

Mr. MacDonald said the problem facing America is not merely a national problem. American farmers out west, he said, if they went to England, would find the miners and others there in precisely the same condition.

Others Feel Depression.

"One of the things," he went on, "that your President and I mused over in those hours after the old day had gone and the new day had already been born—one of those things that we mused most over was that your problems are our problems. So far as that is concerned there might have been no Atlantic at all, and no American revolution, in that we are a family, whether you like it or not.

"It is, therefore, an international problem. It is not an accident. What has been happening to give you problems of enormous unemployment has been happening with us, has been happening with France, has been happening with Germany, and so on. And what has brought me to America at

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, it was authoritatively learned today, is planning to ask congress for authority to reopen the war debt settlements and negotiate a reduction of the 11 billion dollars Europe owes the United States.

The implication of this contemplated move is that the President intends to throw the war debts into the international economic conference scheduled to meet in London June 12 with a view to bringing about an economic "new deal" of world wide scope.

If congress should vest the President with such power the United States would go into the London conference prepared to enter into agreements whereby the war debts would be scaled down, if not virtually canceled, German reparations would be reduced commensurately, currencies would be stabilized on a modified gold basis, silver would be remonetized, tariff and other trade barriers would be lowered, and measures would be adopted to raise commodity prices and restore purchasing power as a means of promoting world economic recovery.

Arms Problem Related.

Closely related to this projected program of the economy conference is the objective of the disarmament conference which President Roosevelt, as a result of the developments of the last few days, is encouraged to believe is about to be attained. The President accepted in principle the disarmament proposals of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and consented to the inclusion of the United States in a consultative pact to implement the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

With the President consenting to negotiate a revision of the war debts and preparation to ask congress for authority therefor and also consenting to put America in a consultative pact whereby the United States would help to underwrite the peace of Europe, Prime Minister MacDonald started home today in high spirits. He had accomplished even more than he expected to when he set out from England's shores.

And what topped off the satisfaction with which Britain's persuasive Scotch bargainer departed was the further assurance that if Mr. Roosevelt gets the authority he wants he will use it to postpone the 76 million dollar payment due from Great Britain in June.

Herriot Hears Announcement.

That the President contemplates asking congress for authority to negotiate revised debt settlements was made known by Mr. Roosevelt himself at the press conference this afternoon. Seated beside the President at the time was former Premier Edouard Herriot of France, with whom Mr. Roosevelt is engaged in conversations on disarmament and economic sessions. Mr. Roosevelt's disclosure may have been news to M. Herriot, for it was authoritatively stated that the President and the French envoy have not discussed the debts so far.

It was in answering inquiries regarding further legislation he will ask of congress that the President mentioned a resolution on the debts that he will seek to have adopted within the next few weeks, it being assumed that congress will conclude its business and adjourn early in June. When pressed for details of the debt resolution the President waved the inquiries aside with the explanation that nothing definite had been decided.

Debts First Excluded.

The Roosevelt debt policy as it is now dimly shadowed forth represents a departure from the attitude hitherto maintained by the American government. When the holding of a world economic conference was broached last year, the United States, in consenting to participate, stipulated that the war debts should not be included in the scope of the agenda. Now the Roosevelt administration apparently contemplates throwing the debts into the bargaining for the establishment of a new world economy.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed himself to the economic negotiations with the European powers with the declared determination not to give consideration to the pleas of the debtors for debt cancellation unless the debtors evinced a disposition to join the United States in monetary and trade stabilization. The understanding now is that the President has been satisfied on this question by his talks with Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot and therefore is ready to take up debt reduction.

Although congress hitherto has manifested overwhelming opposition to any reduction of the war debts Democratic leaders believe it would not refuse the President's request for blanket powers to negotiate new settlements, reserving, however, the power of ratification.

Joint Statement Issued.

The results of the Anglo-American conversations were announced in a joint statement by the President and Mr. MacDonald which the latter handed out at his concluding session with the press in the forenoon. The statement declared an increase in the general level of commodity prices "primary and fundamental" and as aids to achieve this objective listed the following:

1. Moderation of trade restrictions of all kinds, including excessive tariffs, quotas and exchange restrictions.
2. Provision by central banks of adequate expansion of credit.
3. Stimulation of enterprise, with governments playing their part by adopting programs of capital expenditure.
4. Ultimate reestablishment of equilibrium of international exchanges.
5. Reestablishment of an international monetary standard.
6. Improvement in the status of silver.

MacDonald Is Happy.

Mr. MacDonald, expansively happy, enlarged upon the theme of the mutual understanding of each other's viewpoints that had been achieved in his talks with Mr. Roosevelt and went away leaving behind a distinct impression that the British had managed the whole show with their customary finesse. All members of the British delegation were veterans in conference technique while nearly all of the Americans were tyros.

As a result, the Americans were awed by the practiced bearing of the British and impressed by the injunctions of secrecy laid upon them. As has happened before in such conferences, the American negotiators observed the injunction religiously, declining to give any information to the American press while the British promptly allowed their version of the proceedings to leak out. The upshot was that virtually all of the information was obtained from British sources and was only such as was calculated to promote British ends.

Prepared by British.

The joint statements of the President and the prime minister were even prepared in some instances by the British. To handle their publicity the British delegates brought with them Michael Wright, British foreign office press agent, an expert in his line, who was always accessible and freely gave out such information as the British desired published, while our own state department remained obediently tongue-tied.

While no hard and fast agreements had been reached or sought, Mr. MacDonald told the reporters, his conversations with our "most genial" President were "fruitful in a way that I hardly imagined would be possible when I came."

May Join French Reprisal Plan Against War Aggressor

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—The United States, courting the French, may offer to take commercial reprisals against aggressor nations in the event of a war in Europe, it appeared today during the continuation of President Roosevelt's conversations with former Premier Edouard Herriot of France.

America's policy of maintaining strict neutrality in the strifes of Europe will be abandoned under the plan outlined to M. Herriot by Mr. Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt plan contemplates setting up an official organization to determine when an unlawful aggression is threatened or perpetrated and when such a finding is made the United States would agree to withdraw its protection to its shippers and commercial interests seeking to carry on trade with the aggressor nation.

No Protection from Blockade.

Under the basic code of the league of nations a blockade might be raised against an unlawful aggression and while the United States would not send military forces to help enforce the blockade, it might, under a new pact, notify American shippers that their commerce with the aggressor nation will not be protected against the blockade.

To submit to such an agreement, it is made plain, America would be forced to abandon her policy for freedom of the seas.

The President is reported as eager that France should join England and the United States in a unified front battling the depression.

To this end Mr. Roosevelt and his advisors have listened sympathetically to France's plea for security from their ever present fears of enemies crossing her borders.

Affects War on Depression.

France has demanded this security against aggression, to the point of threatening the success of the disarmament conference now in session at Geneva. If that conference fails, President Roosevelt fears for the fate of the world economic conference to be held in June at London, upon which the President bases his great hopes for the defeat of depression.

Today, while he and M. Herriot sat side by side at his desk, Mr. Roosevelt told newspaper men that they had been talking most of the day on disarmament.

Another phase of the international conversations, the problem of stabilizing world currencies, also may be settled to mutual satisfaction, it was reported.

Any action would be temporary, pending the world economic conference, but France, the only nation of the three still on the gold standard, is insisting upon prompt action to prevent the dumping of cheap products upon markets.

JURYMEN CHOSEN FROM DIRECTORY; HALT $50,000 SUIT

The discovery that the jury commissioners have been choosing their veniremen from the 1928 and 1929 city directories yesterday halted the $50,000 suit brought against the Chicago and Western Indiana, the Pennsylvania, and the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroads by Mrs. Victoria Vanosky, 5603 South Turner avenue, before Superior Judge Joseph B. David. After the selection of the jury Mrs. Vanosky's lawyer, Earl J. Walker, learned that six of the jurors were railroad men.

Clerks summoned from the jury commissioners' office said the old directories were arbitrarily used in making up the lists. The statute provides that jurymen shall be selected from lists of electors prepared by the county commissioners.

The case was continued and Attorney Walker announced he would file a mandamus action to compel proper selection of jurymen.

Mrs. Vanosky's husband, John Vanosky, a foreman for the railroads at their joint tracks at 58th street and Wallace avenue, was killed there on Dec. 10, 1930, by a train. Mrs. Vanosky has eleven children.

BANDITS HOLD UP BREWERY, STEAL EMPTY BARRELS

Five robbers entered the plant of the Germania Brewing company, 1717 North Ashland avenue yesterday afternoon. While one man kept Frank Wagner, president of the concern, and three employés under guard, the others loaded 200 empty beer barrels on three trucks and fled with them. Brewers who are faced with a shortage of barrels, it is believed, will be asked for offers on the stolen goods. The alternative explanation is that the bandits were taking them for illegal breweries. The Germania company has not yet started brewing operations, but has its supplies on hand.

CHURCH VOTES INJURED PASTOR LEAVE, WITH PAY

The official cabinet of the Grand Avenue Congregational church, 1305 North Hamlin avenue, voted unanimously last night to give the church's pastor, the Rev. J. Alfred Nansen, a four months' leave of absence and full pay during the leave.

The Rev. Mr. Nansen, a cousin of the late Norwegian explorer, Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, is in Passavant hospital with injuries received mysteriously on a road in River Grove on April 18. His right temple, neck and right forearm were lacerated. When found the clergyman was lying close to the exhaust pipe of his car.

CANDOR BETTER THAN ALLIANCE, MacDONALD SAYS the present moment is to discuss with the President as to how American experience, American brains and intelligence, American business capacity could join with ours and try to make our people happier, better, and put more sunshine and happiness and peace into their lives.

Forego Past, He Urges, Face Future.

Turning Back On Past.

"We want to turn our backs upon the past. We have had our wars, we have had our wasters, we have had our escapades. Turn our backs upon them. Let us look to the future, and when we meet in this international economic conference, which I hope will be very soon, then, my friends, we don't sit at opposite sides of a table.

"I want you to sit at the same side of the table with us and others, other enlightened nations, other nations that do appreciate their duty to the individual, and with courage and yet with reason and common sense, but with courage face those problems and produce constructive proposals for overcoming them."

Talks on Disarmament.

The British premier referred to disarmament and past efforts to accomplish it, and admitted that "things have deteriorated a little"; but, he went on:

"What I say now is, keep the faith, keep the faith, and we shall win—you and we.

"I do not know who invented the expression 'a war to end war.' I would like to speak very plainly, even if you will accuse me of being rude. But whoever invented that was a fool.

"The one certain thing about war is that it makes another one equally certain. [Applause.] In all peace treaties that are imposed upon the vanquished there is a secret clause. Statesmen may say there is not. There is, although the statesmen have never seen it."

Holds Date of New War.

That secret clause, Mr. MacDonald said, is "the date of the next war," which is inevitable "unless the nations use a militarist peace to create a spiritual peace. And that is what we are trying to do at the present moment."

The premier spoke of the failure of alliances to insure peace and prosperity.

"Let's put documents on one side," he pleaded. "Let us put signatures on one side. Let us substitute for them the less tangible but the more real friendship based upon a complete understanding of each other, a friendship which will allow a quarrel, a friendship which will allow a difference of opinion, a friendship which will not be broken if we were to vote against each other in the league of nations, a friendship that suffers long and is kind because it is based on a complete understanding which enables us to do just as individuals do—look into each other's eyes, express sentiments."

Notables Are Present.

The prime minister was introduced by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who was toastmaster.

At the conclusion of Mr. MacDonald's address, John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, thanked the prime minister on behalf of the Pilgrims and in behalf of the people of America for "the great service you have done, not only to your country but equally to our own."

Railroad Special Agent Killed by Switch Engine

Davis Hints U. S. May Join Europe in Anti-War Pact

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 26.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, special American delegate to the disarmament conference, told that body today his government had the whole question of a consultative pact under advisement.

A recently submitted British plan for disarmament which aimed to coordinate efforts to promote an established peace through consultations and methodical coöperation when peace may be threatened or broken, he said, "introduces a new element for us" which the United States government is now considering.

Hinges on Real Disarmament.

"Our ability to make our collaboration effective will depend in large part on the measure of disarmament we now may be able to achieve," the American ambassador at large declared.

These remarks were interpreted by other delegates as indicating that the United States was disposed to strengthen the Briand-Kellogg treaty by an agreement to participate in a consultative pact.

The suggestion also was advanced that arms embargoes and boycotts against trade of an aggressor nation could be employed as an integral part of the peace machinery without resorting to war.

France and Germany Pleased.

The United States virtually promised the conference it will do big things to make the peace machinery more effective, but issued the warning that this will depend on whether other nationals make substantial arms reductions.

Mr. Davis' advocacy of effective world's fighting forces was especially and continuous supervision of the pleasing to the German and French delegates and was hailed as giving new hope and impetus to the conversations.

He went so far as to say "it may well be found advisable to reinforce measures of supervision and control already envisaged," apparently with the idea that a workable pact assuring military help for an attacked nation may not be possible of achievement.

France, which has suggested such a plan, has increasingly been in favor of armament supervision as an important measure of security against attack.

What U. S. Suggests.

The American suggestion was that the United States might participate in a system of armaments control similar to that created by the league of nations to restrict the use of narcotics to medical and scientific needs and under which a central committee not only controls but limits the manufacture of narcotics.

Because of the desire to await the detailed reaction of the conference, it was decided to drop the problem of security and discuss other features of the draft convention when the body reassembles on Friday.

Delegations from Cuba, Russia, Turkey, and The Little Entente, meanwhile, backed the Polish amendment to British arms reduction proposals. The Polish amendment would provide that "any recourse to force" as well as war should be regarded as a breach of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact and henceforth would justify consultation by the powers.

Woman, 28, Dies from Leap, Cuts and Burns

Miss Celia Atzinger, 28 years old, 525 Roscoe street, a house maid, died last night in the county hospital of burns and other injuries suffered on Tuesday. Police said she slashed her wrists and then leaped from a third floor window at 714 Cornelia avenue. She then ran into a basement at 710 Cornelia avenue where she crawled part way into an open furnace. She was dragged out by Adam Maichal, the janitor.

LAKE CO. SHOWS HOW IT DEALS WITH HOODLUMS

Action to drive known hoodlums out of Lake county was begun last night by State's Attorney Charles E. Mason at Waukegan, with the filing of new charges against James Ryan and John Barron, ex-convicts and reputed members of the Touhy gang.

They were arrested Tuesday at Wauconda carrying a repeating rifle, its number defaced, in their car. The automobile, police said, was used in a machine gun fight between gangs in Oak Park, Feb. 2. Preliminary charges were preferred against the men and they were held in the county jail over Tuesday night.

Last night William Scott Stewart appeared in Waukegan as attorney for Ryan and Barron, and sought to effect their release. Prosecutor Mason immediately preferred new charges, carrying a firearm and altering a gun number, against both men, and an additional charge of driving a car while drunk, against Ryan. Bonds for Ryan were set at $12,000 and for Barron at $10,000. Unable to supply the bail the hoodlums were held in jail for the second night.

RELIEF CLIENT'S BUSY BEE CAFE HUMMING AGAIN

A city restaurant license purchased with money donated by the emergency relief commission won a discharge for K. S. Papoutsis, proprietor of the Busy Bee café, 1209 West 69th street, in the Stockyards police court yesterday. Papoutsis, who had been ordered by Judge Leon Edelman to procure a license or go to jail, appeared in court, waved the document, and hurried back to his restaurant business.

The origin of the money used to purchase the license was not revealed in court. Judge Edelman, amazed by the revelation that the restaurant owner was on the relief rolls, had ordered a police investigation. Papoutsis, however, met further questioning yesterday concerning his relief activities with a shrug of his shoulders, and the police were instructed to continue their investigation.

"Troubles" Are Over Now.

A visit to the modernly equipped Busy Bee café yesterday revealed the source of the license money. As the investigator entered, Paptoutsis' daughter, Fanny, 17 years old, was waiting on four apparently satisfied customers.

"O, yes, our troubles are over now," she said in response to a question. "Papa took $15 the relief worker gave him and bought the license Tuesday."

She excused herself while she tuned down the restaurant radio and greeted a new customer.

"We've been on the relief roll since before Easter," the girl confided. "There are six in our family, three of them small children. We get two quarts of milk every day and free coal. Then between April 19 and May 7 we get $15 worth of free food."

Pays $50 a Month Rent.

Miss Papoutsis revealed that her father pays rent of $50 a month on the restaurant and hires one waiter. The restaurant, which advertises steaks, chops, and oysters "in season," is equipped with a porcelain bar, newest type refrigeration, steam table, and electric sign.

An examination of the relief records revealed that the statement of Miss Papoutsis concerning the relief received by the family was true. The family was first made a "client" of the relief commission by L. Cadwell, a worker at the 63d street and Ashland avenue relief station. Cadwell was later shifted to the gardening department. A Miss Naghenson and a Miss Davin have since worked in the territory and the relief for the Papoutsis family has continued under both régimes.

ARMY REVOLT BARED IN CUBA; SCORES JAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 26.—Disintegration of President Machado's armed support was indicated today when more than 20 policemen and several scores of soldiers were imprisoned in Atares fortress.

Later one of the policemen, Jose M. Corbo, was taken to the Emergency hospital near death from slashes about his neck and wrists. Members of La Porra, government organization, had attacked him for failing to comply with instructions to "do away" with a certain student. Realizing they had failed to kill him, four La Porra members entered the hospital while Corbo was undergoing a blood transfusion and tried to finish the job. Attending physicians, however, prevented them from carrying out their plan.

U. S. to Run to Form, It's Predicted.

lobbyists, and national committeemen, and before you know what has come over you you are an expert, and when you go to parties pretty ladies push their pretty snoots close up to yours, bat their beautiful, trusting eyes, and entreat you to tell them all about the depression.

And where did all the money go to? And if they inflate the dollar will I have twice as much money? And if the farmers are growing too much corn and bacon and beef steak why are people hungry? And if I am broke and they double the dollar, will I be twice as broke as I am now? And, O, you great big, wonderful economic expert.

Worrying about all this seems to do no good. If I thought that a long worry, a strong worry, and a worry all together would help out I would stay away from ball games and concentrate, but I am beginning to learn from past observation that one crisis dissolves into another and my curiosity as to the outcome of these world emergencies is giving way to a fatalistic ease of mind.

Always Another Coming.

When this one is fixed up there will be another and when that one has been worried away our citizens will find that they have drifted into some climax having to do with the troubles of the Indian empire or the drawing of the color line by the New York prize fight commission.

This would be a fine time to start a backfire except that the backfire causes unrest, too. Here in Washington, while the statesmen were kicking the gong around on Tuesday afternoon and the fate of nations trembled on the brink of an abyss labeled "oblivion," a couple of hired ball players got into a fist fight on the town lot, a hundred citizens hopped onto the field and started flogging one another with 54 ounce ball bats and the episode outweighed everything else in the world for two editions of the local papers, including the venerable and reverend Washington Star, the only rival of the Directory of Directors.

Trying Out Guesses.

So what am I going to do? Does Mr. Roosevelt know the answer? I think Mr. Roosevelt is only trying out his guess, bearing in mind that even if he does guess wrong his life will not go with it and that, even if it should, dying might be not so bad compared to living amid the debris.

I don't think the statesmen know, I know the newspaper experts don't know, and I make no pretense that myself, a baseball and prize fight man, have the faintest idea as to how the dice are going to fall when they quit tumbling around. And, moreover, I am not very curious any more, bearing in mind that as soon as they show their numbers and this great climax in the affairs of the nation and the world is settled they will be seized up again, rattled around in the box, and chucked out once more to the worriment of another generation.

PARIS, April 26.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier today was represented by a member of his immediate circle as being willing to ask parliament for credits to pay the $19,261,432 war debt interest due the United States last Dec. 15 if President Roosevelt would offer a war debts moratorium for the duration of the world economic conference.

Daladier, it was said, feels that if Mr. Roosevelt can obtain such a holiday from congress he believes conditions made when the French parliament on Dec. 14 refused to authorize the payment will be fulfilled.

The French premier also is said to believe that great strides have been made in bringing together the French and American viewpoints on questions which now are being discussed in Washington by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, former Premier Herriot of France, and Mr. Roosevelt.

3 Power Money Pact Proposed.

France moved toward what financial experts hope will be a three power financial pact with the United States and Great Britain for the stabilization of currencies.

A French financial plan by which that portion of the British equalization fund which is in francs will be loaned to the French treasury to tide over the present need was under negotiation in Paris and London.

The accord was described as being primarily a treasury operation plan, but in financial quarters it was termed a means of protecting French gold stores and of helping stabilize the currency. That such an agreement may become the forerunner of a three power financial pact was expressed by some financial experts here.

It was said in official quarters that the negotiations in no way are connected with the American abandonment of the gold standard or with the Washington discussions, since they were originally broached by Finance Minister Georges Bonnet during a trip to London several weeks ago.

Frown on Domestic Loan.

His idea is to borrow the franc portion of the British equalization fund at the curernt rate of interest instead of attempting to float a loan in the domestic market, which financial circles regard as unfavorable at present.

Specifically, it was reported, France desires to prevent the heavy British drainage of gold in progress for some time. The British pound has been kept down by the British equalization fund francs.

Bankers estimate the amount of francs held by the British to be very large and say that the British have taken about $160,000,000 in gold from France since Jan. 1.

The agreement, which bankers said will prevent a big gold movement, was criticized by financiers as dangerous to France because these francs plus later accumulations might constitute sooner or later a menace to French gold.

BONUS BACKERS SEEK AID FROM INFLATION BILL

Attack Is Made on Gold Content Power.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—A bonus march upon the inflation issue was begun in the senate today.

To the inflation bill's authorization for a 3 billion dollar issue of greenbacks bonus payment advocates and extreme inflationists, under the leadership of Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.], proposed an amendment requiring as much of this currency as was needed to be used to pay off the adjusted service certificates.

Nor was the advance of the bonus forces the only attack calculated to disturb Democratic leaders pledged to put through the inflation amendment to the farm bill in the form approved by the administration.

Vandenberg Leads Drive.

A determined drive was opened by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] upon that section of the amendment giving the President power to alter at will the gold content of the dollar within a limitation of 50 per cent. To this effort was joined the persuasive voice of Senator William E. Borah [Radical, Idaho] and that of Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], while into the chinks of the Democratic argument for the amendment Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] kept plunging a wasp-like sting.

Added together the speeches of the bonus advocates and the opponents of the gold clause delayed the final vote that had been confidently predicted for today by Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader. As the day's session closed it was doubtful whether a vote could be reached before next Friday.

Silver Amendment Wins.

To that final vote—come what might in the way of bonus amendments or gold clause arguments—the administration leaders continued to look forward with confidence. And to prove that they had grounds for assurance they voted into the inflation program the free silver amendment of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.]. The amendment, with its authority for the President to inaugurate free coinage of silver at any given ratio, had White House approval. That was enough to send it over the top by a vote of 41 to 26, with 4 Republicans voting in its favor and 7 Democrats against.

On top of that victory, Leader Robinson closed a lengthy debate with senators fighting jealously for their right to speak at length by winning an agreement to limit debate beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Bonus Men Make Demands.

Loudest in their demands to be heard were the sponsors of the bonus amendment. They declared it was the one way to be sure the greenbacks contemplated in the bill were actually put into circulation.

"I understand there's been some midnight conferences going on and that even if we pass the bill there isn't going to be any inflation," said Senator Huey Long, Louisiana radical. "Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, the leader of the anti-inflationists, is looking too satisfied to suit me."

In the house, too, while the senate debate continued, the bonus issue flared up suddenly under the guiding hand of Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], and caused consternation among regular Democratic leaders. Backed by his so-called inflationist bloc, Mr. Patman declared he had the support and the intention to force a Democratic party caucus on the bonus question next Monday night.

Summoned to Conference.

He was hastily summoned to a conference with Speaker Henry T. Rainey and Majority Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns tomorrow morning. Under Democratic rules, 25 signatures on a petition can force a party meeting, at which a two-thirds vote would bind the house majority behind a bonus-inflation plan.

"It is not our desire to do anything that would embarrass the administration's program," said Mr. Patman, "but we feel that in these days of talk about currency expansion we should consider the best way of distributing the money. It is our contention that it can best be distributed through the veterans."

It was Senator Vandenberg who expressed the feelings of numerous senators—both those who will vote for the inflation bill and against their convictions as a matter of party duty, and those who will vote against the amendment—when he explained that he stood between the two extremes. He declined to reject the entire inflation program; he declined, on the other hand, to surrender to the executive the power to amend the gold content of the dollar.

Sees Need for Action.

"I concede the existence of a disparity in the relationship between debtor and creditor which cannot be left any longer to the natural law," said the Michigan senator. "I concede that except as there may be a prompt and successful legislative contribution to this economic situation, it is entirely possible that we confront not only bankrupt individuals, bankrupt corporations, bankrupt municipalities, but bankrupt states.

"In the face of such situation of that character I decline to entrench myself against all experiment and adventure. There is a new administration which has a clear mandate to make its own attempts to proceed by a different course.

"I submit that we are justified in permitting a potential inflation program to proceed, but not to the point where it is proposed to permit the President, if, as and when he pleases, responding to his own whim or his own judgment and always upon his own initiative, to rule or ruin the value and the volume of the gold dollar and therefore the monetary system of the United States."

That section of the bill, said Senator Vandenberg, was "unconscionable"; it smacked of dictatorship; it was unnecessary; it was unconstitutional.

"Casts Shadow on Credit."

"It also serves," he declared, "to defeat the very purpose of the balance of the bill. First, because it creates a status of perpetual uncertainty in respect to the standards of value upon which American business shall be done. And, secondly, because it casts a shadow upon the faith and credit of the United States in respect to its monetary contracts, and it casts that shadow at the precise moment when under the so-called greenback section of the bill we are going to ask the American people to trust the faith and credit of the United States backed by nothing else, as they have not trusted it since 1862."

He believed the section of the bill dealing with expansion through open market operations safe and sound, said the senator from Michigan. He recognized the extreme danger of reviving the 1862 greenback act for an issue of 3 billions of treasury notes, but in the emergency would vote for such a proposal. In case these failed he might be willing to devalue the dollar. But he insisted that that devaluation should not be done by "sublet-ting" to the President the constitutional power of congress.

"There has been much said by Democratic senators concerning the interest of former secretaries of the treasury, Mellon and Mills, in opposing this bill," said Senator Vandenberg. "But I wish to point out that two Democratic former secretaries of the treasury, Senators Glass and McAdoo, voted against the gold section of the bill when it was in the banking and currency committee.

"If four ex-secretaries of the treasury, two Republicans and two Democrats, are united in recommending that this section ought to go out, then the rest of us have received some advice worth heeding."

Senator Steiwer followed, then Senator Borah. As an ardent inflationist, Senator Borah could find only conservatism in the inflation bill with the exception of the gold content clause. To Senator Glass' objection that the open market section would require the federal reserve board to govern itself, not in accordance with the need of business and industry for credit, but in accordance with the treasury's need of money, he replied smilingly that the section did not provide inflation enough.

"But the devaluation of the gold dollar is the most deflationary provision ever put in any bill," said the Idaho senator.

Yet, unlike Senator Vandenberg, Senator Borah believed so thoroughly in inflation that he would vote for the bill even if the gold content provision were left in.

REPORT STEAMER IN DISTRESS OFF EASTERN CANADA

MONTREAL, April 26.—(AP)—The signal service of the department of marine tonight received a report that the liner Dominica had requested assistance at the eastern end of Northumberland strait.

It was believed here the vessel had become lodged in an ice field shortly after leaving Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. She sailed from here last Saturday for Charlottetown, St. Pierre et Miquelon, St. John's, N. F., Halifax and New York.

The N. B. McLean, an ice breaker, reported she was proceeding to the assistance of the Dominica 14 miles west of Cape George and near Pictou, N. S.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR U. S. RULE OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

The proposed program of declaring a virtual federal dictatorship over the dairy industry and all large metropolitan milk markets, which has been outlined by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in Kashington, was discussed by officials of Chicago milk companies in a meeting at the Morrison hotel last night.

Three men are being mentioned in the dairy industry as possibilities for the post, it was said. The appointee would have powers somewhat similar to those granted the federal food commission during the world war, it was said.

Harry Hartke of Cincinnati, president of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' association; Dr. Clyde L. King of Philadelphia, milk arbiter for Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities, and Harry C. Darger, 2022 Lincoln street, Evanston, former general manager of Blue Valley Butter company, have been recommended by various dairy associations.

Milk companies here have declined to indicate their preference, although the Pure Milk association, representing 18,000 dairy farmers supplying Chicago, has endorsed Hartke.

U. S. CUTS TAXES ON TWO $1,000,000 CHICAGO ESTATES

The treasury department at Washington yesterday announced abatements of federal inheritance taxes on two Chicago estates because of state taxes paid. The estate of Florence E. Golden was granted an abatement of $54,007, and that of William P. Martin, $161,076.

Mrs. Golden died Aug. 30, 1929. Her will named her husband, Dr. John F. Golden, Chicago surgeon, sole beneficiary of her $1,500,000 estate.

Mr. Martin, former chairman of the board of the Stromberg Electrical company, died on Oct. 13, 1929. His will left an estate of $1,050,000 to his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Key Martin, and two children, William P. Martin Jr., and Mrs. Helen Howard of San Mateo, Cal.

COL. M'CORMICK SHOWS POLITICS PERILS BUSINESS

Cites Mounting Burden of Taxation.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—The time has come when business men must enter politics or face seeing "their private business and the general welfare wrecked by people who are in public life for exactly that purpose," Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, told the Bond club at luncheon today. Among his hearers were George F. Baker and Otto Kahn.

"I do not say that with any lack of emphasis," he continued, "for while I believe that the greater number of men in public office are there seeking a livelihood, they are dominated by the communistic element which is very close to establishing a stranglehold upon us.

Little Time to Lose.

"I venture to say that there is but little time to lose. The grip is almost overpowering today: the railroads under the domination of a bureaucracy; finance controlled from Washington; agriculture about to receive a dictator; the very hours of occupation to be regulated by a lady secretary of labor.

"My own industry has shown a certain amount of spunk and at great effort and considerable expense has so far stalled off the censorship of the press. But one industry cannot be free if every other one is enslaved."

He ascribed a large part of our current difficulties to high taxation and said that "taxes took money away from reinvestment, taxes took money away from building, took money from living expenses, took money out of trade, took money from wages, from interest payments.

Finally Destroys Principal.

"Finally taxes took money from principal, forcing the sale of securities and properties and bringing about the collapse of values of all kinds. Taxation took money out of the banks and caused the banks to close. Eventually taxation had taken money from taxation, as taxes could no longer be paid."

He cited the parades of unpaid school teachers in Chicago and referred humorously to "the threatening statements of Mayor O'Brien that the credit of this great city is dependent upon criminal prosecution for its preservation."

"Now," he continued, "everybody seems to admit that congress is about to pass a law devaluating the dollar, and depreciating the value of all savings in the banks, and of every bond. If it stops there we will be like a patient whose illness is finally being diagnosed and who may be set upon the road to recovery, for much good has been done in Washington in the elimination of vast and utterly unnecessary public expense, and much good has been done in many states and cities.

Radicals Let Loose.

"But there have also been let loose the forces of destruction, as represented by Senators Long, Thomas, and others, who preach the violation by our whole people of the commandments 'Thou shalt not covet' and 'Thou shalt not steal.' They cry out to make the rich poorer, and by so doing make the poorer destitute."

He said that doctrines such as he had outlined were formerly ascribed to the far west "and possibly the south," but that today "their leading exponents are residents of your own city, and the wildest nonsense being taught in the oldest colleges, setting the style for other pink professors."

Col. McCormick cited a movement of business and professional men started in Milwaukee which, he said, "must become nation-wide." He said it was "a movement of men of your own stripe to engage actively and continuously in public affairs."

And "following their example," he suggested to his hearers a program of action including the securing of men for local, state, and national affairs "who not only have sound conceptions of public affairs and of economics, but who are qualified to be leaders." He said it was "not enough to send some solid, dumb fellow, who will sit and vote right. You must send men who can lead."

Spread Sound Doctrines.

He also stressed the importance of organizing "to spread, by the spoken word and the written word, sound doctrines and sound economics, to meet in fair debate and vanquish the false theories which now have a monopoly on the soap box, the radio, the professors' rostrum, the halls of congress, and, too much, the columns of the press." He said that business men must finally join with others in a nation-wide organization with chapters in every community.

He concluded by saying that America had overcome seemingly imminent catastrophe before and "I do not despair that we will save our country now."

Asked later what he meant by a nation-wide organization, he said he envisioned something nonpartisan "something like the Crusaders," and he referred reporters to Arthur T. Spence, president of the Linton club, the Milwaukee movement to which he had referred in his speech. Mr. Spence said that it was nonpartisan and had as its platform "sanity, honesty and economy in government" and had as its main purpose the organizing of citizens to back men of high caliber for public office.

James Pinelli, the pilot, was left hanging helplessly by his safety belt from the rear cockpit when the crash occurred. Fortunately, his companion, Harold Hearst, who was thrown clear and landed unhurt on marshy ground, was able to free him.

ATTORNEY LEE GIVES BOND IN INSURANCE CASE

Attorney John H. S. Lee, prominent attorney, and two others named in indictments voted by the grand jury Tuesday in connection with alleged real estate mortgage frauds, disclosed with the collapse of the Security Life Insurance company and its subsidiaries, gave bond yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. The others who gave bond are Attorney Harry S. Tressel and Harry W. Huttig, one of the owners of the Manufacturers' Terminal company. This company was the owner of a vacant Waukegan factory, on which $1,705,000 in mortgages were saddled and sold to the Security Life and its subsidiaries.

"I have lived in this community for more than forty years, and this is the first time that my personal or professional integrity has ever been questioned," said the statement. "A trial of the present charges will completely establish my innocence."

Attorney Lee said that he has not been a stockholders in the Manufacturers' Terminal company since 1928.

"I did not know until recently that the mortgages placed on the property had been sold to insurance companies," Attorney Lee said. "If any fraud was committed through the sale of these mortgages it was something with which I had no connection, directly or indirectly."

Machir J. Dorsey, president of the insurance companies and considered the main defendant in the case, will surrender today, according to Attorney Roy D. Keehn.

RAIDS FOLLOW FOUR BOMBINGS IN RACKET WAR

Raids were made yesterday on the offices of the Associated Sheet Metal Employers, 350 North Clark street, and of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, local 73, at 620 South Ashland avenue, in pursuance of State's Attorney Courtney's announcement that he intends to break up all racketeering organizations preying on business interests. The raids followed the placing of four bombs in other industries yesterday morning, none of which caused any considerable damage.

James Close, president and business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, and Charles West, a business agent, were arrested in union headquarters by detectives under Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty.

Seize Books and Records.

Books and records were taken from there, as well as from the offices of the employers. George Krutchkoff, president, and Fred Ponchot, secretary of the employers' association, had been named in warrants issued by Judge Matthew Hartigan, but they were not found in the headquarters.

Mr. Dougherty said he had subpœnæd thirty members of the employers' association to appear before the grand jury today. On information previously given him he had charged Close, West, Krutchkoff, and Ponchot with conspiracy to boycott contractors. Close and West were indicted on similar charges in 1929, but were not prosecuted.

Pay to Avoid Violence.

Prosecutor Dougherty said contractors were first bludgeoned into joining the employers' organization with initiation fees of $1,000. The fees have since been reduced to $500, he said. In addition, he declared, the contractors are required to pay 3 per cent on every contract into the organization, and those who refuse to join immediately have trouble with the union. If they are members and are recalcitrant, strikes or boycotts are called against them.

Many of the contractors who talked to State's Attorney Courtney said that with competition so keen they could not afford to pay money to the association and therefore they were unable to get contracts. The organization headed by Krutchkoff is more or less of a price fixing agency, Mr. Courtney was told, the contractors being told how much to bid and the contracts awarded at the will of the heads of the combination of employers' association and union officials.

Promises Protection.

By joining their forces the racketeers have a strangle hold on the business, Mr. Courtney said, with the contractors being puppets for them. The contractor who wishes to escape this load on his back can do so by testifying before the grand jury and at the trial, the prosecutors declared.

State's Attorney Courtney has promised business men protection if they would report any threats to him. He said all the forces of his office would be used to protect them against bombings or other forms of violence or sabotage.

The bombs yesterday did not involve the sheet metal industry.

A dynamite bomb was exploded in the rear of 31 South Crawford avenue, a fur shop operated by B. Stoken, but was believed to have been intended for the Checker cleaning place at 33 South Crawford avenue. It caused damage of only $50. Police found an unexploded bomb in front of another of the Checker cleaners' chain of shops at 3435 Lawrence avenue.

BRITAIN'S FAMED BACHELOR JUDGE FOUND SHOT DEAD

McCardie Believed to Have Killed Self.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—England's famous "bachelor judge," Sir Henry Alfred McCardie, famed for opinions handed down on marital cases in his court, was found dead with a bullet wound in his head at his London home, Queen Anne's Mansions, tonight. He was 63 years old.

The discovery was made by a servant who, hearing a shot, rushed to his room and found Sir Henry lying on the floor unconscious and bleeding. A rifle with some string tied to the trigger and to the judge's hand was lying near by. A doctor was summoned immediately, but Justice McCardie was dead when he arrived.

Followed Influenza Attacks.

The tragedy followed two severe attacks of influenza. Recently it was stated Sir Henry was making slow recovery, but that he was not well enough to take his seat on the King's Bench division this week when the law courts resumed after the Easter recess.

Sir Henry recently complained to friends of fits of depression and general weakness. At luncheon today he appeared in his usual spirits, although he was obviously ill. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Justice McCardie was appointed a judge of the high court in 1916 and was one of the few judges elevated to the bench as a junior barrister. He soon achieved renown as a "bachelor judge" for his comments on marital relationships. The most recent "cause célèbre" in which he figured was the "enticement" case in which he laid down the principle that a married woman has the right to choose her own company so long as infidelity is not involved.

Gained Much Prominence.

His outspoken views and comments on such matters as women's dress, birth control, abortion and sterilization brought him constantly into prominence.

Sir Henry came into conflict last year with Justice Sir Thomas E. Scrutton of the Appeals court over one of his verdicts in a case involving marital relations. Sir Thomas reversed the decision, and, referring to Sir Henry's unmarried status, commented: "If there is to be a discussion of the relations of husband and wife I think it will come better from judges who have more than a theoretical knowledge of those relations."

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

MAYOR AND AIDS CARRY PAY FIGHT TO SPRINGFIELD

Board Defers Action on School Closing.

on May 12 and stay closed until Oct. 1. doors were shut behind them. Then they divided into two groups and went to the city hall and the school board meeting.

The school trustees, at a conference in the office of the school board's president, Orville J. Taylor, had already reached a decision to defer until May 10 any action on closing the schools. President Taylor proposed on Tuesday that the board vote yesterday to close But yesterday Mr. Taylor said:

"I feel that Mayor Kelly should be accorded a fair opportunity. His program is not only legislative, to bring in the taxes, but is a constructive program with the Chicago banks in the picture. Although in the past I opposed closing the schools, my views have changed in the last few days. But I believe the board is taking a correct position in deferring action on closing to give Mayor Kelly time to accomplish his program."

The board adopted a resolution by Trustee Ernst Buehler, indorsing Mayor Kelly's program, by a unanimous vote. The special legislative committee, consisting of Trustees Buehler, Joseph P. Savage, and H. Wallace Caldwell, accompanied President Taylor to Springfield last night to urge legislators to pass it.

Council Acts to Aid Schools.

The city council meanwhile had taken two actions to help the school board in its financial difficulties.

It authorized the city controller and treasurer to accept interim certificates from the board in place of 1933 tax warrants, in case an opportunity is found to sell school warrants now held by the city. The school board cannot issue the 1933 warrants now, because the council has not yet adopted its 1933 tax levies.

The council also instructed the corporation counsel to draft a bill permitting the school board to sell deficiency bonds to redeem about $9,000,000 worth of outstanding 1929 school board tax warrants.

Opens Drive for Taxes.

State's Attorney Courtney's opening of the court campaign to collect $100,000,000 in back taxes was carried out in two actions. He filed before County Judge Jarecki a series of informations demanding that nine property owners and the Chicago Title and Trust company, as escrow holder of funds set aside for taxes, appear in Judge Jarecki's court on May 9 for examination of their income records. The prosecutor's informations made the threat of criminal action or appointment of receivers for properties involved.

Later, Mr. Courtney announced through Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax division of the prosecutor's office, that tax experts had begun an examination of all receiverships in the Circuit and Superior courts to determine which receivers had been lax in paying their taxes, and to force such receivers to pay their delinquent taxes at once.

Government Periled, He Says.

When Mr. Courtney appeared before Judge Jarecki he asserted that the existence of government in Cook county was threatened because of the breakdown of tax collections.

It was requested that the Chicago Title and Trust company be ordered to turn over to the county treasurer in payment of taxes the funds it holds in escrow. Attorney Bell estimated that $10,000,000 of such funds are so held.

President Pettibone said last night that there were "a limited number of escrows" deposited with his organization. Such funds, he said, are subject only to the owners, and the Chicago Title and Trust company has no authority to pay them out except on owners' orders. Mr. Pettibone added that the company had paid taxes in full on its own buildings and had filed no objections, based on alleged invalidity, to taxes on properties it controls.

Property Owners Named.

The property owners against whom the informations were filed, and who were referred to in the documents as "tax strikers" and "conspirators against the existence of law and order," are:

Nathan William MacChesney, attorney, who is prominent in political and real estate circles, as owner of a property at 367 North Michigan avenue for which $20,365 in taxes for the years 1929 to 1931 are delinquent.

Jacob L. Kesner, former official of the Real Estate Taxpayers' association, the leading organization against payment of taxes which coined the phrase "tax strike," as owner of two properties, 5 North Wabash avenue, and 218 South State street, on which $387,898 taxes are delinquent.

The Hotel La Salle company, delinquent $490,110.

The Pontiac Building corporation, 50 West Harrison street, delinquent $53,708.

Attorney Bell said that the nine loop properties against which the informations were filed were the first of 2,500 which will be taken into court.

SUED FOR $100,000

[Acme Photo.]

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Fay Webb Vallee, wife of Rudy Vallee, the crooner, was made defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed in Supreme court today. The plaintiff is Kathleen Smythe, who describes herself as being in private life Mrs. Garfield Leon, wife of the dancer by that name.

In her petition Miss Smythe or Mrs. Leon accuses Mrs. Vallee of having broken up the Leon home by her attentions to the dancer.

Though Leon has recently denied he was married, the complaint states that he and Kathleen Smythe lived together and that she was frequently introduced as his wife.

In her allegations against Mrs. Vallee the complainant charges "she sought to persuade him (Gary Leon) and entice him by offers of money and otherwise to leave the plaintiff without support and go with the defendant to Santa Monica, Cal."

Mrs. Vallee is reported to be preparing to seek a divorce at Reno.

ILLINOIS HOUSE APPROVES NEW TAX ENFORCING

Votes County Treasurers Receiver's Role.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Gleaning support from the downstate bloc, which is continually demanding that Chicago pay its taxes, the Skarda bill aimed at the Cook county tax strike was passed in the house today. It went over by a vote of 112 to 25. It was speeded to the senate. There Mayor Kelly is expected to plead in its behalf tomorrow.

A repetition of claims from Democratic proponents that the bill is the best battering ram against the barriers of the tax strikers featured the debate before and during the long roll call. At times the talk became acrimonious; more than a little political.

Officials as Receivers.

The explanation, however, was that the measure would enable appointment of county collectors [treasurers] as receivers for property on which taxes were delinquent for more than six months presented an attractive picture for the downstaters.

The receivers would be allowed to collect the income on these properties to pay delinquent tax bills—the receivership lasting until the bills were paid in full.

The downstaters listened avidly as Benjamin S. Adamowski and others declared that placing such broad powers in the hands of the collectors would hasten payment of millions of "stubborn" dollars in the hands of those who could, but have not, paid. The bill was drastic, these proponents admitted, but not more so than the situation demanded. Adamowski said that the $50,000,000 Cook owes the state would come rolling in if the bill went through.

Clash Over Taxes Due.

Republican floor leader Schnackenberg of Chicago and half a dozen others protested that small home owners would suffer by its passage, but they were met by the assertion—from Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur]—that 79 per cent of the unpaid tax bills in Cook county were for sums of $10,000 or more.

Several of the Republicans were believed to have been influenced by the vote of former Speaker David E Shanahan [Rep., Chicago]. He favored the bill.

The cause of passage was also advanced by F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson]. He told his downstate colleagues that he didn't see how any of them could vote against it. William J. Lawler [Rep., Springfield] and Frederick W. Rennick [Rep., Buda] gave similar advice.

Mr. Schnackenberg maintained that passage would work an injustice upon property owners who live on their property. They would have to pay rent for their own occupancy, he said. Edwin B. Bederman [Rep., Chicago] termed the measure "a dangerous bill." R. V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago] said it was political, and David I. Swanson [Rep., Chicago] declared that it would increase rents and predicted that the receiverships would be dragged out to great lengths.

Makes Hottest Attack.

Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] made the most vitriolic attack of the afternoon.

He said that two of Gov. Horner's appointees, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, and Tax Commissioner Barnet Hodes, were among the originators of the tax strike. He cited their former connection with the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers.

"If they were smart enough to start the tax strike, they ought to be smart enough to stop it," Searle declared.

This drew fire from Representative Doyle of Decatur. He said that such a declaration had no more to do with the bill than had the man in the moon. Actually, Doyle said, Lindheimer and Hodes had not been connected with the tax strike group for many months.

Another bill of the Kelly-Horner tax program was introduced in the senate by Richey Graham, majority leader. That provides that no taxpayer could enter a protest against his assessment until he had paid 75 per cent of the bill. That bill was agreed on at the conference between the governor, the mayor, and others.

Beer Bill Is Signed by Gov. Horner.

delegates were elected at a special election entirely separated from the judicial election of June 5. He said he considered the bill "a mistake" that would have tremendous effect on the outcome of the judicial elections in some downstate sections. Mason suggested a special election in June separate from the judicial.

The only other interesting statement during this roll call came from J. S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall].

"The Supreme court justice from my district asked me to vote against this bill," he said. "He is a man for whom I have a very high regard and I promised him. So I vote 'no.'"

Then came the roll call with the 40 to 5 victory for the sponsors of immediate action.

Ward Sponsors Beer Bill.

Sponsorship for the beer bill in the senate today also fell to Senator Ward. He called up the measure and explained it. Minority Leader Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] then made an argument for immediate passage of the regulation bill which observers believed caused a swing of votes to it.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that this bill can be passed by a majority vote of both houses without the emergency clause and become effective July 1. Wouldn't it be wise to pass it now and then in the next two months there still would be time to pass amendatory bills? Wouldn't that be wiser than delaying the bill until the last moment only to see it pass and become effective on July 1 in its present form with no opportunity to amend it for two years?"

James A. Monroe [Dem. Collinsville] repeated some of his last week's arguments and the roll call was begun. James J. Barbour [Rep. Evanston] passed his vote by saying that it was more of a dry bill than a wet bill, but that his vote was not necessary for its passage. The vote of 38 to 11 was a gain of nine votes since last Wednesday.

$50 State License.

The beer bill places a $50 state tax upon all retailers who sell the beverage in the state. A tax of 2 cents per gallon is imposed upon all beer brewed in or imported into the state. A separate clause in the bill declares that these taxes shall be in addition to the state sales tax of three per cent.

Licenses may be issued by the state department of finance to citizens of the United States of good moral character who have not been convicted of a felony. No license may be issued by the state until the retailer has obtained license from local authority—in the cities from municipal officers and outside city limits from county boards.

Establishments within 100 feet of churches, schools, hospitals, and military posts will not be licensed, except in the case of hotels, restaurants, and clubs established before the enactment of the law.

A bond of $500 is required of retailers to guarantee their observance of state and federal laws. Downstate cities or county boards may not assess a license fee of more than $200. The Chicago fee will be set by the city council without limit.

The licenses will be sent to county clerks by the state department of finance to save applicants the inconvenience of applying in Springfield. Governor Horner is hopeful that the new legislation will gather $5,000,000 annually for the state.

CARPENTER DIES AFTER FALL.

Charles Anderson, 48 years old, a carpenter, died yesterday in his home at 4048 Rose avenue, Western Springs, of injuries received earlier when he fell from a scaffold while working on a building in the village.

Council Extends Beer Tax to All Retail Dispensers

The city council yesterday passed two amendments to the Chicago beer sale ordinance.

One makes all retail dispensers of the 3.2 per cent brew liable to taxation and prorates the license fee for the time the licensee actually is in the business. The second amendment compels the manufacturer to have his name blown in the bottles or burned into the kegs and forces him to state on the labels the exact amount of the alcoholic content of the beverage and the date the beer was brewed and put in containers.

The fee setup, however, is a temporary measure, as the ordinance as amended is effective only to July 1. Three ordinances, containing proposals for the regulation of the beer trade, are pending before the license committee, and hearings will be held on them shortly. Before July 1 the committee hopes to have drafted a permanent measure for controlling the trade.

All Must Buy Licenses.

Under the ordinance as originally drawn, only places which sold beer for consumption on the premises were required to obtain licenses. The phrase, "for consumption on the premises" was eliminated in the first amendment, and consequently druggists, grocers, ice cream parlors, and all other retailers dispensing beer must now be licensed.

Sellers were favored, however, by the provision for prorating of the license fee for the first half of 1933. The rate was $150 to July 1, but only the time in which the retailer actually is in the business must be paid for under the amendment. One who started selling on April 7 will have to pay slightly less than $75. Each applicant for a license must furnish an affidavit stating the length of time he has been selling.

Druggists, grocers, and others who have been selling since beer came back, and who decide to go out of the dispensing business now, will not have to pay any license fees. Those who stay in must get a license for the whole period involved, however.

Blow to Unlicensed Places.

Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th] reported that this amendment was approved by the entire license committee, as it would bring all sellers of beer under control and would eliminate unfair competition, existing where some sold without license. Ald. John Toman [23d] declared some unlicensed places were selling beer below cost, and that he knew of a Chinese laundryman who gave away a bottle with every dollar's worth of business.

The idea of compelling the manufacturer to show the alcoholic content of his beverage and properly identifying the containers was that of Mayor Kelly. Under the ordinance as it now stands the mere statement that the beer contains no more than 4 per cent alcohol by weight will not be sufficient. The buyer will know just what alcoholic content he gets.

Both the amendments take effect as soon as they are signed by the mayor.

EX-ALD. ANDERSON NAMED A MEMBER OF CIVIL SERVICE

Albert O. Anderson, former alderman, was appointed a member of the city civil service commission yesterday by Mayor Kelly to succeed Prof. Leonard D. White of the University of Chicago, whose term had expired. The council immediately confirmed the appointment and also the appointment of John A. Castans as a member of the board of examining plumbers, to succeed Michael J. Howlett.

Mr. Anderson, who lives at 5639 Kenmore avenue, was elected alderman from the old 33d ward in 1918 and served in the council for five years. He was the father of the measure that rid the city of a large number of miscellaneous tag days. He is a Republican and will be the minority member of the commission.

Mayor Kelly presented a communication to the council requesting speed in the drafting of a taxicab regulatory ordinance in time for the World's Fair opening. He mentioned the advisability of reducing fares and getting new revenue. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee, said a draft of the new ordinance would be ready within three weeks.

BOTH SIDES MAP JUNE 5 JUDICIAL ELECTION DRIVES

Both major parties began yesterday to map out their campaigns for the June 5 judicial elections. The drive for the Democratic fusion ticket, which includes nine Republican judges who are running under the Democratic circle, is to be directed from headquarters at the Morrison hotel. The Republicans, who have a full ticket in the field for the Circuit, Superior and Probate benches, have opened headquarters at the Hotel Sherman.

Lawyers for both parties yesterday studied the petitions filed on Tuesday by the promoters of the third judicial ticket, and it was indicated that if the petitions are found below the required number of signatures motions to reject the third party slate will be filed.

Meanwhile the Chicago Bar association prepared to distribute blanks for its bar primary vote on the candidates who will appear on the June 5 ballot.

ROB HAT STORE OF $35.

Two bandits took $35 in a robbery of the Wormser Hat store at 239 South Dearborn street after threatening the clerk, Ralph Bookhorft, with revolvers early yesterday.

MICHIGAN BEER BILL IS PASSED, BUT FACES VETO

Lansing, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—The state legislature today passed and sent to Gov. William A. Comstock a bill legalizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Michigan. The measure bears an immediate effect clause.

Despite the final success of the long struggle to gain accord on the measure in a seriously divided legislature, there was every indication that the bill would draw a veto.

The governor during the morning had promised to disapprove the bill if it reached him in the form approved in the senate by a 30 to 2 vote. At that time, however, he had been confident that administration influence would be sufficiently strong in the house to prevent concurrence in senate amendments objectionable to him. The house, however, concurred in the senate changes, 55 to 41.

MRS. CLARK GIVES HER VERSION OF HARRIS ROMANCE

Expected to Marry Son of Banker, She Says.

Mrs. Dorothy Funk Clark, former wife of James G. Clark of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., who brought a $300,000 "mystery" suit against Norman W. Harris, son of the chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, yesterday said:

"I want people to know that I never got, or expected to get, money from Norman Harris. I want them to know that I have equal custody of my two children with Jimmie Clark [her ex-husband], and I want them to know that I have been supporting my children, while they were with me, on only $1 a day in New York city."

Mrs. Clark was sitting in the office of her attorney after appearing under subpœna in the rooms of the Chicago Bar association to make a deposition. The subpœna was obtained by Attorney Lloyd Whitman, counsel for Clark, who has filed suit in federal court against Harris charging alienation of Mrs. Clark's affections. Last December in the Circuit court, Judge John R. Caverly dismissed the $300,000 "mystery" suit, holding that it was a variety of the "old badger game." Harris, who is married, lives in Winnetka.

Never Sees Ex-Husband.

"I also want people to know that since leaving my husband in Madison, Wis., in September, 1931, I have never seen him save when he brought our children to the home of friends where I always received them," Mrs. Clark added. "I have had nothing to do with my husband's suits. It is absolutely untrue that there was any collusion between us. I have no suit pending anywhere against anyone, and I don't expect to file any."

In Clark's suit in the Circuit court it was revealed that Clark returned from a visit to New York City to his home in Madison in July, 1931, to find Harris there. The testimony showed that Harris then agreed to pay Clark $500 a month for life and to give the Clarks' children, June, now 10 years old, and Judith, aged 7, a $200,000 trust fund. It also was revealed that Harris had willed a large part of his personal fortune to Mrs. Clark.

Agrees to Marry Him.

During her testimony yesterday Mrs. Clark related that these financial provisions were made by Harris after she had agreed to marry him. She said that Harris had persuaded her to divorce her husband, and that he made the provisions for her and the children, "because he was mad about them," and because he wanted to protect her during the period before their marriage. The money to Clark was given "just to be decent about the whole thing, and to soften the blow," she said.

Mrs. Clark said she first met Harris at a garden party given by Mrs. Henry F. Tenney of 193 Chestnut street, Winnetka, where she was giving an exhibition of her crayon portraits. He paid her "casual attention," Mrs. Clark said, sending her roses and urging her to call on him while she was visiting Chicago.

In February, 1931, she continued, Clark went to New York on business and Harris began paying her marked attention. He would often come to Madison and would telephone her from Chicago every day.

"Don't you see," she said, "Jimmie had been gone several months; Madison was a dull town, and Norman was very charming company.

Sends Letter to Husband.

By July, she said, Harris had demanded that she divorce Clark and marry him. Her letter to Clark, which was mentioned in the Circuit court trial, was practically dictated by Harris, she said.

"All the time Jimmie was away," she said, "he had no idea that I was seeing Norman. In fact, he had told me not to see him. When he got the letter he immediately drove back to Madison."

Clark returned on a Friday morning, Mrs. Clark said, walking into the house to find his wife and Harris in her sitting room.

"He walked in with tears streaming down his face. That night there was no talk of money. It was only later when Norman and I talked it over that he suggested all the things he later did.

Obtains Reno Divorce.

After a month of "hectic days, with both Clark and Harris crying on my shoulders," she went to Reno and obtained a divorce, Mrs. Clark said. Immediately afterward she was joined in New York City by Harris, she said. She was given a suite at the St. Moritz hotel and Harris took a room there, she said.

"Norman told me that we would be married immediately, but after three days, on Oct. 20, 1931, he left me to come to Chicago," continued Mrs. Clark. "He kept telephoning me that he was preparing to divorce his wife, and he wrote me several letters to that effect.

"On Jan. 22, 1932, I got the most terrible letter. He said he had lost confidence in me and that we must go our separate ways. Since then I have never heard from him."

Mrs. Clark said that she is employed as a commercial artist in New York City and lives at 18 East 58th street. Her former husband, she said, is keeping their children at the Bedford-Green inn, Bedford, N. Y. The deposition which will be the property of Attorney Whitman, will be introduced in evidence in the alienation suit, he said. Attorneys Jay Fred Reeve and J. B. Martineau Jr., counsel for Harris, objected to the taking of the deposition, but their objections were overruled. The hearing will continue this morning.

SALE OF CHURCH FOR DEBT IS PREVENTED BY RETURN OF BEER

Charleston, W. Va., April 26.—[Special.]—Former Mayor W. W. Wertz's implied plea, that because of the return of beer and further repeal of the prohibition laws may be just around the corner the Charleston Atkinson Methodist Episcopal church may be able to meet its financial obligations, today halted the sale of the church property through an injunction granted by Circuit Judge Arthur P. Hudson.

The sale was asked to pay off a $10,000 note.

In his petition the former mayor pointed out that the church draws its membership from employés of the Libbey-Owens-Ford and the Owens-Illinois Glass companies, who have resumed production after a year's layoff with the return of legal beer.

The Owens-Illinois has just increased its force to 6,000 workmen and has announced that repeal will add 1,000 men to its plant.

LAWYER DELVES INTO REINSURING PLAN FOR ILL. LIFE

Seeks Facts on Profit to Be Made by Company.

Attorneys for dissenting policyholders of the Illinois Life Insurance company spent all day yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson striving to pick flaws in the reinsurance contract offered to the policyholders by James S. Kemper & Co., insurance engineers. The company which the Kemper interests propose to form would be known as the Mutual Protective Life Insurance company.

Attorney James W. Milne, representing a group of agents and policyholders of Illinois Life, spent most of the time questioning Edward B. Fackler, New York actuary, concerning salaries and profits likely to accrue to the Kemper interests in the reorganization. Mr. Fackler is the expert on whose advice Abel Davis, receiver of Illinois Life, recommended to the court this selection of the Kemper proposal from among a dozen bids.

Questioned About Return.

Alluding to the $1,250,000 of new capital and surplus which the Kemper interests offer to provide, the lawyer sought to gain an admission that the return the contract provides for the new money was out of proportion to the risk involved. The questioning by Attorney Milne was, in part, as follows:

Q.—There will be very little risk of incurring losses on this money, will there not? A.—In the insurance business, losses go first against the premiums, second against the reserves, third against surplus, and last against capital. The new money is a secondary reserve.

Q.—Now then, the contract provides that the new company, meaning the policyholders, shall pay $75,000 annual interest on this money, whether it be used or not? A.—If the contract so provides you must be right.

Q.—And in addition to the $75,000 annual interest from policyholders the stockholders may reinvest all or part of the new money, bringing a further interest return to a total of say 9 per cent? A.—Part of it will be reinvested, I suppose.

On Reduction of Capital.

Q.—And yet, if the risk becomes great the stockholders could under this charter reduce the capital stock at any time to the legal minimum of $100,000? A.—As I understand the law a vote of both policyholders and stockholders is required to reduce the capital.

The attorney wanted to know if insertion of a clause limiting expenses of the new company might not afford protection to the policyholders. Judge Wilkerson interjected.

"Such a clause would operate about the same as a traction company guaranteeing a 5 cent fare," he observed. "We have no way of telling what a dollar will be worth a few years hence. With the fluctuation of money there is no way of determining what the expenses might be."

The Question of Protection.

Asserting that the proffered contract would permit the new company to rewrite some of the Illinois Life policies, Attorney Milne wanted to know what protection would be afforded to policyholders who chose to retain their old policies. He maintained that the new company might choose to rewrite only the profitable risks, leaving the less profitable class alone.

"That would be a short sighted course," the actuary maintained. "It would not be the thing a company of honesty and integrity would do."

"The question does not bear on honesty or integrity," the judge remarked. "The point he raises is whether policyholders in the unprofitable class have any legal protection against a hypothetical practice such as he outlined."

Mr. Fackler did not commit himself on the point. The hearing will continue this morning.

WORKER KILLED BY LOCOMOTIVE.

Louis Verhovic, 48 years old, 1151 McAllister avenue, North Chicago, was killed yesterday by a locomotive on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad. The accident occurred a quarter mile south of the North Chicago plant of the American Steel and Wire company, where Verhovic was employed.

FAKE TAX FIXER SENTENCED TO 10 MONTHS IN JAIL

George F. Hortsman, 37 years old, was sentenced to ten months in the bridewell yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Otto Langheinrich, 60 years old, 4838 North Keystone avenue, charged Hortsman accepted $85 on the representation that he could fix a tax bill.

Langheinrich testified that Hortsman spoke to him when he went to the county building to pay his taxes on Dec. 9 last year. Hortsman represented himself as a deputy assessor, the witness said, and announced that he could settle the bill of more than $100 for $85. After paying the money, Langheinrich said, he became suspicious and later found that the taxes were still unpaid.

REOPEN INQUIRY ON RECEIVERSHIP REFORM TODAY

The committee of the state house of representatives investigating receiverships and foreclosures for the purpose of proposing remedial legislation will resume its hearings this morning in the council chambers of the city hall. Paul C. Loeber, trustee of the Leight Trust, formerly Leight & Co., investment concern, who was on the witness stand last Saturday, will complete his testimony.

Charles E. Fox, former chief deputy assessor and a member of the bondholders' committee of the Leight Trust, has asked to be given an opportunity to answer testimony given by Loeber. He is expected to follow Loeber on the stand.

FIVE CITY STATE BANK OFFICIALS FOUND GUILTY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Seymour Stedman, 62 years old, once Socialist candidate for mayor, and four other officials of the defunct City State bank were found guilty yesterday by a jury in the court of Judge Francis B. Allegretti on charges of receiving deposits while knowing the bank to be insolvent.

The jurors, who deliberated for almost nine hours, decreed that Stedman and Alexander L. Jarema, vice presidents of the bank, must serve one to three years in the penitentiary and pay fines of $210 each.

Fines of $210 each, without prison terms, were fixed by the jury as the punishment for the other three defendants. They are Morrison H. Castle, William C. Hartray and Edwin G. Rellihen, members of the board of directors of the closed bank.

Fine Double Amount of Deposit.

The defendants were tried on the specific charge of accepting a deposit of $105 from Mrs. Louise Green, 3522 Monroe street, on Nov. 2, 1929, the day that the bank closed. The law provides a minimum punishment of a fine twice the amount of the deposit accepted in such cases.

A motion for a new trial in behalf of all the defendants, who are at liberty in bonds of $17,500 each, was set for hearing by Judge Allegretti on May 6.

The prosecution started two years ago with the indictment of the bank officials on April 29, 1931. Stedman and his associates gained 54 continuances before the case finally was forced to trial by the state. The case was the first heard under the recent ruling of State's Attorney Courtney that all bank trials must be heard by a jury.

Jury Takes 25 Ballots.

Adolph Trapp, 7024 East End avenue, foreman of the jury, said 25 ballots were taken. The jurors decided, he said, that the bank was insolvent on the 10th ballot, and the rest were needed to fix the penalty for the individual defendants. The foreman said the jurors believed the evidence stronger against Stedman and Jarema than the other three defendants.

Frank D. Robinson, a vice president, has pleaded guilty and probably will be sentenced with the other defendants if the motion for a new trial is overruled. Frank Bergen, another vice president, and Bennett J. C. Johnson, a director, who also were indicted, obtained separate trials. Both testified for the state in the trial just completed.

FIGHT TO REMOVE H. L. DRAKE TO SOUTH FOR TRIAL

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Harry L. Drake, 1500 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, was referred to as "king of the loan sharks" in North Carolina today by representatives of that state during a hearing on a petition to extradite Drake. He has been indicted at Raleigh, charged with conspiracy to evade and nullify the usury laws of North Carolina.

Frank R. McNinch Jr. of Charlotte, N. C., told DeWitt Billman, hearing the matter in behalf of Gov. Horner, that his investigations showed Drake had 34 loan offices in North Carolina and that he had many others in other states. Illegal rates of interest were charged to small borrowers, it has been alleged, in some cases as high as 360 per cent.

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing Drake, said the attempt to get his client back to the southern state was a persecution by other lending agencies. He also declared he had been informed that Gov. Ehringhaus did not know his signature had been rubber stamped on the application for Drake's extradition. Attorney Howard Ellis, for the Carolinians, announced that he would prove the governor did approve the application, and offered to give up his case if it were shown the governor had been deceived or his name used without authorization. Mr. Billman then continued the hearing to May 1.

KILLED BY AUTO ACCIDENT.

Benton, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Norman Webb, 29, of Benton, was injured fatally when her automobile overturned in a ditch.

DENIES ROMANCE

BARBARA HUTTON.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, April 26.—(AP)—Barbara Hutton, granddaughter of the late F. W. Woolworth, chain store founder, arrived here today from Indo-China and denied she was married or engaged or contemplating either. It was understood that both Miss Hutton and Prince Alexis Mdivani will sail Friday on the liner Chitral for Marseilles, en route to the United States.

Prince Alexis is a descendant of Georgian nobility and the brother of the Princes David and Serge Mdivani. The latter is the former husband of Pola Negri. Their father, Prince Zachary Mdivani, former aid to the czar of Russia, died eight days ago in a Paris clinic. Two married daughters also survive him.

Prince Alexis and Miss Hutton have been reported engaged several times during her world voyage. He and the former Miss Louise Van Alen of Newport, R. I., were divorced in Holland last December. Miss Hutton's fortune has been estimated at $58,000,000.

PERKINS' WAGES, HOURS POLICIES STIR UP DEBATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Both the employer and the employé went today before the house labor committee to give an okay to the 30 hour work week proposed in the Black bill now under consideration.

When it came, however, to a discussion of the minimum wage provision, added to the bill by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, the two men disagreed.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company and employer of 60,000 [it used to be 90,000, he said], thought it would be all right to give the government power to fix a minimum wage scale, provided it were fixed variously for various communities, depending on the local cost of living.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, insisted that a federal fixing of a minimum wage was all wrong; that too often it would mean, instead, a maximum wage, and that labor would not gain but would suffer.

The two likewise differed on the advisability of including in the bill an embargo on all foreign goods not made under the 30 hour week stipulation. Mr. Swope thought such an embargo would be "extremely difficult to enforce"; that once enforced it wouldn't be very effective. Mr. Green said in spite of the administration opposition to an embargo he felt it would be very wise to have such an embargo power.

FLOWER COLORS TO CHANGE EACH WEEK OF FAIR

Displays Promise to Rival Artificial Effects.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The changing colors of flowers in the course of a summer and fall will vie with the artificially produced color effects of modern science in A Century of Progress exposition, which opens on Chicago's lake front five weeks from today.

Nearly two hundred national and regional gardening and floral organizations will provide the spectacle of producing from seeds the developments of a century in horticulture and floriculture. Sponsored by a group of Chicagoans interested in seeing the scientific advances of these two ancient pursuits of man portrayed, the exhibition will be housed in its own immense building containing nearly five acres of show space.

Flowers to Change Each Week.

Unique in horticultural productions is the plan announced yesterday by John A. Servas, director of Horticultural Exhibitions, Inc., the agency through which the flower show is created. Mr. Servas addressed local gardeners in the Marshall Field store tearooms, outlining the program by which a complete change of flowers will be accomplished each week of the world's fair, from June to November.

The twenty-two separate flower shows will be held in the Horticultural building at the south end of Northerly island.

The exhibition building itself already is beginning to assume the aspects of an enclosed garden retreat. Huge trees from the Cook county forest preserves have been transplanted to the section of the building where rustic nature will become a reality, and where visitors may walk through woodlands and climb actual hillsides within the building's confines.

Show Gardens of Past.

One section of the space will provide the setting for a series of fifteen dioramas, depicting gardens representative of foreign countries and outstanding garden designs of the United States from colonial times.

Large formal gardens with modern sophistication will be seen in contrast to rockeries and reproductions of the northern Indiana dunes. English, French, Italian, and oriental gardens also will be created.

The Men's Garden club of Chicago will produce a series of border gardens, the men's club of Fort Wayne, Ind., will recreate the dooryard of Lincoln's home, and a formal garden will be shown by the men's club of Aurora.

HOUSE WOULD ACCEPT DOHENY'S 5 MILLION ON U. S. $9,300,000 CLAIM

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—By a vote of 244 to 116, the house today agreed to accept $5,000,000 in settlement of a government claim amounting to approximately $9,300,000 against the Doheny oil interests in California.

The claim arose out of the court decision in the Elk Hills oil reserve scandal. The judgment was ordered by the court in payment for oil taken from the naval reserves by Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum company under the leases signed by Albert B. Fall as secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet.

The Pan-American, in receivership, was purchased by the Richfield Oil company some time ago. The Richfield also is in receivership. Attorney General William D. Mitchell and his successor, Homer S. Cummings, have recommended the $5,000,000 settlement.

Smith, former governor of New York, today was elected a member of the board of trustees of the Catholic University of America, succeeding the late Thomas H. Kelly, a trustee since 1919. The Rev. Valentine Theodore Schaaf, professor of canon law at the university, was elected dean, succeeding the Most Rev. Filippo Bernardini, recently named apostolic delegate to Australia.

MOSCOW ORDERS FOREIGN REDS TO RIOT ON MAY 1

Mass for World Revolt! Communist Slogan.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 26.—Special instructions labeled "urgent" have been sent to all foreign communist parties by the executive committee of Comintern (communist internationale) at Moscow. They detail the methods to be used on May 1 to promote demonstrations, provoke conflicts with police and class warfare.

Following the arrest of a Red courier from Moscow, Riga police have begun their annual roundup of revolutionists. They will be held in jail until the May 1 demonstrations are concluded. Within two days more than 400 Reds have been arrested in the Baltic states. The police forces of these countries have been mobilized to prevent communist disorders. Socialist parades will be held under strong guard.

World Revolt Ordered.

Forty-seven slogans compiled by Comintern and published on the front pages of the soviet press reveal that Moscow's organization designed to promote a world revolt is to become more active. The first slogan calls upon foreign workers to follow Russia's example by ordering the mobilization of revolutionary forces throughout the world on May 1.

"The coming revolutionary year promises to place Moscow well upon the road toward becoming the capital of the world," Russian newspapers declare. "We welcome Comintern's return to its previous position as Moscow's most important body."

Pravda and Izvestia, soviet organs, express the hope that the negotiations in Washington will fail to achieve an agreement between England and America. They express the opinion that economic differences will continue to widen, thereby weakening the capitalist countries until they become ready prey for communist agitators.

$100,000,000 Trade War On.

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—A British embargo against Russian imports will remain effective as long as two English technicians remain imprisoned in Moscow, Lord Hailsham said in the house of lords today.

The ban on 80 per cent of soviet goods went into effect last night in protest against the detention of L. C. Thornton and William L. MacDonald, who were sentenced by a Moscow court to two and three year terms upon conviction of wrecking electrical projects on which they were working.

With the beginning of a retaliatory embargo on British goods by Russia, a trade war was started between the two nations in which their annual loss may approximate $100,000,000.

The soviet embassy sent a formal note tonight to Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon as a result of an incident early today when some one threw a brick through a window in the soviet consulate here. The missile bore the legend, "We don't like your Russian justice."

ACTS TO REBUILD GREEN MILL, LOST IN $100,000 FIRE

Six Firemen and Woman Spectator Injured.

Plans were made yesterday to rebuild the Green Mill building, Broadway and Lawrence avenue, which was destroyed in an early morning fire with an estimated damage of $100,000. Tom Chamales, owner of the two story structure, announced that he planned to replace the building with one of similar proportions.

Six firemen were injured, one of them severely, and one woman was overcome with smoke in the blaze that started in a Walgreen drug store at 4800 Broadway. The fireman most seriously injured is Lieut. James W. O'Malley of Engine 128, 5908 Leonard street. His back was crushed and he suffered internal injuries.

Other Firemen Injured.

The other firemen hurt are Oscar Siewart of Engine 128, 6124 Melrose street; Fred Kinsler of Engine 128; 3007 Cullerton street; Frank J. Kubik of Rescue Squad 4, 2508 North Menard avenue; Lieut. William Shay of Squad 4, 3230 Eastwood avenue; Capt. Raymond J. Howe of Engine 70, 6419 North Albany avenue.

Mrs. Ella Winters, 39 years old, 1001 Sunnyside avenue, a spectator, was overcome by smoke and motor gas fumes and taken to the Lakeside hospital for treatment.

Lieut. O'Malley was injured when he went to the rescue of Fireman Kinsler, who was trapped beneath a pile of falling debris in the Green Mill restaurant at 4806 Broadway. Lieut. O'Malley was pinned to the floor as part of the roof gave way. Both men were carried to the street by rescue squads.

Half Dozen Shops Destroyed.

The fire was discovered by workers in the drug store at 7 o'clock in the morning. It spread northward through the half block long structure, which extends to 4810 Broadway, and also damaged a Fannie May candy shop at 4812 Broadway. The Wolff Jewelry shop, the Stop and Eat restaurant, the Excell Photo studio, and the Green Mill ballroom, all quartered in the building, were destroyed in the blaze. The fire was prevented from spreading to the Uptown theater, 4814 Broadway, firemen said, by the fire walls of the structure.

Hundreds of voices will be heard at A Century of Progress on Sunday afternoon, June 4, when the Choral Directors' guild will present Handel's "Messiah" in the Court of States on the exposition grounds, it was announced yesterday by fair authorities. All the chorus groups of the guild, including church choirs and choral societies, will be united in one great chorus.

More than 200 choral directors of Chicago and surrounding territory have coöperated in the organization of the chorus, which has the support of Dr. Frederick Stock and the Friends of Music, Inc., according to A Century of Progress officials.

The festival chorus of Winona Lake, Ind.; the Choral club of Detroit, and the Oratorio society of Three Oaks, Mich., will take part. Rehearsals will be held on Sunday afternoon in the chapel of the University of Chicago, the New First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington boulevards; Bethlehem Evangelical church, Diversey parkway and Magnolia avenue, and the Columbia School of Music, Aurora.

DRAIN OUT WINTER-MADE

The New Anti-Sludge Motor Oil

● Any good motor mechanic will tell you how sludge — that thick, gritty compound of dirt, moisture and broken-down portions of motor oil — forms faster in any crankcase during winter driving. Now's the time to drain it out . . . rid your crankcase of winter-worn, sludgy oil! Make way for something entirely new in motor oil . . . a motor oil that will not sludge . . . Standard of Indiana's new Iso-Vis "D"!

Now, right at the most important oil-changing time of year, you can refill and start the heavier driving season a'fresh with a special lubricant that prevents dangerous re-formation of sludge between drainings. Not only that, but 1,267,000 miles of grueling road tests have proved that Iso-Vis "D" is a longer-lasting oil . . . the most economical fine lubrication you can buy. Try it!

IF YOU LIKE LONG WORDS, READ THIS—

Iso-Vis "D" is produced under totally new processes perfected by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—patents pending. These are the Propane Dewaxing Process, and the Chlorex Extraction Process for removing unstable and undesirable constituents present in all petroleum distillates. By these exclusive refining processes a new-type lubricant is produced with much higher resistance to oxidation and sludge formation than any motor oil has hitherto possessed. The new oil likewise is notable for improved viscosity-temperature characteristics, low pour point, minimum carbon formation, and great durability.

Trained Servismen at any Standard Oil Station will drain out winter-made Sludge and refill with Iso-Vis "D." You'll be on your way in

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

ROBBERY AS A PROTECTED INDUSTRY.

Automobile theft is more than a crime. It is an industry. It includes robbery, the removal of the stolen car to a place where it can be worked on, the stripping of its parts and their resale. The effects of this crime as an industry have so disorganized automobile insurance in the Chicago region as to raise the question whether certain of the popular makes of cars can be covered against theft. The premiums have been raised and new conditions, such as to safety locks, are being required as essential for the continuance of insurance.

It is impossible for this organized crime to be conducted secretly. Its very nature precludes that. Some crime is illusive, but not a crime which must have factory facilities and a wholesale and retail market. The thieves are recruited from youths who in adolescence are taught to be robbers. They are taken young and turned loose upon the community as habitual criminals. Horse thieving and cattle rustling in the old days could not have required or permitted more gang organization than is needed by this systematized criminal activity.

THE TRIBUNE prints daily a statement of the number of cars stolen each 24 hours. It is said that there are periods in which the number of cars reported stolen exceeds the new registrations. The insurance companies quite naturally are putting the cost of the crime on the policyholders. All large metropolitan areas suffer from this, but Chicago has the worst reputation and the largest cost.

It being impossible to conduct this business of robbery wholly under cover, it follows of necessity that there is a police indifference which would be inexplicable as mere indifference or that there is political collusion to protect the gangsters. It would be impossible for the dealers in stolen parts to escape detection if the police wanted to find them. The only explanation is protection. That explanation means that somebody is being paid out of the profits of the crime to keep the business going. Every car owner suffers in consequence. He is not only insecure in his property but he pays the bill in his premiums. If the protection continues and the crime increases its volume of business it may be made impossible to get insurance in the Chicago area. The car owners are so large a proportion of the voters that tolerance of this appears unbelievable. No citizen knows when he parks his car whether he can rely upon finding it when he returns unless he has put it in a guarded spot.

Crime of this sort must have protection and rely upon community sufferance. The older citizenship, in times when submission to outrage was not abject, organized itself to deal with such bandits. If the authorities failed, the citizens acted in their own protection. Modern conditions in a metropolitan area make it difficult for the individual to find others to coöperate with him in a direct attack upon the criminals, but the officials are exposed to political measures and if the people imposed upon will not use their political remedies they may find that they deserve the government they get. They may find that they have given rise to an order of society in which crime has a recognized place and in which they are expected to contribute to its support and profits, just as they are expected to pay their taxes. They may also find that their criminal overlords have more ways of preventing delinquency in payment than the county collector has.

SOME NEEDED PUBLIC WORKS.

When and if congress decides to inflate the purchasing power of the country the problem of getting the new money into the pockets of the people will remain. Presumably this will be accomplished by public works.

That raises the question of what public works are to be undertaken. The President is known to favor the Tennessee valley scheme and reforestation and flood control wherever recommended, but in greater or less degree it can be said of all of these items that they are vague as to place and vague as to other details. The Tennessee valley lies in half a dozen states. A good deal of time must be wasted in prospecting and planning before the new money can be spent on any of these schemes and of course there is every reason to fear that the money spent will be largely wasted.

If the administration wants to put the new money to work promptly where it is most needed, it cannot afford to overlook the cities. There the need for relief is greatest and there, too, the planning of many required public works has been carried out in great detail already.

In Chicago, for example, work on the outer drive bridge could be resumed in a week. Work on the subway could be started in three months. Work on an elevated highway and on sewage treatment works could be commenced within a few weeks. Plans have been drawn for slum clearance which could be undertaken almost as soon as the state legislature could enact a housing bill and a state housing board examine the completed drawings. Railroad electrification could provide work for thousands within a short time. In usefulness and in prospect of a return on the investment these projects rank high.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE SCHOOL TEACHERS.

The school teachers are making use of the vacation leisure to stage bigger and better demonstrations in protest against their payless work. There are now thousands instead of hundreds parading the downtown streets and storming at the banks and the city hall and at the officials and citizens who are trying to get some money into the public treasury and into the public pay rolls.

The grievance is an intolerable one and the teachers feel that all they have now to lose is their voices. Any like number of unpaid public employés would feel the same way, although there are others whose pay is almost as much in arrears, if not more, who are exercising more patience and doing their work less truculently. The teachers are convinced that they'll get nothing unless they fight for it, and their sense of injury is strong.

It can be suggested to them, however, that there are right and wrong directions for their noisy demonstrations. A right direction would be against the persons responsible for the intolerable conditions. These are the persons who being able will not pay their taxes, who as collectors of taxes will not collect them, and who as spenders of public money will not reduce the expenditures within the possibility of revenue to bear them. If a riot can be justified, it would be against tax dodgers who have thrown the responsibility of paying for government upon their better disposed neighbors. It would be against members of the school board who do not want to make a school budget for which money can be found. It would be against County Treasurer McDonough and other officials who seem to think it to be bad politics to put the screws upon delinquent property owners who do not pay what they could pay.

When a tax warrant has been made a good warrant money for pay rolls can be had. Just being mad may tie up traffic in State street and it may require Gov. Horner to use a side door in getting out of the city hall, but it won't meet pay rolls. There are delinquents who either as citizens or as officials need some rough shoving about, but the first thing is to go to the responsible persons.

THE TRIALS AT DECATUR, ALABAMA.

Judge James E. Horton at Decatur, Ala., has ordered the indefinite postponement of the trial of the seven Negroes in the internationally notorious case before him. One of the defendants, tried a second time, is again under sentence of death. The judge postponed the other trials for the protection of the defendants from the consequences of comment charged to their attorney, the New York lawyer, Leibowitz.

A characterization of the jury attributed to the defense lawyer upon his return to New York was circulated in Alabama and Judge Horton said that it could make little difference whether the attorney actually said it or not. The effect would be to increase the prejudice against the accused and prevent the conduct of a fair trial.

In nearly every circumstance this case has given alarm for the processes of law, and the defense itself has been guilty of indiscretions and of offenses prejudicial to the accused. The community sentiment is about as far from the judicial temperament as a popular mood could be anywhere. Judge Horton's conduct has apparently been irreproachable, but the feeling throughout the community has been one of such instinctive prejudice that a balancing of evidence was almost impossible. Into a situation so charged with everything to make a fair trial highly improbable, the defense, conducted mainly from New York, has thrown other excitements and prejudices, social, racial and political. The victims of these malign combinations have been the accused.

Justice could have hoped that members of the southern bar, as dispassionate and high minded as Judge Horton himself seems to be, would have undertaken the defense and have used their knowledge of local predispositions, passions, and instincts to have preserved the defendants from the consequences of excited hatreds. It is well known that an alien cannot enter a community and in defending an accused person indict the entire society which has brought him to trial. The defense lawyers attempted to do this and the consequences may be fatal to the accused. The defense for purposes of its own put the southern white on trial, and the southern white voted himself not guilty by voting a death penalty for the Negro. Mr. Leibowitz, with the consequences of this before him, seems to have redoubled his energy in indicting the community again. Whatever chance the remaining defendants had was immediately swept away, in the opinion of the presiding judge, who gave them the only protection he could by postponing the other trials. At the best these men, accused of such a crime, had a small chance. That chance could have been nurtured for what it was worth by southern lawyers solicitous for the reputation of southern justice. It could not be promoted by hysteria in other parts of the country seeking to make a celebrated case of community barbarism and social and political terrorism. Such indictments, however much justice they might have, should be reserved for an abstract discussion and should not have involved in them the jeopardy of persons with their lives at stake.

In justification the defense relies upon the record made to show the exclusion of colored jurymen in Alabama courts, trusting that the conclusions must appear imperative to the United States Supreme court.

CHICAGO'S NEW MAYOR.

[Des Moines Tribune.]

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Chicago's new successor to the late Anton Cermak, was advanced to the city's highest post from the presidency of the south park commissioners' board, but will retain his old office, temporarily at least, while serving as mayor.

He cites the fact that the law does not prohibit his holding both positions simultaneously and declares that "this is a good opportunity to experiment with consolidation of governments."

Engineering talents applied to executive administration have suffered some loss of prestige in recent years, but Mayor Kelly, himself an engineer, indicates that he is nothing daunted by that.

Perhaps there is much in a name, after all.

If a man can perform successfully as mayor of Chicago and at the same time manage a park board in that city, a convincing showing will be made for simplification and consolidation, not only in Chicago's but in other governments.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. F. K.

ANY TIME IN APRIL.

Any time in April
One can snare a dream,
On some hill new-greening,
By some wakened stream.

Orchard glories beckon,
Lure from broodings drear,
Open roads call loudly,
Phantom guides appear;

Who would trust their leading,
Scorning not the gleam,
He will capture beauty,
He will snare a dream.

He must leave behind him
Every load of care:
April frowns at burdens,
Will not brook despair.

Ho, for distant countries!
Beauty, lead the way.
I will follow gladly,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

WE WISH WE HAD the simple faith of Jeannette Rankin, the ex-congresswoman from Montana. Jeannette says that wars can be outlawed if enough people send the right kind of letters to members of congress. We once thought with Jeannette almost anything could be obtained by sending the right kind of letter. But now we believe that it is better to write the letter and then rub it on the back of a bullfrog caught at midnight in a country graveyard. Then you tie the letter up with three true love knots and bury it in the grave of a man hung for murder.

THE MAIN TROUBLE about getting your wish by writing it down in a letter is that, in spite of the depression, there are waste paper basket factories working day and night. Why should waste paper basket factories work day and night when lots of pants factories are closed down? One would think that it would be the other way around; that we needed pants more than waste paper basket factories. But such doesn't seem to be the case. Look around everywhere you go, Jeannette, and you will see bigger and better waste paper baskets staring you in the face.

IN OTHER DAYS the writing of letters was a fine art. But not any more. The telephone, the telegraph, the radio, the automobile, and other products of the machine age killed it. In the old days a lady would sit down at her escritoire and, after long meditation, would pick up her quill pen, dip it in purple ink, and write on parchment paper: "My dear, there is something I have had long in mind I wished to say to you on a very important and intimate subject, and I can no longer forbear opening my heart to you and telling you those thoughts and emotions which usually lie too deep beneath the surface to be wantonly and idly displayed." But now a lady doesn't waste any time putting a lot of words down in a letter. She simply grabs up the telephone, dials a number, and says: "Hortense, for the love o' Mike, send me over a couple bottles of gin; I hain't got a drop left in the house. Shake a leg, old dear; some birds are dropping in for tea in half an hour."

LONG AGO people had plenty of time to write letters. It was one of the principal indoor sports. But times have changed. Nowadays people haven't the time to write letters nor to read them. And the waste baskets are too convenient.

HE SINGS.

Now all the tilted rivers run
In wordless mystery to the sun.
Now every weed and every flower
And every tree's green tower,

All things amazing, strange and sweet,
That April strews about his feet
Persuades with bitter joy like pain.
He walks in wonder through the rain.

As any winged intruder there
His song is on the silver air.

What in the world does he sing of,
Whose tongue belongs to devil or dove?
And what in the world moves him
To sing, what wondrous one loves him?

He does not know. He does not care—
This wild son of earth and air
Who sobs and shouts and sings,
Bemoaning still his lack of wings.

HAROLD KERR.

CONVERSATIONS are the things nations resort to nowadays to settle their differences. Armies, parliaments, congresses, diplomats, all those things have been practically scrapped. The statesman today doesn't orate; he just sits around and converses. And the one that can converse for days and weeks until the others run down and dry up or get nervous prostration or faint or something walks home with the prize.

WONDER WHAT BECAME of John Garner of Texas, who used to be speaker of the house of representatives? And the fine, big subway we were going to have in Chicago? And the world we were going to make safe for democracy? And Mabel, who was so earnest in promoting the noble experiment? And Bishop Cannon Jr., who was saving us from the Demon Rum? And James True Wilson and Deets Pickett? And the Anti-Saloon league? And the W. C. T. U.? And old Miss Prosperity? She was scheduled to land in the U. S. A. this spring with a merry "Well, here I am again, folks!" Wonder what became of that gal, anyhow?

AND ONE THING we wouldn't like to do is to go down to Washington and try to convince a hungry Democrat that Franklin Delano's time is better spent in talking with European prime ministers on the economic salvation of the world than in appointing a third class postmaster at Alfalfa Corners, Arkansas. R. H. L.

ELECTRICITY IN THE MOUTH.

DR. E. S. LAIN has proved that some kinds of dental "work," to use the vernacular, are responsible for metallic taste, salty taste, too much saliva, various sensations in the mouth, including soreness of the tongue, and different conditions of the mouth, including some ulcers, leucoplakia, galvanic burns, and pigmentation. By dental work he includes plates, crowns, bridges, and fillings.

But not all these are at fault, in the opinion of Dr. Lain and other authorities in America and Europe. The trouble is not the result of poor fitting or poor dental manipulation but of putting in one mouth dental repairs composed of more than one metal.

A mouth may carry a good deal of plate work and have many fillings, but it will not be harmed if they are all made from the same metal. Therefore, the cause is not the use of metals but rather the use of several of them. If there is a gold bridge or band in the upper jaw and amalgam fillings in the lower, galvanic action goes on between the two. One acts as a positive pole, the other as a negative one, and electricity flows through the tissues between them. The metals are broken away from the one pole and carried toward the other. Some are caught in the tissues, causing the symptoms complained of.

The greater the difference between the elements in their galvanic ratings the greater the amount of electricity set up. Dr. Lain rates twenty-nine metals in relation to their distance from the positive pole and toward the negative. Of those of more or less use in metallic dental work the rating is as follows:

Aluminum	10th
Manganese	11th
Tin	12th
Nickel	17th
Zinc	18th
Copper	21st
Mercury	25th
Silver	26th
Platinum	28th
Gold	29th

If one piece of work were made of aluminum and another of gold, the galvanic action and ionization would be at a maximum. If, on the other hand, the work on the upper teeth was gold and that on the lower silver there would be a minimum amount of galvanic action.

Rarely are pure metals used and, in consequence, there is some galvanic action in a given piece of work. Amalgams often contain 67 per cent mercury, 29 per cent tin, 3.5 per cent copper, and 0.5 per cent zinc. Gold crowns and bridges contain 75 to 91 per cent gold and 8 to 15 per cent copper, and some silver and nickel.

The amount of electricity generated in the mouth by work composed of different metals can be measured. The metal deposited in the tissues can be demonstrated. The electric action is increased by the use of tobacco and sour foods, and by bacteria and decaying food remnants.

A LONG ROAD.

D. R. B. writes: I read the letter about acne written by "Discouraged." I've run the gantlet of private medical advice and clinic opinion, shots and pills, medicated and pure castile soap, brown bread and white, and even highly advertised concoctions for removing acne or its cause [not to mention areas of skin overlooked by the advertisers]. For the last year and a half I have treated a much abused and battle scarred skin to the knife treatment recommended by you. This consists of going over the face, pressing out the grease with an ordinary table knife, after the manner of one shaving. I always wash with soap and warm water before this treatment, and go over my face afterward with cotton dipped in alcohol. This treatment, which I give myself twice a week, is doing wonders for my case—one of fifteen years' standing. It is a long road but, believe one who is on it, it leads somewhere.

MIGHT BE HARMFUL.

Miss L. U. writes: 1. Is the continued use of field glasses harmful to the eyes?

2. I have had a twitching in one eyelid for the last week. What is the cause of this?

REPLY.

1. It might be.
2. Fatigue. You may have eye strain or your fatigue may be due to other causes.

FAMILY EXPENSE.

Chicago, April 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I moved out of an apartment owing two months' rent, which I was unable to pay because my husband was out of work. Since then they have taken my husband to court and have a judgment against him for the rent, plus court costs and lawyer's fee. Although I did not sign the lease, they have secured a garnishment against my wages for the two months' rent. My salary is $15 a week. Can this be done?

A. M. L.

Rent accruing while a husband and wife occupy the premises as a family is a family expense and as such is chargeable against either spouse. Since you are not head of a family, you would have no exemption from garnishment.

STREET REPAIRS.

Chicago, April 23.—[Friend of the People.]—The street in front of our cottage is sadly in need of repairs, and we feel we are voicing the opinion of our neighbors as well in asking that something be done about it. Being on a car line, there is considerable shaking of the dishes and fixtures in our home whenever a street car passes over the deep ruts and holes in the street. H. M.

Investigation shows there are two depressions in the granite pavement in the right-of-way of the traction company. The company has been notified to make the necessary repairs and assurance is given that this will be done without delay.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a note written and signed with pencil and not witnessed valid? 2. Can a person garnishee wages on same by law? W. F. R.

1. Yes.
2. Yes, but first he must secure judgment against the maker of a note.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 27, 1893.

CHICAGO.—After days of wrangling over delicate points of court etiquette the joint committee on ceremonies of the Columbian Exposition has practically finished its work. The report will be handed to the board of national commissioners today for their approval.

Col. Koch of the First regiment, I. N. G., has issued an order establishing temporary headquarters at the Second Regiment armory on Michigan avenue. The command is directed to assemble tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in state fatigue dress with white gloves to escort President Cleveland on his arrival in the city. The command will also assist in the reception and escort of the Liberty Bell.

The hull of the historic gunboat Serapis, the flagship of Commodore Barney's flotilla in the war of 1812, has been located in the bottom of the Patuxent river at its opening into Chesapeake bay. The old boat will be raised at the expense of the Washington Historical society and several patriotic Marylanders and sent to the World's Fair.

All the European artists who will take part in the performances at the Trocadero Music hall this summer arrived in Chicago under the guidance of Dr. F. Ziegfeld. Among the contingent were the Bulow band of Hamburg, Miska's Hungarian orchestra of Berlin, Iwanoff's troupe of Russian singers and dancers, and Syrene, from the London Alhambra.

Carefully wrapped in cotton and incased in a rosewood box, the sword that the illustrious Washington wore arrived at the Fair ground. It is the sword that he had at his side when he was inaugurated as the first President of the United States.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 27, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The question of sending American troops to France this year was the principal matter discussed at a two hour conference between Secretary of War Baker and Marshal Joffre of the French commission yesterday. Marshal Joffre explained in detail the military situation on the western front and the great need of additional troops, which has been evidenced by the emergency call by the British government for 500,000 more men.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports the complete repulse of German troops who attacked the Gavrelle positions. Paris reports the Germans failed to renew attacks between the Aisne and the Chemin-des-Dames following their repulse during the night of April 25. Berlin claims it has checked the enemy all along the line, with heavy losses to the attackers. Rome reports the repulse of Austrian attacks on the Julian front. Successful air raids are also chronicled.

MADISON, Wis. — State Senator Frank Raguse of Milwaukee, one of the three Socialist members of the Wisconsin state senate, tonight was formally and dramatically expelled from membership in that body for refusing to retract alleged disloyal statements made by him on the floor of the senate the evening of April 24. The vote on expulsion was 30 to 3, Raguse and his two fellow Socialist members voting in the negative. The statements which brought about the expulsion of Senator Raguse were made during a debate on a resolution to print 50,000 copies of President Wilson's message. The statement was: "This resolution is to create patriotism, but it will not do it. You cannot create patriotism in a country where 85 per cent of the people do not own land. The way to create patriotism, as I understand it, is to do as was done when the Maine was blown up from the inside, and property and lives both were destroyed in order that 'Remember the Maine' should be heralded over the country and the people would be aroused to patriotism."

DIFFICULTIES OF INVESTIGATION.

Oak Park, Ill., April 16.—We wish to voice a protest against the conclusions formed by your reporter on relief work in the city. The following factors should be kept in mind when making any criticisms of the case work as carried on today.

Because of the conditions the case load per worker ranges from 150 to 500 cases, which is from 3 to 10 times larger than the normal load. This not only precludes any pretense of good case work but, as you must realize, makes it extremely difficult to make adequate investigations in every case.

As you say, numerous reports come to the case worker about the "clients," but as 99 per cent of these are anonymous and are vague and indefinite, it is difficult and sometimes impossible to check up on these. Although neighbors seem perfectly willing to make reports in anonymous letters and to gossip among themselves about these matters, they shut up like clams when approached by the investigator. Bear in mind, too, that many of these statements are made maliciously by those who hold grudges and do not confine themselves to the truth in order to get revenge.

Although most present and former employers of "clients" are coöperative, there are cases where they have given reports as dictated by the "clients" and others where they are reluctant to take the time to give the desired information.

TWO CASE WORKERS.

SAVING ON AVIATION.

Chicago, April 18.—Referring to your editorial of today concerning the possibility of cutting the appropriation for aviation, no good citizen should question your effort towards accomplishing "economy with efficiency." As to cutting expenditures in aviation because "obsolescence is very rapid" and "planes are so quickly built" considerable question arises. True, planes are quickly built; but experience—knowing what planes to build, how they act, how they fly—is not quickly acquired. Let us not forget the flaming coffins we quickly built during the last war which carried so many of our finest men to untimely and needless deaths. Of course, we do not want to pile up obsolete stock, but neither do we wish to be obsolete ourselves. If we do not accept the necessity of buying into a certain amount of obsolescence we will not avoid being the old cow's tail. Let us have "economy with efficiency" to be sure. Let us cut out things like Hoover dam, the cost of which would provide 30,000 planes. Let us cut out the interstate commerce commission, the federal trade commission, the federal farm board, the thousands of unnecessary political postmasters. Let us not blind the eyes of our army and navy by trying to save with a spoon what we throw out of the door with a shovel.

LET'S GO.

Chicago, April 18.—I am unemployed and would like to give one week of free service to help clean up Chicago for the World's Fair. I think there are hundreds of unemployed who would do the same as I. Let every one help clean up his own ward. I live in the Twenty-seventh ward. Tell the gang I said, "Come on and give a week's free service to help clean up for the World's Fair." This will be good exercise for the boys. Chicago has helped us. Why not help Chicago? Come on, gang, let's do our duty.

ROY COOPER.

THE GARDEN CLUB'S SHOW.

Chicago, April 5.—In behalf of the executive board, the officers and members of the Garden Club of Illinois, as well as myself, I desire to express our deep appreciation for the splendid support your staff has given us in publicizing our flower show, which has just closed.

Every representative of THE TRIBUNE with whom I came in contact was most courteous and helpful, and I particularly appreciate the encouragement and help of Mr. Paul Potter and Mr. Swingle. They gave me so many valuable hints and were always ready with their professional advice.

It might interest you to know that in spite of prevailing conditions and with a $3,000 deficit hanging over our heads from last year we now feel safe in saying that with the help of THE TRIBUNE we are able to pay all of our bills. The women have worked unceasingly to put this show over, but we could never have done it without the wonderful help of our friends of the press. May I convey to you my own grateful thanks?

MILDRED G. WORKMAN,
Publicity Chairman.

A TAXPAYER'S TROUBLES.

Chicago, April 11.—The editorial in today's issue on "A Premium for Tax Dodging" came strangely coincident with the fruitless trip I took to the city hall today. We protested and paid our 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes, but received no chance to benefit by the protest, so we decided to protest and not pay the 1931 taxes. Our assessment on a small home was down only 9 per cent, and that is far from the 25 per cent promised.

Then, upon computing the component lines we found that the school levy was up from $2.01 to $2.46, or 45 cents, the equivalent of 22 per cent. I could not find one person in the city hall or county building who could tell me how to go about protesting this exorbitant increase which is a violation of the Juul law.

MRS. M. L. HEPP.

PENALIZING THE THRIFTY.

Chicago, April 13.—The selection of men and boys for this new work army seems to the ordinary mind rather unfair. I know of a family who have always had a desperate time to make their income serve their wants, but through frugal living and constant economy managed to buy and pay for a little home. The husband, daughter, and son have long been out of employment and they have wanted for the necessities of life, but because of the fact that they own their home they have not asked for help from the relief agencies, as they were informed it would be of no avail. Now the son is eager and willing to enlist for work, but because they have managed to exist without aid he is told he is not eligible. They have been told that if they knew their alderman he could get the boy in.

BEING A DEMOCRAT.

Davenport, Ia., April 16.—Having just read an item in a local paper relative to the appointment of a postmaster in the town of Colfax, Ia., who is a clothier, I am wondering where this man became familiar with the workings of the post-office department. Will you kindly find out and publish in your illustrious paper what are the qualifications for a position as postmaster?

HITLER FORCES STEEL HELMETS TO FIRE LEADER

Loses Post Because He Is Grandson of a Jew.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, April 26.—Col. Theodor Duesterberg, second in command of the Steel Helmet war veterans' organization, was dismissed from his post today because his maternal grandfather was a Jew. Franz Seldte, minister of labor in Chancellor Hitler's cabinet and Steel Helmet chieftain, ordered Duesterberg's resignation.

(The National Socialist party has declared that any person is Jewish who had one Jewish grandparent and therefore is not entitled to hold an official post.)

The row between Seldte and Duesterberg developed during Hitler's efforts to merge his Nazi storm troopers with the well trained Steel Helmet army of 1,500,000 men. Seldte favored the union and suggested making Hitler titular head of both bodies. Duesterberg strenuously objected and struggled to keep this organization of the Nationalist party independent.

Paves Way for Merger.

The dismissal of the Steel Helmet's "second leader" now paves the way for closer identification between the powerful political armies of Hitler and Seldte.

Seldte today said that he had repeatedly requested Duesterberg to resign voluntarily, but that the latter had refused. Duesterberg's associates are bitter over his dismissal, and are inclined to blame Hitler. They point out that the Nazi Aryan law specifies that war veterans are permitted to retain civil service posts and that Duesterberg's Jewish grandfather served as army surgeon in the war of liberation against Napoleon.

The retiring leader, who distinguished himself during the world war and was wounded at Ypres, enjoined the Steel Helmeters to remain faithful to the national revolution led by Hitler. Duesterberg was the Nationalist candidate for president against Hitler and President von Hindenburg in March, 1932.

Other Leaders to Go.

It was persistently reported today that other highly placed leaders, including Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of economics and agriculture and Nationalist party leader, and Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath, would soon be ousted. The Nazis accuse Hugenberg of forgetting that Hitler's accession to power means also a social revolution.

"If Hugenberg catches the spirit of the new era dawning in Germany he can remain," said a prominent Nazi. "If not, Hitler must regretfully let him go."

The Nazi objection to Baron von Neurath is that he has not pursued a sufficiently vigorous policy in comparison with the domestic achievements of the government.

To political observers, it is clearly evident that Hitler eventually will remove all members of the government who have not pledged adherence to his program.

Von Papen Hitler Supporter.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen has become an enthusiastic Hitlerite and is slated to succeed Von Neurath as foreign minister. He recently said that the Germany of the future will be 99 per cent Nazi and therefore it is the duty of every patriot to rally behind Hitler.

Nazi control of the ministry of justice was assured today with the appointment of Hans Frank, Bavarian minister of justice, to collaborate with Minister Franz Guertner. Guertner is not a member of the Nazi party.

A eugenic sterilization law, which Hitlerites have advocated for years, was drafted today by the Prussian board of health. It will serve as a model for the entire reich. By sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit it is hoped to build a strong and pure "Nordic" race.

The German-Russian Petroleum company, whose offices were raided Monday, may continue as a commercial organization, but must expel communist agitators, police said today. They asserted that 75 per cent of the employes were communist agents, and were beyond control of the company's board of directors.

Britain Protests Arrests.

The British embassy today protested to the foreign office against the arrest of two British subjects. Fred Howard, a teacher, was sentenced to four weeks in prison after the postoffice censor had intercepted a letter he had written to his family in England from Regensburg. Howard had criticized conditions in Germany in the letter. He was officially charged "with using insulting language when questioned by a postoffice censor."

William Mann, a British student in Berlin, was arrested when he was unable to produce his passport during a raid on the International club. He was detained two days.

MRS. ANNA KUNZ.

Mrs. Anna Arlene Kunz, 26 years old, 869 Buena avenue, told Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba yesterday that her husband, Gustav Kunz, 1212 North Hayes avenue, a restaurant owner, earns $75 a week, and opposed Kunz' motion to vacate a temporary alimony order of $10 a week. Judge Schwaba continued the case and ordered Kunz to keep up his payments. Mrs. Kunz has the custody of a child, Shirley Anne, 6 years old. She is suing for divorce on cruelty charges.

STORY OF FINDING KITCHENER GOLD PUZZLES LONDON

LONDON, April 26.—Both the admiralty and the Salvage association declared today they had no information on the story published in New York that £15,000 in gold were being recovered from sunken wreck of H. M. S. Hampshire. Earl H. H. Kitchener of Kartoum died with the blowing up of that ship, either by mine or torpedo, while on his way to Russia on a mission for Great Britain during the world war.

The New York story said the clew to the location of the wreck had been obtained by some mysterious "Mr. R" from a German sailor who worked on a mine layer and had kept a record of the nautical locations in which his ship had placed mines. Near the Orkney islands, according to the story, "Mr. R" had dived and found a piece of the lost warship's funnel.

Organization of a salvage group, so the yarn ran, had followed "Mr. R's" learning of the fact that the Hampshire carried gold. It was reported in New York that this gold was in process of recovery from the ship's hull, after some armor plate had been penetrated. "Mr. R," it was said, had acted originally because he wanted to clear a relative, unnamed, who had been accused of giving the Germans word where to meet the Hampshire with a torpedo. "Mr. R" wanted to prove a mine was to blame.

The secretary of the Salvage association declared: "As far as I know the Hampshire never has even been located. I always have understood the water wherein it lies is too deep for salvaging."

The admiralty was equally in the dark.

U. S. JUDICIARY IS ATTACKED ON FLOOR OF HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—The federal judiciary was indicted on general and specific grounds in the house today by two former members of the Virginia bench.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.] based his attack on the sweeping charge that federal judges, from justices of the Supreme court down, have failed to coöperate in a patriotic movement to cut the cost of government by a reduction of government salaries.

Representative Harold W. Smith [Dem., Va.] started formal impeachment proceedings against Judge James A. Lowell of Boston on seven charges growing out of the Massachusetts jurist's refusal to extradite a Negro fugitive from Virginia justice.

Introduces Amendment.

Mr. Woodrum introduced a constitutional amendment to enable congress to regulate judicial salaries which cannot now be touched under the constitution. The Virginian recalled that every other federal employé has accepted a 15 per cent reduction in pay. The judiciary was invited, he pointed out, to remit a proportionate part of its compensation voluntarily.

"Notwithstanding this invitation," he declared, "to date the impressive sum of $716 has been turned back into the treasury by members of the bench."

Investigation Is Voted.

Representative Smith's impeachment talk resulted in the adoption of a resolution authorizing the house judiciary committee to investigate the official conduct of Judge Lowell, who refused to extradite George Crawford, Negro, accused of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Ilsley, wealthy Loudon county sportswoman, and her maid on Jan. 13, 1932.

Judge Lowell freed the Negro with the statement that it was "legal nonsense" to send him to trial in Virginia when it was a foregone conclusion that the Supreme court would nullify his conviction on the ground that Negroes are barred from jury service in Virginia.

Mr. Smith argued on the floor today that the Massachusetts judge violated his constitutional oath and disregarded the extradition provisions of the constitution. Moreover, he declared, Judge Lowell's opinion in the Crawford case cast "aspersions and disrepute upon the laws of Virginia and other states."

Judge Lowell Defended.

In defense of Judge Lowell, Representative Robert Luce [Rep., Mass.] protested against the adoption of the resolution calling for an investigation of the jurist, and warned that it would send every disappointed litigant to congress with a demand for impeachment of the judge who presided in his case.

"If tomorrow Germany should ask President Roosevelt to extradite and send to Germany a Jew, how many men here would vote to support the President if he did it?" asked the Bostor congressman. "Will you vote to send a man into a neighborhood where it is believed he cannot get justice? Why, it is only a few days since we read what went on down at Scottsboro. Let that be fresh in your minds.

"I make no charge against Virginia," Mr. Luce went on. "But we understand that Virginia views this particular question from a point of view otherwise than that of a man from a northern state. We have felt that there are parts of this country where, by reason of his color, a man does not get a fair trial. We understand that in some parts of this country jurors are not selected with due regard to the constitutional provision that there shall be no debarment of any man from his rights as a citizen because of his color.

"We know the difficulties that are involved. We sympathize with our friends from the south. We do not pretend to be holier or wiser than they are. We do not advance that issue at all. We face the fact—the fact that a colored man sent from a northern state and charged with crime will into precisely the environment where we know he is unlikely to get fair and even handed justice."

BRITISH AUTHORS PROTEST BAN ON GERMAN WRITERS

LONDON, April 26.—Sir James Barrie, as president of the Society of Authors, addressed the following letter, dated April 19, to the German ambassador in London:

"The Society of Authors wishes to point out that contemporary German literature, which of late years has achieved growing popularity in this country, has done much to further an understanding between the German and English speaking peoples.

"The society is, therefore, strongly moved to protest against recent proscription of many German authors whose work has added distinction to that literature, and to remind those responsible for such proscription that the intellectual life of their country will suffer greatly unless it is secured against the malice of political and racial prejudices and allowed reasonable freedom of thought and speech."

TEN DAYS GIVEN TO REVISE CAPONE APPEAL PAPERS

New Orleans, La., April 26.—(AP)—Al Capone, former Chicago gangster, today brought his fight seeking freedom from federal prison on a writ of habeas corpus before the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The court took the case under advisement and granted an additional ten days for Capone's counsel to submit a supplementary brief and for the government to file an answer.

The appeal was from the Atlanta federal District court's decision refusing Capone freedom from a ten year sentence for evading income taxes in 1926, 1927 and 1928. It was contended the statute of limitations had expired prior to indictment.

PUBLISHERS FIX RADIO PROGRAM STATUS AS 'ADS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—A resolution calling on newspapers to accept radio broadcasting programs only as advertising matter, to be paid for as such, was adopted by the forty-seventh annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, meeting today at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The resolution was offered by E. H. Harris, chairman of the association's committee on radio and publisher of the Richmond, Ind., Palladium.

Text of Resolution.

"Whereas, the daily programs of radio broadcast stations offered to newspapers for publication as news really are nothing more nor less than 'advertising,' the resolution said. "And, whereas, there appears to be no sound reason for the treatment of such programs other than as advertising matter; therefore, be it resolved, that it is the sense of this association that in the future newspapers should not publish such programs free of charge, and should publish them when offered only as advertising matter, to be paid for as other advertising is paid for."

In its annual report, the radio committee said many publishers already were classifying radio programs as advertising, while others would like to do so if it were not for competition which "discourages an aggressive policy on the subject."

Offers 5 Points of Policy.

After reviewing the developments in the fight by many publishers to prevent or restrict the broadcasting of news by radio chains and stations, the A. N. P. A. committee presented five recommendations on the subject for the consideration of the convention. They were:

1. That this association should protest against the selling or giving away of news in advance of publication by national organizations, inasmuch as such news is gathered largely through the efforts of newspapers which pay a large part of the cost of its collection. The publishers have recognized property rights in such news and such rights should neither be destroyed nor injured.

2. That all news bulletins in fairness to the newspapers should be in the briefest form and prepared to whet the appetite of the listener for more news to be obtained through the newspapers, and the credit for the broadcasting of national and international news should be given to all newspapers of the United States and the message accompanying the broadcast should state that it is done in the interest of the listening public and through the coöperation of all newspapers.

3. That all newspapers which own or are affiliated with broadcasting stations be requested and urged to limit news items classed as local news to bulletins of the briefest form in order that no newspaper, owning or affiliated with the broadcasting station, will broadcast to the detriment of non-affiliated newspapers within listening distance of that station.

4. Continue a committee proposed in the resolution adopted by the board of directors of the A. N. P. A. Dec. 6, to receive suggestions and complaints from publishers.

5. That the proprietary rights of a newspaper in the news which it gathers or for which it pays is one of its most valuable assets and therefore this asset should be preserved at all costs by legal action in cases of news piracy."

NELLIE T. ROSS APPOINTED AS MINT DIRECTOR

Ex-Governor Succeeds Robert J. Grant.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, was today appointed by President Roosevelt to be director of the mint. She had previously been mentioned in connection with the positions of United States treasurer and civil service commissioner.

The nomination of Mrs. Ross was sent to the senate today immediately after the resignation of Robert J. Grant, who relinquished the position of director of the mint to become financial adviser in charge of the national government central mint at Shanghai, China.

Active in Politics.

Mr. Grant will sail from San Francisco for Shanghai on May 19. Before leaving Washington he plans to confer with Chinese Minister of Finance Soong, who is en route to Washington for a conference with President Roosevelt on world economic conditions.

Since her retirement as governor of Wyoming Mrs. Ross has been active in Democratic national politics as head of the women's organization of the party and vice chairman. She toured the country in several speech making trips and is regarded as one of the best known women in Democratic politics. She has the record of having been the first woman governor, succeeding her husband, Gov. William B. Ross, who died in October, 1924.

Active While Governor.

Among her accomplishments as governor of Wyoming were her support of the upper basin states of the Colorado river in the controversy over the dam at Boulder canyon, her activity in bringing about the defeat of banking legislation which she believed would turn over the appointment of bank examiners to the bankers of Wyoming and her policy of economy and tax reduction in the state government.

Mr. Grant has been director of the mint since 1923 when he was appointed by former President Coolidge.

MISS PERKINS ASKS MINE PAY PARLEY TO WAIT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27 (Thursday).—(AP)—The conference of miners' representatives and operators on a 35 per cent wage cut was adjourned early today at the request of Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced the adjournment pending the call of the conference chairman, W. W. Inglis, president of the Glen Alden Coal company, and made public a telegram from Miss Perkins requesting the action.

The message read:

"John L. Lewis, Chairman Miners' Delegation, Bellevue Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia: Due to pending legislation concerning reduced hours of operation and due to possibility of improved financial conditions bringing about a rise in prices, it is my suggestion you delay conference on any change in present wage scale for 30 days.

"If it is your joint wish I will be glad to have department of labor division of information and special studies make thorough and complete study of all problems and probable effect on wage structure involved.

"It is also my suggestion that you provide for reopening conference as may be desired at expiration of 30 days so as not to conflict with your agreement not to discuss wage changes oftener than once a year.

USES CALIFORNIA LICENSE PLATES; POLICE GET HIM

Paul P. Zaney, 5316 Dorchester avenue, who drives his automobile in Chicago virtually the year around, according to police, and carries California plates on them, was served with a summons last night. His arrest was caused by a letter to the police signed "Hyde Parker." His car, police said, bore 1932 California plates, and Zaney, they added, has already sent to the west coast for 1933 plates. The west coast licenses cost only $3. Zaney must explain in Wabash avenue court tomorrow.

Police yesterday continued the drive started this week to enforce state and city automobile license laws. A survey late last night showed 2,688 arrests on the third day of the campaign.

In the meantime Judge Joseph McGarry, in the South State street police court, called attention to the large number of motorists who are ignoring the arrest slips. Warrants were issued for those who failed to appear in court and the judge threatened to assess fines in these cases.

Those who responded to the summonses with receipts for their state plates and city stickers were discharged, while others who responded were given two weeks' continuance to pay their automobile taxes.

BARES JAPANESE PLANS TO SEIZE RUSSIAN RAILWAY

Dispatch Tells of 'Violent Actions' Ordered by Tokio

MOSCOW, April 26.—(AP)—A dispatch from Kharbarovsk, Siberia, tonight quoting "competent sources" said that Japanese circles in Manchuria, acting with approval of the Japanese Kwantung army headquarters, had adopted a plan to seize the Chinese Eastern railway from soviet Russia.

This would be acomplished "under the pretext of transferring this road to Manchukuo," the dispatch said, and would be "a grave violation" of the Peiping-Mukden treaties providing for the construction and operation of the road.

Disorganization of normal activities of the railway, particularly of the eastern branch, by interrupting through freight traffic from Russian lines and the general undermining of the railway's financial position would precede the seizure, according to the dispatch.

Hit Working Conditions.

(The seventh wreck within a month on the railroad, which is jointly operated by Russia and Manchukuo, occurred today when bandits derailed a repair train sent to help another previously wrecked by the same brigands. Manchukuo troops aboard were reported to have fled without offering resistance.)

The Khabarovsk message added that according to trustworthy information the Japanese consul-general at Harbin, Manchuria, named Morissima, has been intrusted with the administration of the Manchuria section of the railroad and that it was under his instructions that "violent actions" had been committed with the result the connection between the Chinese Eastern road and the Transbaikal railway was interrupted.

Tientsin Puzzled by Jap Retreat.

TIENTSIN, China, April 26.—(AP)—The sudden withdrawal of the Japanese army from the area east of the Lwan river provoked widespread bewilderment in Tientsin today and paralyzed the activities of persons who had been intriguing to set up a separate north China state.

Chinese commentators expected that the Japanese would withdraw to the north of the Shih river near Shanhaikwan, evacuating both Peitaiho and Chinwangtao. In some quarters the withdrawal is attributed to tension resulting from the Japanese controversy with soviet Russia over the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria and the strengthening of the soviet attitude.

Good Morning!

Playing the neighborhood houses are a couple of worthwhile movies which I saw by chance in projection rooms and which I reckon I'd better tell you about in case you spot them for yourselves and think I've been holding out on you.

"Humanity" is a "doctor" movie with a "different" gangster slant. An interesting, eventful, human film that it won't hurt the children to see.

The old doctor is worshiped in the humble neighborhood where all his life he has maintained his office and devoted his life to saving those of others—paying scant regard to the monetary end of his profession. A simple and kindly man, but a brilliant one as well. When the story opens you discover him at a banquet given in his honor upon the occasion of his election to the state medical board.

Very happy is Dr. MacDonald! This evening—the homage of his colleagues. Tomorrow—the arrival of Bill from Europe, where he has been studying. The elder man hopes that the young one will join him in ministering to his beloved poor, and—it is an ardent wish—marry Nancy Moore, the former's efficient and understanding secretary and general assistant.

KIND: Light, bright, farce comedy.

ACTING: Great! Alison Skipworth again proves herself an ace high comedienne, Roland Young is simply scrumptious in his own inimitable fashion, and other rôles are handled with discretion an dspontaneity.

DIRECTION: Excellent.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, SCENERY: As you like it.

STORY: Lady Bonnell, accompanied by her niece Cecily, comes to America in search of the latter's father, Lord Reginald Withers, who, having lost his all in dear old England, has invaded America to recoup. [Popular pastime.]

He is discovered a-speakeasying and having much grief with—never mind! Lady Bonnell soon has the situation well in hand. Of course, romance scatters its rose leaves across the farcical pathway. . . .

Hostess for Heidelberg Party

[Toloff Photo.]

Miss Georgia Lloyd of Evanston will be one of the young hostesses at the dinner dance to be given Saturday night at the Old Heidelberg inn at A Century of Progress by the Southern Women's Education alliance. This will be the first party at the German inn and all the tickets, 1,100 of them, were sold several days ago, according to Mrs. Hubert Burnham, one of the committee in charge.

How Alliance Helps Country Girls in City

Mrs. Hubert Burnham Tells Work of S. W. E. A.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"Do you know," Mrs. Hubert Burnham is inquiring of her friends this week, "that more than half the children in the United States are 'rural,' that two-thirds of all our public schools are one room country schools"

"Do you wonder then," she continues, "that the Southern Woman's Educational alliance is bursting with pride that is going to entertain 1,100 guests Saturday evening at a real old fashioned German beer party down at the World's Fair Old Heidelberg? You see many of these children . . . these calico queens and barefoot beaux . . . are charges of the alliance. Its job is to uphold the morale of those who are suffering economic handicap. And it takes money to do it."

Mrs. George Lawrence Wilkinson is propounding the same questions and telling the same story this week. And so are Mrs. Sewell L. Avery, Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, Mrs. George Scott, and Mrs. Harvey S. Knight for they are all members of the alliance and they have all been bending every effort toward making the week-end frolic one of the gayest as well as one of the most remunerative events of this spring season.

The fact that it will be successfully remunerative is no longer a question. Eleven hundred lucky persons have tickets and reservations. Another four or five hundred are secretly hoping that some of their fortunate friends may suddenly decide on a trip to Bermuda or find pressing business in New York Saturday evening.

Neither does the gayety remain in doubt. The very fact that the party is to be the first big affair at Old Heidelberg, is enough said. A number of small groups have gone down to the inn since it opened a fortnight back for luncheon or dinner. But this has only increased interest in the "grand opening."

The murals on the rough hewn walls are perfect. Then there are some splendid oils and etchings of Old Heidelberg, a nice shiny bar, and a good dance floor.

"But to return to the alliance," says Mrs. Burnham whenever she digresses to Old Heidelbergs. "It is concerned mostly with girls though boys come in for their share of attention. We want to keep up the morale of girls who have left home, who have had positions in the cities and then, owing to depression, have lost their jobs and had to return where conditions were already straitened. This is accomplished by means of group conferences, special lectures and literature, radio talks, extension courses, personal interviews, and correspondence. So many times the rural girl rushed through a country school and to the city can be saved from misfortune by sympathetic guidance and understanding in her early years."

A thousand girls every twelve months is the record of the alliance the last 14 years. And this refers only to those who have been given direct counsel. Hundreds of thousands have received help indirectly. Back of the alliance are the National Information bureau and the presidents of half a dozen leading colleges and universities. Fifteen years ago the Chicago branch was born.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The title "Martha Washington Wreath" does not mean that the design dates back as far as revolutionary days; the pattern was designed by a direct descendant of Martha Washington. It originated in the year 1840, which classifies it as being only of middle age as compared with many of the old, old quilt designs we already have published and others which will appear in the future.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Fair Trustees to Arrange Today for Enchanted Island Opening

Huge Bottle of Milk Will Be Broken Over "Magic Mountain" at May 6 Dedication.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE merits of milk will undergo discussion today in the trustees' room of the Administration building at A Century of Progress. A specially selected committee including Maj. Lennox R. Lohr, Dr. Ernest Ray Moulton, and Miss Josephine Blackstock, all of them officials of the fair, will decide how milk should be used for christening the Enchanted island at 2 o'clock the afternoon of May 6.

Several weeks ago this date became a red letter day for all of the boys and girls in town when it was announced that the Junior league would open the children's theater on the island with the production of "Peter Pan," but it wasn't until yesterday that the fair decided to break a great big bottle of milk over that grand pink confection known as the "Magic Mountain" the same day and open all the fairyland amusements on the isle. This means that the Tony Sarg restaurant, the children's library, the exhibit room, and the rest of the "enchanted" entertainment will be in working order. In addition the supervised playgrounds will be ready to "check" children.

The dedication ceremony, according to Miss Blackstock, who is the director of the Enchanted island, will be short but quite in keeping with the character of the playground. Mrs. Lohr is to break the bottle of milk over the magic mountain and then one of Chicago's most celebrated poets [which one hasn't yet been determined] will read a bit of verse written especially for the occasion. Maude Adams, who has been invited by the Junior league to come from New York to see the opening of the play that is almost synonymous with her name, will have another part in the dedicatory program and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes still another.

Casts of Plays to Make Talkies.

And apropos of the Children's theater, there is a second exciting piece of news this morning. Many of the 125 play groups that are to give performances in the theater this summer on a ten to ten schedule [that is 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening] are to have the thrilling experience of making talking motion pictures. An arrangement has been made by which the various casts will be taken from the theater over to the Hollywood building [also on Northerly isle], where pictures will be filmed. Then these films will, in turn, be taken back and shown on a screen in the Children's theater. Close-ups are also to be made of some of the youngest actors and then thrown on the screen of the Children's theater at various times during the summer. For those boys and girls who recognize themselves in the flickering lights there will be prizes.

Incidentally, the Children's theater is to be ready tomorrow for "Peter Pan" rehearsals. The lovely decorations by Alfonse Ianelli that represent famous story book characters are just about finished, and the stage, almost as big as any loop platform, has all of its equipment in order. The Junior leaguers will go to work in costume tomorrow, for all of the "leads" reported yesterday they were ready for a dress rehearsal.

Place Handicraft in Exhibit Room.

The exhibit room which is to be such an important and interesting part of the Enchanted island received an important contribution yesterday. Mrs. William J. Chalmers and Mrs. Abel Davis visited the Fair to offer a display of the handicrafts done by the handicapped boys and girls at the Country Home for Convalescent Children, in which they are vitally interested. Other things that grownups as well as the young generation will want to go to the exhibit room to see are a cross section of Bertrand Russell's experimental school in London and a miniature of the school Tagore has in India. Then there will be the grand doll house Mrs. Berg L. Jenks is bringing from Cleveland.

The children's library deserves still another note for it is going to be delightful beyond description. Miss Eloise Re Qua and Victor Elting are responsible for it. They decided there wasn't enough free amusement on the island, so they conspired with publishers here and in other cities to donate books for a reading room. It's really to be called a story cove with little green and white chairs for 6 to 12 year olds and perfectly charming murals and pictures that will make any oldster want to sit down and hear a bedtime tale, too.

Authors, both domestic and foreign, are being invited to act as the story tellers. Mary Hastings Bradley heads the list since she is to be the first in May. From then on there will be, among others, Dorothy Aldis, Margaret Ayer Barnes, Louise Ayres Garnett, Eunice Tietjens, and perhaps Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt. An invitation went to the first lady last week.

Three Plays Tonight at Arts Club.

A Japanese play by Kichizo Nakamura, an Italian play by Pirandello, and a play by Chicago's own Alice Gerstenberg are to be given tonight at the Arts club, after which the audience and the actors and actresses will mingle to enjoy light refreshments, sandwiches, coffee, or chocolate, and a sweet.

Some of those who are taking guests are Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Wallace Wakem, Mrs. Frank E. Wheeler, Mrs. Walter Ayer, Mrs. Spencer Brown, Mrs. Jefferson Jackson, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, Mrs. William S. Ennis, Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Miss Agnes Foreman, Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. Jacob Bischof, Mrs. Luther A. Bodman, and Mrs. William C. Whitcomb, whose daughter, Mrs. Byron F. Harvey Jr., is to play in Miss Gerstenberg's "Sentience."

It might seem from this list of those who have reservations that there will be only women in the audience, but it will be a mixed one, of course; it is only that all the reservations were made by women.

The young earl of Warwick's first dinner in Chicago will be rather a late one, for he does not land at the Municipal airport until 8:40 tonight from California. He will be met by the Lucius B. Mannings and taken up to their apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive to dine. That is the only entertainment that is planned definitely before his arrival, but undoubtedly he will be kept as busy as every prominent foreigner who visits this hospitable shore is, and all the debutantes and second year girls are hoping they will have a chance to meet this earl who is only 22 and is said to be very attractive and personable.

Polo Players Go to Few Parties.

Even with three days of vacation before their final polo match Saturday evening, Winston Guest, Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart, and Harvey Shaffer are voting for a "pineapple-lamb chop" diet and sleep in a two to one ratio.

Yesterday when we talked to Mr. Phipps [at noon] he volunteered that his teammates were still deep in the feathers and that they had accepted just as few invitations as "the law will allow." "And by this," he added, "I don't mean to infer that we don't like Chicago. We're having a perfectly 'swell' time."

This evening the polo stars are having cocktails and dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strotz at the Strotz apartment at 1244 Stone street. Yesterday afternoon the players spent on the Onwentsia golf course. Mrs. Will-

A suite of modern bedroom furniture in which the lighting fixtures are embedded in the framework was placed on display for the first time in Chicago yesterday. The new furniture will be exhibited the rest of the week in the bungalow of the Chicago Lighting institute in the Civic Opera building.

The attempt has been made, according to executives of the institute, to make the lighting effect as mysterious as daylight. No bulbs, wire, or switches are in evidence. In the mirror above the dresser and on the vanity dressing table tubular lights of diffused glass have been embedded in the frames.

Neck Scarves Prominent in Evening Dress

Enlarged Ascot Model Is Popular.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Did you know that the smartest women are wearing neck scarves with frilly evening clothes, and with all the dresses that are particularly designed for "after five" wear? The scarves are lovely femininized versions of the tailored daytime ascots, only larger.

Some very imaginative designer has presented extraordinarily stunning numbers of that sheer stuff called mousseline de soie . . . the center section is of white, one looped end is of shadowy black and the other looped end is of striped red and white. These evening ascots are huge, you wear them tied coquettishly under your chin, with the stiffened ends sticking outside the collar or lapels of your evening coat.

Other styles feature plaids, checks and dots combined with plain contrasting colors. They are tremendously effective with all the newest dinner and dance dresses in all light and dark colors.

Also, have you noticed how many smart shoulders are covered with point d'esprit capes . . . absurdly old fashioned looking affairs, but utterly feminine and fascinating this spring? Even the fluted edgings are revived from the kind of capes your grandmother used to wear. Black and white and red are the three most fashionable colors for evening cape contrast.

While you are indulging in fine dotted net, do look at the separate quips of this fragilely flattering stuff . . . you'll see huge puffed sleeves with ruched epaulet shoulder effects, quaint but unusually good foils for slim, black or white clinging dance frocks. They all have delightfully modest price tags that will fit any clothes allowance.

Printed silk fashions some new combines of handbag and scarf . . . old gold and deep blue printed silk scarf is matched to a swanky scarf that can be tied any number of ways under suit or top coats . . . the bags are exceedingly well made, fitted with plenty of the necessary compartments, a separate case for money and extras, as well as a separate compartment for cigarettes. The prices are amazingly low for such smart things, and you may select from a large number of colorful printed designs.

Other stylish articles that will make your eyes open are the evening accessories of cire ribbon, that liquid lacquered stuff, in brilliant scarlet, and sleek and shiny white and black. Cleverly designed short coats, capes and trick combines of sash and shoulder cape are breath takingly dramatic with white and pastel colored evening apparel. Likewise, some lacquered nets and dotted nets that will do lovely contrasts for classically simple crêpe dance dresses are featured in fluted shoulder capes, guimpes, and very brief coats.

This is the year to get together your dated evening gowns, slash out last year's sleeves, wear this spring's newest guimpe or cape sensation, and presto! a brand new frock as far as the spectators are concerned.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior, after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns, after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months, for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. Greer at one time saved the Lawrence fortune and Blake feels in honor bound not to interfere with the crooked schemes he knows Greer is engaged in. Meryl believes Blake won't fight Greer because of Christine. Greer causes the death of Ola Palka, an old friend and neighbor of the Hendersons. Theresa and Meryl go to New York to attend a charity conference. Blake's separation from Meryl makes him realize he is in love with her, though he thinks Meryl is now interested in his friend, Cy Granville, whom Meryl has met in New York. Meryl returns home with a determination to fight Greer herself, with the aid of Cy. Meryl learns, through one of her charity calls, that Blake's business partner is allied with Greer. Blake and Cy are having a conference when Meryl phones Blake on her way to his office.

INSTALLMENT XI.

A BROKEN BARGAIN.

"I've decided, Cy, to step out and do the thing my own father would have done if he had been alive," said Blake.

There was a suggestion of moisture in his eyes as he spoke.

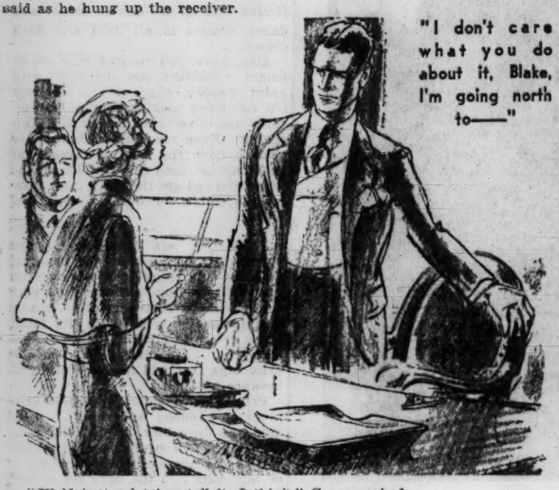
"That will be good news to Meryl," Cy told him.

Blake drew himself up quickly in his chair. "I want you to understand me, Cy. I am not doing this—for her. I'm doing it for myself. I have lain awake for nights thinking it over, and I decided to tell you about it on your next visit to town."

"Of course—I don't know what to say, old man," Cy replied awkwardly, "but you must know how I feel. Perhaps we might have another drink on it."

They had another drink, and fell to talking of their plans, and how Blake had kept his secret from Theresa and old Tom Lawrence, as well as from Meryl, so that he might first of all talk with Cy. They were in an almost hilarious mood when Meryl finally telephoned.

"I wonder what's on the girl's mind that's so damned important," Blake said as he hung up the receiver.



"We'd better let her tell it, I think," Cy remarked.

"You know what it is?'

Cy laughed. "I have a hunch. But I think I'll keep it to myself until she gets here. It's a poor kind of secret that can't wait for twenty minutes."

"Then, I'll make a bargain with you, Cy. Keep your secret, and let her tell it. In the meantime, everything I've told you here is to be kept until I tell it."

Meryl threw the door open and looked from one to the other of the two men who rose in their places as she came in. Then, without a word, she closed the door behind her and walked straight to Blake.

She was breathless as she stood before him.

"Well, who's dead?" Blake asked her with a smile.

"Nobody's dead—nobody!" she retorted with an air of defiance in her manner. "We're going to be very much alive from now on, unless I'm very much mistaken."

"Well, my dear, let's have it, whatever it is."

She jerked her hat from her head and shook her hair free. "You once told me, Blake, that you would keep your hands off Julius Greer so long as he kept his hands off you."

"I probably did," he replied.

"You might have known that, sooner or later, he'd find it convenient to break his side of the bargain."

"I have no need of being careful any more," she told him, and turned to Cy. "Have you told Blake anything?"

"Nothing," Cy assured her.

"Well, it's all true, Cy, all true—and worse than we thought."

Blake stared at her, a dull red flush creeping up to the roots of his hair. When the color drained away again he was white with fury. His mouth twisted in a silence that was terrible.

"I don't care what you do about it, Blake," she said passionately, "I'm going to get the names of those people he has tricked and I'm going north to——"

He stepped beside her and grasped her shoulder. He looked down at her with eyes that were like gleaming steel.

He stepped back and looked at Cy. "Take her home, Cy," he said, "and see that she stays in the house till I get there. I have a job to handle before dinner."

As Cy and Meryl closed the door behind them, Blake rang for his secretary.

"Let me know as soon as Mr. Inglis comes into his office," he said brusquely.

It was something more than half an hour later that Blake flung open the door of Fred Inglis' office and confronted the man who had been his partner for years. Fred, who was alone, looked up with a confused expression from a scattering of papers he was assembling on his desk.

Blake felt curiously that all his muscles were tightening in a knot somewhere in his body. Here was the man he had trusted implicitly through five years of business trials and uncertainties. Here was the man who knew, as no one else outside of the family knew, just how bitterly he felt about Julius Greer's projected destruction of the Lake Country. Here was the man who—for a consideration, no doubt—was playing into Greer's hands, even at the moment that he was sympathizing with Blake for his ethical inability to take a stand against Greer.

He closed the door behind him and walked toward the desk behind which Fred Inglis sat.

"Have you seen Julius Greer today?" he asked.

Inglis gave him a searching look. "Not yet. As a matter of fact, he's coming over to take me around to the club in fifteen minutes or so. Ought to be around almost any time."

"What's on your mind, Blake?"

Blake eyed his partner for some seconds in silence. "Fred," he said at last, "after today the firm of Lawrence and Inglis is no more."

Inglis got to his feet. "Say—what's wrong with you?"

"I'm telling you that the firm is a thing of the past. Julius Greer has busted it to hell!"

A glassy pallor appeared on the face of Fred Inglis. "Hell!" he cried. "I wish you'd explain——"

"I'm talking about your deals with Steve Pulaski," Blake interrupted. "Steve Pulaski! What's the matter with him? He has lots of money. He's been buying that stuff on his own—planning a big dairy industry——"

"You were over there this afternoon, weren't you?"

"Sure I was. What's wrong with that?"

"We're wasting time, Fred," Blake warned him. "You know what's wrong with it—and I know. Get down to facts. I'm going to have action—and I'm going to have it now. Get our your map and the names of those farmers—and get them out quick!"

The face of Fred Inglis had gone a sickly gray. The little scheme he had nursed for weeks in the hope of making a tidy fortune for himself was crumbling under his very eyes. He became suddenly desperate. He became possessed of the violence of the desperate. And he was not a frail man.

"You'll not talk to me like that!" he said, and his fist shot out quickly to Blake's jaw.

Blake reeled backward and steadied himself. He had not expected that. He shook his head, then leaped forward and seized Inglis. In a moment Blake had him on the floor, his arms pinned helplessly behind him, his mouth gasping for breath.

"Now," Blake panted, "are you going to give me what I want or do I have to tear this place apart to get it?"

iam H. Mitchell is disappointed that she isn't able to entertain for them at a "grand" party for both she and Mr. Mitchell are good friends of all of them, but she is spending most of her time down in the state capital working for a state referendum on prohibition. With her in Springfield is Mrs. Leslie Wheeler.

The only big party of the week for the Guest-Phipps-Iglehart-Shaffer quartet is the dance Saturday evening at the 124th Field Artillery armory following the polo game. Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner are making all of the arrangements. Before the game Col. and Mrs. Haffner will have a small dinner party in the elaborate officers' club in the armory.

Maude Wingfield Bride of Hamlin.

Calla lilies and white snapdragons were used by Mrs. Frank Hibbard to give a bridal like appearance to her charming apartment on Astor street yesterday when Mrs. Maude Murdoch Wingfield became the bride of Paul D. Hamlin. Judge Thomas Taylor read the service at 4:30 o'clock in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard—he and the bridegroom went to St. Paul's preparatory school together—the bride's daughter, Jeanine, and George G. Dewey, who served as Mr. Hamlin's best man.

The bride wore a becoming outfit of pale beige, dress and cape and hat, all of light weight wool, with touches of brown on the turban. Her flowers were white orchids and there was a bit of white pique at the neckline of her gown.

Miss Wingfield was lovely in pale gray silk, frock and hat, and she wore no flowers. After the ceremony about fifty friends dropped in for tea with the bride and bridegroom, and Miss Wingfield and Miss Lillian Dudley presided at the tea table, which was all in white. Mr. Hamlin and his bride did not disclose their plans for the next fortnight, but after then they will be at home at 10 East Schiller street.

Mrs. Hamlin formerly lived in San Francisco and Nevada, but she and her daughter spent this winter in Chicago, where they have made many friends.

Arrange for Baby Week.

At three large tables decorated with huge, rather flat centerpieces of the gayest spring flowers, lilacs, tulips, daffodils, and various other colorful blossoms, about forty prominent workers for the Infant Welfare society were hostesses at luncheon yesterday to six women of the press at the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Kenath T. Sponsel, chairman of publicity for the woman's auxiliary, presided and short talks about the work of the society were made by Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, president of the auxiliary, and Miss Jeannette Townsend, extension secretary.

The society of which Philip D. Armour is president, has for its object the reduction of the infant death rate and the improvement of the health of the coming generation by keeping the baby well, before its birth by caring for the mother, and after its birth by teaching her how to feed and care for her child. The society is launching its annual Baby week next Sunday and all the 28 centers have given or will give soon benefits to help raise their quotas for the support of the stations.

At the party yesterday were Mrs. John H. McIlvaine, and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles of Lake Forest, Mrs. Herbert F. Perkins, Mrs. Eugene Schobinger, Mrs. Lyle Harper, Mrs. Edwin Sims, Mrs. Frank Smithies, Mrs. Arthur Lindheimer, Mrs. George B. Cross, Mrs. Hunter Dickson, Mrs. Robert W. Hyman, Mrs. Wilton B. Martin, Mrs. Bernhardt Gissel, and Mrs. Akfred J. Bates Jr., all of Chicago. Mrs. E. F. Snydacker, Mrs. Russell Matthias, and Miss Eleanor Lippincott of Kenilworth, Mrs. Fuller Gregson, and Mrs. Edward Mortimer of Beverly Hills, Mrs. George F. Dick, Mrs. Elias Lyman Jr., Mrs. Linn F. McBride, and Mrs. A. G. Wiltberger of Evanston, Mrs. Roderick Macpherson of Highland Park, Mrs. Frederick McElhone, and Mrs. H. L. Stockton of Hinsdale, Mrs. Jack Windsor, and Mrs. George Speir Jr. of La Grange, Mrs. George Wallerich, Mrs. Duncan M. Rowles, Mrs. Lionel B. Hakes, and Mrs. Robert F. McMaster of Oak Park, Mrs. C. T. Frykman, and Mrs. Lester Mee of Wilmette, Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow, Mrs. Lewis Williams, Miss Lois Truesdale, and Miss Georgiana Fowler of Winnetka.

Benefit for Grove House.

Every north shore household has been ransacked the last week for white elephants with the result that the board of directors of Grove House for Convalescents is ready this morning for one of the most exciting rummage sales in the history of the charity. The sale, with Mrs. Morris K. Nelson as the general chairman, is to open at 9 o'clock at 1506 Sherman street, Evanston.

In anticipation of long lazy hot weather days ahead with plenty of time to catch up on everything from comedy to international affairs, the Woman's Athletic club is presenting Mrs. Edwin Johnson at 11 o'clock this morning in a lecture on "Summer Reading."

For the luncheon, which is to follow, Mrs. Frederick d'Aix will entertain a party of twenty-four. Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze will be hostess at the directors' table and Mrs. Earl Reeve, Mrs. Charles Ward Seebury, Mrs. Albert B. Wegener, and Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley will have smaller groups of guests.

The Fortnightly is to hold its annual meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Preceding the meeting the club is entertaining the entire membership at luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pomeroy Davison and their sons, Harry Pomeroy Jr. and John and James Davison, are at Appledore, their country home at Oyster Bay, L. I., for the spring and early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Newbold L. Herrick entertained at dinner and at the theater this evening in celebration of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Marshall of Woodmere, L. I.

Mainbocher Gives Navy Wool Suit Body of Satin

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Suits having jackets with bodies by Paris are likely to be divided into two fabrics, such as satin and wool. Madeleine Vionnet and Mainbocher are making lots of woolen wraps that have their heating capacities shut off by putting satin in the body. The primal impulse in making such wraps is comfort in warm weather, and in the hands of two such experts these garments acquire real chic.

Some of the wool and satin jackets that appear combine printed silk with wool, but those that are made of wool and satin are better for the tailored town suit.

The pictured suit by Mainbocher has a body in navy satin and is one of the smartest and most popular suits in Paris for mild weather. It is as you see a strictly tailored suit, with a straight, double breasted jacket and a simple skirt. The jacket sleeves and collar are made of smooth navy blue wool. It is fastened by plain bone buttons, also dark blue. The loud and fancy button and clip are going out of style.

The skirt of this suit has a wide front gore that conceals a knife plait on either side, just put there to make walking easy and pressed flat to eliminate any effect of fullness.

The blouse, shown in the background, is one of those exquisite hand-worked slipover blouses that are so smart with suits this season. It is pale blue cotton net with organdy circles applied all over by hand. The Mainbocher hat is brand new. A sort of cap beret with a squared bill over the eyes, set on a bandeau.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented Saturday by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

It does seem that blue grapes aren't being given a fair break. We have them in our gardens or at the grocer's for a short space in the fall. We eat them enthusiastically those autumn weeks in everything from soups to pastry.

Then, presto!—grapes are gone! And though we did put away some of their goodness in a few jars of jam and jelly—and are even planning to drink up some quarts of juice next summer in beverages—still, on the whole, we go blue grapeless three-fourths of the year.

The first thing, if you agree with me that grapes deserve a much better deal than they are getting, is to see just what can be done for variation with our three now available sources of grape flavor—juice, jam, and jelly.

First for a grape sauce which may have a score of uses:

CREAMY GRAPE SAUCE.

1 egg white, unbeaten.

Place the jelly in the top of a double boiler over hot water. When softened, add the salt and the unbeaten egg white. Beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth and stiff. Cool and fold in the cream, which has been whipped stiff. This sauce gives a delicious mauve color and an irresistible tang to hot bread pudding, baked rice pudding, baked or boiled custard and a score of other delicacies.

Or grape jam or jelly should be given a chance to turn up in old fashioned jelly rolls, between layers of sponge layer cake, atop diamonds of crisp pie crust or in puff paste tarts. Bread pudding made with nothing more impressive than bread crumbs, milk, sugar and vanilla—with a dash of grated cocoanut if your heart longs for it—can be turned into a company affair by the addition of grape jam or jelly and a meringue. Simply bake the pudding as usual [in a casserole, if you have one], and while still hot spread it with grape jam or jelly. Pile over the top 2 egg whites beaten till stiff with ¼ cup of sugar. Brown in a quick oven and serve.

Then there are drinks. A novel grape thirst quencher is made after this order:

1 tablespoon sugar.

Combine the ingredients and shake enthusiastically. All the liquids should have been chilled previously so that the shake may be served up immediately. Try grape shake on the family some Sunday evening together with fruit or oatmeal cookies—and watch them disappear!

Music Friends Will Open Fair Season June 7

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The first concert to be given under the auspices of the Friends of Music at the Auditorium will take place on the evening of Wednesday, June 7. It will be a Wagnerian program. A Century of Progress Festival chorus will play, a trained chorus will sing, there will be a soloist of national prominence, yet to be named, and Frederick Stock will conduct.

The previously announced opening date, June 4, has been canceled out of courtesy to A Century of Progress exposition because on that day a gigantic performance of "The Messiah" will be given on the exposition grounds. A huge choir, said to be made up from no less than 236 choral organizations, will sing under the direction of George L. Tenney, and the festival orchestra will play.

The illness of Alexander Sebald caused another postponement of the concert by the string quartet which bears his name and of which he is the first violin, scheduled to take place at Kimball hall last night.

Sylvia Tell, at the time of her connection with the Chicago Opera the first and youngest premiere danseuse in opera, will appear at Orchestra hall Saturday night after having been absent from the Chicago stage for a number of seasons. The event is a benefit concert for the Baby Life Guards of the Mothers' Milk bureau, and she will have the assistance of a ballet and of Leola Aikman, soprano. One of her numbers will be "Idee Rhythmique," the music of which is by another Chicagoan, Rudolph Ganz.

Sixteen Is Too Young to Think of Getting Wed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He is 25; the girl, 16. Her parents object strenuously to the match. They ask her to wait two years, at least.

Fair enough, we argue with the parents. Sixteen is pitifully young to take the step these days. In an earlier era, 16 married, bore many children, died young, making room for another to fill her place. Today child-bearing is not the active occupation it once was. The 16 year old remains a girl for years to come, with a girl's taste in flighty amusement. Marriage does not provide her with activity enough to fill her day. The consequence is that she finds herself a young thing in her 'teens with a marriage yoke around her neck.

Eighteen is still young—but different. In those two years girls grow into women. Their vision is different, their judgment more reliable, their experience broader. Eighteen is no ripe age, understand. But it is a great deal riper than 16.

Why do men of 25 want to marry 16? Girls of 22 and 23 are surely still young enough to meet the youth demand if that is what they want. A 16 year old sister, to a man of 25, is "only a kid."

We are stanch believers in early marriage. But 16 we believe much too early. Marriage is a hard game, as it has to be practiced today. It calls for maturer, steadier character than 16 should ever be expected to bring. Sixteen should be fun-loving gay, a bit foolish, giggly. It's only beginning to get acquainted with boys. It should not be sidetracked with one boy—and he her senior by nine years.

What does an average 16 year old school girl know about managing a household? Be it only a small apartment, it still has to be conducted well. What does she know about cooking, cleaning? About compromising with a mate? About any of the adjustments marriage will demand? It's a shame, we say, for an older man to try to imprison a 16 year old youngster in a matrimonial cage.

Daily Facial Care Results in a Better Skin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Only the skin of youth stands the clear, raw light of high noontide without flinching. This does not mean, of course, that one has to be 16 to enjoy the noonday limelight. One may be much older and still qualify as possessor of a juvenile's complexion because of the constant daily care that has been given it for years.

It's when one is getting on toward middle life that the older woman's fancy is forced to turn to facial betterment. She looks muddy of face and feels muddy about her face. I suppose everything else bobbing up and around in gay new spring garb intensifies the nonfreshness of her complexion.

However, it's not as sad as all that. Not with what the beauticians have to offer today. Or what home treatments can do!

The hats may be just a little kinder this year than last—but nothing to brag about. If you go in for brims, O. K. But if you go in for the high turban type you surely need a young looking skin not to look like your aunt's grandmother.

Why not give yourself a thirty day complexion cure? Just set it down deliberately and cold bloodedly on your calender that your complexion has to get fifteen minutes' treatment a day for thirty days. The magic of this treatment you'll only know by trying it. I got the idea from one who did this very thing. And the change in a month is unbelievable.

The woman keeps on at it, satisfied now that she can give fifteen minutes daily and never miss it from her busy day. And she says if one month will do what it has done for her complexion (and consequent spirits), two or three will make a completely new woman of her.

I have a theory that complexion care becomes a hit and miss performance unless one is deliberate about it. Deliberate enough to don a kimono, tie back the hair and give up the time to cleansing and massaging the face thoroughly; to letting the face (and neck) rest under a skin food covering for a few minutes; then to wiping this off and applying an astringent. The latter may be ice, which I thoroughly believe in for the not-young face; it may be cold water, or your favorite astringent.

Wise Parent Keeps Child in Fearless State

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Any one who has visited a nursery school for the first time is probably more impressed and awed by the little children's physical fearlessness than by any other thing. Youngsters climb on boxes, mount small ladders, go up and down stairs and slide down the wooden inclines with a sureness and a balance that is surprising—if you don't know children. Of course, the watchful eyes of the teacher are ever on them, but they do not know it.

Little children can be kept fearless or made fearful to a great degree by the attitude of their mother. If she surrounds her baby by such phrases as "Take care, you'll hurt yourself," "Look out, that's dangerous," etc., she can—if he is sensitive or impressionable—kill his initiative and adventurousness and make him hesitant and fearful.

Of course, there are many things he can do that are dangerous, but with very little children it is necessary to guard them against such dangers by our continual presence.

Home Should Teach Politics—Mrs. Roosevelt

Talks to Women Voters at Council Dinner.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special]—The wife of the President of the United States said that children best acquire an interest in citizenship at home. A college president urged that students be given an emergency ration of politics before casting their first vote. A college professor who's gone into politics admitted he was a little surprised the American public should be so surprised when a professor went into politics.

And the National League of Women Voters council, before whom this trio of talks was made tonight at dinner, applauded each suggestion.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was herself hostess to visiting foreigners at a formal dinner at the White House at 8, hurried over to the dinner at 7, in order to keep her promise, made to Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the women voters, "long before the world at large decided to come to Washington."

As for any stiff formula of education for citizenship, she said she had none. But she had a theory she thought pretty satisfactory. It was this:

Then Mrs. Roosevelt switched from mother to teacher, as she advised that teachers should "take their students on field trips in citizenship. Give them concrete, definite incidents around which to revolve their generalities."

Miss Marion Edwards Park, president of Bryn Mawr college, declared that today's college is not interested in government. She blamed the parents and she blamed the teachers.

Prof. Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, who seemed a little irked that the public has made much of the fact that he is also a professor, said it was a "purely American reaction;" pointed out that in England it was nothing unusual, reminded his audience that France had sent a professor over here at the head of her mission.

THE STAGE

The Selwyn theater, which has been closed since the "Counsellor-at-Law" engagement of last spring, will reopen Sunday night, May 14, with a farce of British origin called "Peggy, Be Careful." Peggy Worth, who was associated with the play's run in London, and Lynn Overman, well known American actor, will have the leading rôles.

Maria Jeritza, opera singer, may appear on the Broadway stage next season in a new version of the Johann Strauss operetta, "A Night in Venice." The production will be made by J. J. Shubert. Rowland Leigh, who collaborated on the adaptation of Millocker's "The Dubarry," in which Grace Moore appeared in New York this season, has been commissioned by Mr. Shubert to revise the libretto of "A Night in Venice." Mme. Jeritza's appearance in the production depends on her approval of the libretto.

INSPECTOR KELLEY'S HUNCH.

Mrs. Kelley was upset over an accident she had witnessed at the horse show that afternoon.

"Jim," she said exasperatedly turning to her husband, who was enjoying dinner, "nothing short of murder seems to interest you!"

"Never mind the old fossil, Lou," soothed Prof. Fordney giving his hostess' hand a reassuring pat, "I'm listening—did you say it was Capt. Butterworth that was killed?"

"Yes . . . you remember him. He was that charming English cavalry officer we met at the Army and Navy ball . . ."

"Who? That four-flusher! I don't know how he gets away with it. If that bird is an officer then I'm a . . ."

"Jim! He was perfectly charming . . ." Turning to Fordney she continued: "It was dreadful—he wasn't killed outright but he died on the way to the hospital. No one seems to know exactly how it happened. Just as Butterworth started to mount the horse bolted, dragging him along the ground!"

"Was he hanging on to its tail?" innocently queried the inspector.

"Certainly not . . . now you're being horrid—his right foot caught in the stirrup and he was helpless. One of the grooms rode alongside and grabbed the horse by the bridle—too late! I wish I hadn't——"

"Now, Lou, of course I'm sorry about the accident," interrupted her husband, "but nevertheless I knew he was a fake—knew it ten minutes after I talked with him. You ask Joe, here, if my hunch wasn't right—maybe you'll take his word for it!"

COUNTY BOARD TURNS RELIEF OVER TO STATE

Members Attack Growth in Number Helped.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Public relief in Cook county, which is given in the latest available figures as 204,130 cases, became somewhat clarified yesterday when the county board decided to coöperate with the new state commission of five which Gov. Horner is soon to appoint. At the same time the county commissioners want to get part of the new funds expected from the sales tax and the Wagner bill for use in caring for the overloads in the county hospital, Oak Forest infirmary, and other institutions.

A committee of county commissioners headed by President Emmett Whealan will confer with Gov. Horner this week, seeking some method of allocating these funds. The resolution by Commissioner Charles H. Weber calling for the supervision of relief to be placed wholly in the county board was withdrawn by its author after a majority had expressed opposition to it.

Not Anxious for Responsibility.

The board is not anxious to take on directly all this responsibility, although the county welfare bureau under Director Joseph L. Moss is doing the work for the present state commission. This state emergency relief commission is about to consider taking complete and direct control of all relief work, subordinating the county completely.

This substitution of appointive for elective officials does not meet with complete accord even in professional social work circles. The feeling persists in the county board that there is too much professionalism at work here and that expenses could be cut. The March rolls show an average expenditure of $27.01 for 149,927 families and a total expenditure for the month of $4,456,831. The number of applications have steadily been lessening and the curve of the increase is going down, but there is still a monthly net increase.

Proposes Publishing List.

President Whealan suggested at yesterday's meeting that it might cut the relief rolls materially to utilize the election machinery and publish the lists of those on charity. Commissioner Mary McEnerney said she knew of a whole neighborhood of "outside people" who were getting relief and said she believed the state commission had thousands of nonresident clients. Another suggestion made was that prosecutions be instituted under the new state affidavit plan as fast as perjury cases were discovered.

Commissioner Dan Ryan and Commissioner Amelia Sears took the attitude that while there were undoubtedly numerous instances of fraud and dishonesty that the bulk of the aided families were in such straits that they would have no food without this help.

Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, a commissioner, told of her fruitless efforts to get money from the state commission for child placement work and this was one of the problems that will be ironed out with the legislators and the governor. Mr. Whealan said that the first thing to be remembered is that the county budget must be curtailed, that the board must plan to live within the revenue that it could reasonably expect to get.

There was no disposition to minimize the problem or to lessen the work among those in poverty.

Widow Attacks Professionals.

"Human sympathy is not based on statistics, and files, and University of Chicago degrees," said Mrs. Edward J Fleming, chairman of the public welfare committee, "but on human understanding."

"Why is not Cook county permitted to say anything about its relief work?" he wanted to know. "Why not disband the county board and save money? Chicago is loaded with a lot of bums. These professional workers are not trying to cut relief, but to build it up like a business. They seem to be happy at having more customers."

Miss Sears spoke for harmonious work, stating that conflict here might mean a delay in getting federal funds for May. Commissioner William Busse said there should be an end to divided authority. President Whealan said the board had passed a resolution supporting the report of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which calls for a nonpolitical state commission, and that he would stand by it.

The net result was that the commissioners decided to rest their faith in the governor after telling him a few things, and thus they practically wash their hands of the biggest single job in the county.

AVIATION NOTES

Direct service between Detroit and Cleveland over Lake Erie will be inaugurated next week by American Airways, it was announced yesterday. The route will be flown by a fleet of twin motor Sikorsky amphibions, which carry eight passengers, two pilots, baggage, mail and express. The route will be flown in 55 minutes. There will be three planes each way every day.

Service tests of the new Boeing air liner, just placed on the regular scheduled runs of United Air Lines between Chicago and New York, show that the new plane not only will maintain altitude on only one of its two motors, but also will climb with one motor, officials of the air line announced yesterday. The low wing plane, which carries two pilots, ten passengers, a stewardess, mail and express, cruises at a speed of three miles a minute.

Boy of 13 Falls Into River and Is Drowned

Frank Rychlik, 13 years old, of 2120 Canton street, was drowned yesterday when he fell into the north branch of the Chicago river at Diversey parkway. He had been playing beneath the Diversey bridge with several other boys. John Frielich recovered the boy's body.

Joy to Children

Children who happened into the Morrison hotel yesterday paused wide-eyed when they saw an elephant thirty-five feet high apparently perfectly at home in the lobby. The elephant, a mechanical animal heralding the annual toy show which will open next Monday at the Morrison, moves its head, eyes and tusks. A mechanical Indian rajah sits in the howdah and up near the elephant's head a mechanical mahout, or servant, directs the beast.

POLICE TO DUMP CRIME WEAPONS INTO LAKE TODAY

More than 1,500 weapons seized from criminals by the Chicago police and confiscated by the courts in the last year will be dumped far out in the lake today.

About 1,000 pistols, 200 shotguns, and a number of air guns, knives, daggers, and blackjacks will be among the property permanently disposed of. William Doubek, custodian of the seized weapons, and Sergt. Edward De Vries, his assistant, said the number of firearms this year was greater than last. The police will also send to a watery resting place several bags of narcotics and drug smoking implements.

The property will all be loaded on the city engineer's tug, the Britten, at the Navy pier at 10 a. m. The dumping will take place some five miles out, where the lake is more than 300 feet deep. The dumping of seized weapons is an annual event.

4 Robbers, One a Woman, Hold 6 Prisoners in Home

Three gunmen and a woman companion yesterday invaded the home of Mrs. Sophie Kersten at Geneva road and Stoddard avenue, near Wheaton, bound her and five others with adhesive tape, and escaped with $30 and two shotguns. The prisoners were Mrs. Kersten; her daughter, Irene, 17 years old; her son, George, and three neighbor children, Walter Campbell and John and Albert Lamers. One of the bandits started to tear the clothing off Irene Kersten but was restrained by another of the robbers.

FIRST FORESTRY GROUP ORDERED READY FOR DUTY

IT IS JUST AS IMPORTANT IN CHICAGO

Thank the south for the improved Rollator.

When 100,793 women wrote Norge to tell their refrigeration requirements, many letters came from Louisiana and the other states of that sunny region where guests and good food are an important part of daily living. And these letters especially stressed the need for an abundance of cooling power.

So the specifications for the new Norge included the improved Rollator mechanism, which now has more cooling power than ever before. This great refrigeration advancement means, wherever you live, dependable, unwavering results, day after day...and lower operating costs!

The powerful Rollator is not the only reason for the great success of the new Norge. The handsome cabinet styles the whole kitchen with its charming modern design. The convenience of the waist-high food compartment is matched by a scientific arrangement of the food shelves. The inside corners are fully rounded. There are such refinements as ice cubes kept odor-proof by a spring-hinged door and a freezing compartment that is self-cleaning and defrosts without any interruption of the Rollator's cooling action.

It is because the benefits of Rollator Refrigeration are so essential to the proper preservation of food in every climate that we urge you to see the Norge before you buy any refrigerator.

HARRIDGE BARS MYER, CHAPMAN AND WHITEHILL

Goes East to Hear Riot Evidence.

Three players—two from the Senators—were indefinitely suspended yesterday by President William Harridge of the American league for participation in the disturbance Tuesday between the New York Yankees and the Senators in Washington. Buddy Myer, infielder, and Earl Whitehill, pitcher, both members of the Washington club, and Ben Chapman, New York outfielder, were the ones under suspension.

Harridge left yesterday for Philadelphia to get a more complete report from the umpires, George Moriarty and Harry Geisel, after which he is expected to take definite action. Harridge explained his suspensions as follows:

"I am withholding final decision," he said, "until I have talked to the umpires. If any of these men were guilty of unwarranted attack, the league's rule of a month's suspension and a $1,000 fine will be invoked."

Walker Not Barred.

Dixie Walker of the Yankees was not suspended by Harridge. The umpires reported that he did not participate in the fight, but went to the protection of Chapman.

The American league's rule of a month's suspension and $1,000 fine was adopted following the attack last summer by Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, on Carl Reynolds, Washington outfielder. The trouble Tuesday started between Myer and Chapman when the New York outfielder slid into second. The outbreak flared again when Whitehill is said to have taunted Chapman as he left the field.

YANKS AWAIT VERDICT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—[Special]—Their game with the Athletics called off on account of cold weather, the Yankees lolled in their hotel today, awaiting the aftermath of their riotous engagement with the Senators in Washington yesterday.

Information that Ben Chapman, Yankee leftfielder, along with Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill of the Senators, had been indefinitely suspended by William Harridge, president of the American league, pending further hearing, was received by Manager Joe McCarthy shortly after noon, but he declined to comment.

Yanks Make No Complaint.

"The Yankees have taken no action in the matter so far," McCarthy said. "We have filed no protest against anybody and won't say anything until President Harridge gets here tomorrow."

Chapman, central figure in the outburst that embroiled players and spectators alike for 15 minutes in the Griffith stadium yesterday, expressed confidence that if the facts are stated fairly he would be dealt with lightly. Bearing a deep scratch on his nose as a memento of the battle, Chapman was inclined to blame Whitehill for the major part of the disturbance.

"When I slid into Myer at second base," said Chapman, "I was not trying to cut him down, but merely sought to prevent him from completing a double play. That's baseball and it happens every day. While I was still down, Myer kicked me, and as I got up I closed in on him. But it really wasn't much of a fight as Cronin had me by the arm and some other player was pulling Myer.

Whitehill Talks too Much.

"When we were ordered off the field I was plenty sore, but I was determined to do or say nothing more and nothing further would have happened had Whitehill minded his own business. But as I went down the runway alongside the Senators' dugout, he climbed over a couple of players to get close to me and called me a dirt name. With that I hauled off and let him have it. He went down and I landed on top of him, covering up as best I could for I knew the others would pile on me. They did, and one big fellow, a detective, cracked me about a dozen times on the back of the head before I was pulled away."

MYER BLAMES CHAPMAN

Boston, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—Buddy Myer and Joe Cronin, manager of the Washington Senators, when informed today that Myer and Earl Whitehill, Senator pitcher, had been suspended for their part in the disturbance at Washington yesterday, declared the trouble resulted from a "deliberate attempt" by Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, to spike Myer.

"Chapman had it coming to him and I gave it to him," Myer said. "He spiked me last year and I let him get away with it. It was late in the season. He started again this season. He tried to cut me Monday and he did yesterday. I had to stop him before he ended my baseball career.

"I don't know why he should pick on me. I've never tried to harm him, but he seems intent on cutting me down. I'm all through taking it from him."

Cronin said he backed Myer's view, adding: "We have no feud with the Yanks. There have been outbreaks in our games, but there's nothing personal about them."

THE GUMPS—KNEE DEEP IN CRIME

FRATERNIZING.

BEFORE the season opened major league presidents and several individual club owners professed concern lest baseball players fraternize too much and thus dull their peppy fighting spirit on the diamond. Recent events indicate that concern was unwarranted.

First Manager Charlie Grimm and Gabby Hartnett wanted to take a poke at their former manager, Rogers Hornsby, because of his published words, but were dissuaded by peace loving President Bill Veeck, who admitted, however, he was annoyed by Hornsby interviews. Then New York Yankee and Washington players allowed an old animosity to flare anew in a series of pugilistic scrimmages which developed into a small riot with fans participating at Washington Tuesday.

Shades of Ban Johnson! He went to the other extreme in enforcing with stern discipline decorous behavior on the field, a great reform in that day. The late American league president once threatened to expel from baseball Ty Cobb, then in his prime and a great drawing card, for frequent use of his spikes in sliding to bases. Ty merely carelessly let them fall where they might and it was up to the other fellow to look out. Cobb was more circumspect after his warning.

The Wake never has admired careless spikes. We do not think such use is good sportsmanship. Why should players engaged in earning their livelihood in the same profession seek to injure one another. To us it is no indication of peppiness or desirable fighting spirit.

Perhaps we're just old fashioned, but we like to see ball players who know each other shake hands or give a friendly slap on the back, even on the ball field. None need worry they'll not try just as hard to win, for baseball is a sport partly of individual records, with salary depending upon those records. Respect for an opponent does not necessarily beget lack of fighting spirit.

In the less genteel sport of prize fighting opponents who intend no physical good to each other shake hands in a mock gesture of good will before starting to pummel. In baseball, apparently, they shake their feet or their tongues before the pummeling. At any rate we shall worry no longer about fraternizing on the field.

There is one dictum, however, of which we heartily approve—that players shall not converse or shake hands with spectators. Our reason is that this leaves us the impression of grand standing, with the player more concerned in showing his popularity than in the business at hand, which is playing baseball.

Boston, Mass., April 26.—[Special.]—Max Marek and Billy Celebron, Chicago Golden Gloves boxers, won National Amateur Athletic union championships tonight in the finals of the annual tournament. A third Chicago Golden Glover, William Treest, lost a close decision to Tom Chester of New York in the 160 pound final.

Celebron, a runner-up in the Chicago Golden Gloves tourney, won the 147 pound title by scoring the only knockout of the championship round. He stopped Danny Milillo of Cincinnati in the second round. The first round was even, but in the second Celebron began leveling on each punch and dropped Milillo for an eight count. Two more solid right hands put Milillo down and out.

Marek Whips Boston Boy.

Marek, the only Golden Gloves champion entered in the tourney, whipped Frank Wilson of Boston for the light heavyweight championship. Wilson attempted to slug with the St. Viator college freshman and was nearly floored several times.

Only two members of the Chicago Golden Gloves team which beat New York, Celebron and Marek, participated in the tourney, other members of the team deciding to withdraw from competition to rest for the international bouts against the Irish champions in Chicago Aug. 2. Treest, the Golden Gloves alternate, was unable to solve the peculiar style of his final opponent, Tom Chester, New York Negro, and was outpointed.

He reached the finals, however, by eliminating one of the most highly regarded entrants in the tournament in tonight's semi-final. He whipped Dennis Flynn of New Orleans, intercollegiate middleweight champion, in a furious bout, outboxing and outslugging Flynn in the third round to win the decision.

Salvatore Loses to Champ.

Geno Salvatore, a member of the Chicago Golden Gloves team two years ago, was outpointed by Frankie Eagan of Buffalo, in the 135 pound semi-finals, after scoring a knockout victory in the quarter finals. Eagan went on to defeat Edwin Waling of Highland Park, Mich., for the championship.

Two New York Golden Gloves boxers were defeated in tonight's bouts. Charlie Green, the New York champion, lost to Tony Valore of Cleveland in the 112 pound title match. Julie Katz, 118 pounder, was eliminated by Angelo Tardugno of Washington, in the semi-finals. Tardugno later won the championship by receiving an unpopular decision over Willard Walker of Pratt, Kas.

SOX RESPECT THIS TIGER'S CLAW

Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Tigers' rookie right hander who shut out the White Sox in his major league debut at Detroit recently, was all set to try it again yesterday, but could not pitch because of a pain in his side. The Sox thought that was a lucky break for them, but it didn't matter, for they lost anyway, 6 to 4, in an 11 inning battle. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Hoppe Beats Schaefer in Third Block

Willie Hoppe won the third block of his 1,500 point world's championship cushion carom match with Jake Schaefer Jr. of San Francisco last night at the Morrison hotel. The score was 250 to 180 in 22 innings. Hoppe now leads in total points 750 to 642 in a total of 109 innings.

Hoppe established a world's record in last night's game by clicking off 53 consecutive billiards in the 20th inning. Yesterday a report from San Francisco stated that Welker Cochran, world's three cushion titleholder, had run the same number of billiards in a cushion carom exhibition match. The previous record of 38, established by George F. Slosson in 1883, was broken for the first time on Tuesday night when Schaefer totaled 39 in one inning.

Ability to nurse the balls along the rails, coupled with effective safety play, kept Hoppe out in front from the beginning of last night's block. Schaefer, however, broke through some neat safeties and started to click at a rate which brought him within 15 points of his opponent in the 106th inning, the score at the time standing at 652 for Hoppe and 637 for Schaefer. Then Hoppe came through with his high run of 53, followed by a 25 and an unfinished run of 20 to win the block.

Tonight has been designated as ladies' night. One hundred fifty seats have been set aside for the use of ladies and tickets may be procured in the Morrison hotel today from noon until 5:30 free of charge.

Indians Win, 2-0; Browns Get One Hit

Cleveland, O., April 26.—(AP)—Oral Hildebrand missed the goal of all pitchers—a no hit game—today by one hit as the Cleveland Indians made it two in a row over the St. Louis Browns, 2 to 0.

Art Scharein, the Browns' third baseman, ruined Hildebrand's bid for the baseball hall of fame in the third inning. Scharein cracked a whistling hit to right center, and Averill had to hustle to keep it to a single.

Only two other Browns reached first base—both on passes—and none got as far as second. It was Hildebrand's third victory in three appearances this season. Score:

CUBS SPEND DAY PAINTING FUTURE IN BRIGHT COLORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26.—Cold weather and snow caused today's scheduled encounter between the Chicago Cubs and the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates to be postponed to July 25, when it will form part of a double header.

By July 25 the Cubs figured as they put in their second day off since Sunday, things will be much different than they are today. For instance:

There probably won't be any snow here on July 25 and it scarcely will be necessary to pause because of cold weather.

Batting Will Improve—Maybe.

And probably, on that later date, there will be several on the team who will be hitting base balls far places.

Ki Ki Cuyler will be well and back in center field.

The Pirates will not be leading the league, but the Cubs will. [The lads have calculated this even in this dark hour].

Manager Charley Grimm will be a happy man on July 25, not only because of the rise of his team from last place on April 25 to first place on July 25, but because of his lame back will be all right again.

There are a lot of other things we could set down, but what do you think we are writing, a class prophecy or something for the high school annual?

After today's game had been postponed there was a bright sun which chased the snow but didn't seem to warm up the atmosphere. At noon a reading of the thermometer at Forbes field revealed a temperature of 41.

Cold Weather Predicted.

The weather prediction says it will be just as cold tomorrow. If this comes true the Cubs will have come here to no purpose, for tomorrow they go home for three days, then turn right around and come back east to New York, where they open against the Giants Tuesday.

But the way they are going the Cubs won't grieve much if they see no more action until they meet the Cincinnati Reds at Wrigley field Friday.

While the Cubs were dropped to the cellar yesterday when they lost their fourth straight, they believe they will rise rapidly if they can snap out of their slump in the brief home stand. After all, the team has lost only six games, and last year they lost sixty-four and won the pennant.

The thing that saddens the Cubs is not so much their tabulation in the league standings. They are almost as badly alarmed about certain features of their three victories as they are about the circumstances of their half dozen setbacks.

Fail to Score Freely.

The fact is the Cubs, in their nine games, have made as many as four runs in only one game, and they blew that game in the tenth inning after having the bases full with one out and the score tied in the last of the ninth.

Cubs, 3; Cards, 0. Cubs made 11 hits.
Cards, 3; Cubs, 1. Cubs made 6 hits.
Pirates, 5; Cubs, 4. Cubs made 12 hits.
Cubs, 3; Pirates, 1. Cubs made 7 hits.
Cubs, 3; Cards, 1. Cubs made 6 hits.
Cards, 4; Cubs, 0. Cubs made 5 hits.
Cards, 2; Cubs, 0. Cubs made 5 hits.
Reds, 4; Cubs, 3. Cubs made 9 hits.
Reds, 5; Cubs, 3. Cubs made 7 hits.

Guy Bush, still looking for his No. 1 victory, will start tomorrow, and Bill Swift, holder of two verdicts over the Cincy Reds, will oppose him.

Warneke is expected to pitch the opening game against the Reds in Chicago Friday. Root is to perform Saturday and Malone and Grimes Sunday.

JONES FAILS TO HOLD 3-0 LEAD; YANKED IN 9TH

Detroit's 3d Victory Over Chicagoans.

There were two one hit games in the major leagues yesterday. Oral Hildebrand of the Cleveland Indians held the St. Louis Browns to one single, the Indians winning, 2 to 0. A double by Mickey Finn was the only hit the Phillies could get off Roy Parmelee of the New York Giants. The Giants won, 3 to 1. Owen Carroll of Brooklyn pitched a four hit game against the Boston Braves.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Detroit's Tigers refused to succumb yesterday before the magic the gay White Sox have been pulling on other enemies. The Tigers first wiped out a 3 to 0 handicap, tying the score in the ninth. They got a run in the tenth, only to have the Sox knot it up again, and then finally shoved across two men against Joe Heving's pitching in the eleventh to win a crazy battle of base hits, 6 to 4. It was the third time the Tigers have defeated the south siders in four attempts since the season opened.

For six innings Old Sam Jones was a workmen of marked skill. Two hits were all he surrendered and meanwhile his fellow players had presented him with a 3 to 0 lead by their persistent peppering of Vic Sorrell. The seventh revealed that some of Old Sam's trick stuff had vanished. The Tigers then and there picked up their first two runs in a flurry of three hits. Then they tied it in the ninth at 3 and 3, making it necessary for the Sox to call in Paul Gregory as a rescuer.

Berry Hero in 10th.

Gregory couldn't prevent a run in the tenth. The run grew from a pass to Davis, who took third on Rogell's single to right and went home when Elan Hogsett, the fourth Detroit pitcher to appear, flied to Haas. Then the Sox showed they weren't through. After two were out in their half of the tenth Grube coaxed Hogsett for a pass, and Lyons was put on to run for the pudgy catcher. An instant later Lyons was racing toward the plate with the tying run, the propelling power being a triple into right center by Charley Berry, batting for Gregory. Hayes couldn't bring Berry home with the run needed to win and the Sox didn't get another chance.

Heving's brief but unprofitable day's work started against Fox, the first Tiger to swing in the eleventh. The Texas league graduate singled to center. Owen tried to bunt but popped to Kress. Then Earl Webb brought on more trouble with a single past Kress. Gehringer delivered the knockout punch—a single to center, scoring Fox and putting Webb on third. The latter ran home with the final run on Walker's fly to Haas.

After that it was just a matter of keeping the Sox from breaking loose in their half. Hogsett attended to that most effectively, the only hitch being a harmless single by Swanson.

Big Sox Threat Fades Out.

After Hayes had opened the struggle with his boisterous homer into the left field seats, the Sox threatened to score a few more runs in the inning. The homer was followed by a pass to Haas, but Swanson forced him on a grounder to Rogell. Then the women guests were sorely disappointed to see Simmons fade out on strikes. Appling singled over short on a hit and run play, putting Swanson on third. Sorrell escaped from the trap when Kress hit a fly to Walker in left.

For the next few innings the Sox found the pickings extremely lean. Dykes walked to start the second, but

CHICAGO TRACKS DRAW RULES FOR QUINELLA BETS

Sportsman's, Aurora to Present New Feature.

When Chicago turf fans go out to Sportsman's Park and Aurora Monday afternoon to see the opening races of the season they will get their first chance to win [or lose] money via the quinella, a system of betting which is popular at dog tracks and which was tried out at a few of the horse parks last fall and winter.

Both tracks yesterday announced rules for the quinella, in which the bettor tries to pick the horses finishing first and second. Your selections may finish 1-2 or 2-1 and your ticket is good.

Daily Double Returns.

Sportsman's park will sell quinella tickets on the last four races each day. At Aurora only the last race will be a quinella event. No tickets will be sold on a race with less than six starters.

Each track has selected the second and third races for the daily double, which was a popular feature at Chicago tracks last season.

Horses which will start in the Inaugural handicap at Sportsman's park and Aurora are about ready to parade on the tracks, their trainers reported yesterday.

Good Sprinters to Race.

The feature race on Monday's program at the half mile course is expected to attract Miss Marr, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark; Miss Melody of Stuyvesant Peabody's stable; Flag Bearer, Uncommon Gold, No More, Durva, and Essare. The distance will be seven furlongs.

The Aurora Inaugural, with a purse of $1,200, will attract a number of speedy sprinters over the six furlong route. Among them are Supreme Sweet, owned by William Schmidt's Superior stable of Chicago, Hillsborough, Nyack, Zenka, Dollar Princess, Bill Orange, and Song Hit.

Among the jockeys who arrived at Aurora yesterday were James [Goggles] McCoy, who had a winning streak at last spring's meeting, Johnny Leyland, J. Dupuy, R. Montgomery, L. Geving, and C. Hooper.

MUD SLOWS DERBY DRILL

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—[Special.]—Fair Rochester, from the Lon Jones stable, showed the best in the Derby workouts here today. His fractional times were: Quarter, :24 1-5; half, :49 3-5, and three-quarters, 1:17 2-5. Jockey Harold Pinker was up.

Mrs. William Crump's chestnut colt, Head Play, went a quarter in :26 4-5, half in :53 1-5, and three-quarters in 1:18 4-5. Interpreter covered five-eighths in 1:10 2-5, while Charley O. breezed three-eighths in :41 1-5. Charley O. will take a longer workout tomorrow.

Shepherd Boy and Flying Cadet each worked out three-quarters of a mile. The former was timed in 1:17 4-5 and the latter in 1:20 4-5.

Bonanza Ties Track Record to Win Stake

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—[Special.]—William Ziegler's Bonanza, equaling the track record for four and a half furlongs, won the 21st running of the Aberdeen stakes today by five lengths and earned $11,300. A. Pascuma had the mount. The time was :53 flat, a mark held by five other horses, including Mother Goose and Vanderpool.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Early Light was second, a head in front of the favorite, the Everglade stable's Wise Daughter. G. D. Widener's Brown Jack was fourth. The place money was $1,500.

Victor Carries 117 Pounds.

Bonanza, a brown colt of large size by Swift and Sure-El Dorado, is the best two year old shown here this year. He carried 117 pounds and was going easily at the end.

Wise Daughter was first away, followed by Bonanza and Impromptu. Bonanza was on even terms with Wise Daughter turning into the stretch and immediately went to the front and won on his own courage. The winner paid $10.40.

Sarada Wins by Nose.

F. A. Griffith's Sarada qualified for the Derby in the Shenandoah purse, which brought out eight candidates for the three year old classic, but he only gained the victory by a nose from Morton L. Schwartz's Gold Basis, which is not eligible for the Derby or the Preakness. The Wheatley stable's Utopia was third and C. V. Whitney's The Darb fourth.

Invite Novices to Fly Casting Meet Sunday

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicagoland bait and fly rod casters will celebrate the arrival of spring Sunday with a casting tournament which will be held at the Lincoln Park Costing club pool, Fullerton avenue and the inner drive. Members of the Chicago Fly Casting club in Garfield park, and the Illinois Fly Casting club in Washington park, have been invited to participate in this event. All of these organizations are extending an invitation to fishermen to attend this first "open house" of the year.

The tournament starts Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with the three-eighths ounce accuracy event. At 11 o'clock the fisherman's dry fly contest will be held. Following an intermission for dinner the program continues with the wet fly casting event at 2 o'clock and the five-eighths ounce accuracy event at 3 o'clock.

Novices to Be Instructed.

The rest of the afternoon is to be given over to instruction of novices by national casting champions of the various clubs. Any fisherman who is trying to improve his casting and wants expert help can step to the firing line with his tackle and be assured of helpful coaching in handling rod and reel.

In sending out an invitation to fishermen to come to the tournament next Sunday Eddie Davis, president of the Lincoln Park Casting club and national chaimpion in the one-half ounce accuracy bait class, stressed the importance of accuracy casting in fishing for black bass, trout, and other game fish.

Plug casting Easiest to Learn.

"Each accuracy tournament casting event is designed to give the fisherman added proficiency in some form of angling," he said. "The most popular kind of fishing and the easiest to learn is plug casting. Therefore, we usually start the novice on the five-eighths ounce accuracy bait event which corresponds to the average wooden fishing plug. After the novice becomes skillful in this contest, he is next taught the essentials of casting the three-eights ounce weight, which is equivalent to the small weighted bass flies and spinners, and other lures in that class. Naturally, a lighter and more resilient rod is used for this event.

"Then the beginner is instructed in the art of casting the wet fly, which gives him the principles of fly casting as practiced by anglers on trout streams. Once the wet fly is mastered the novice graduates to the dry fly casting event."

Armour's 2 Runs in 10th Beat North Central, 9-8

Armour Tech's baseball team scored two runs in the tenth inning to defeat North Central college, 9 to 8, on the Armour field yesterday. Armour collected 13 hits off two North Central pitchers, Schum and Massler.

KENTUCKY DERBY HORSES ON PARADE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Well bred but not very prepossessing in appearance, he wasn't in demand as a yearling and didn't sell until the fall sales in Lexington in 1931. At that time harlly any one would make a bid for him.

The auctioneer begged for an ofter and finally succeeded in getting a bid for $575 from Bill Crump, a former jockey. The auctioneer dropped his hammer and shouted out "Sold to Mr. Crump."

Gives Colt to Wife for Christmas.

A few weeks later the ex-jockey presented the colt to his wife as a Christmas present. She was a bit skeptical as to how to value this gift. She knew considerable about horses herself and wasn't certain Santa Claus was doing her any great honor when he left Head Play in her stocking on Christmas morning.

She knows now that her husband possessed the true Christmas spirit when he gave away Head Play. For just the other day a wealthy Kentuckian offered her $20,000 for the colt and she turned it down.

Head Play is an ideally bred colt. He has developed into a handsome fellow standing about 16 hands high and weighing 1,100 pounds. His sire, My Play, was a full brother to Man o' War and his mother, Red Head, was a daughter of King Gorin. He has the American blood lines known as the Fair Play-Domino cross. Very little foreign blood is in this horse.

Runs Best Race at Hawthorne.

Head Play accounted for two important stakes in the west last season, the Cincinnati trophy at Latonia and the Juvenile Championship stakes at Hawthorne. His race at Hawthorne was the more impressive. Carrying 120 pounds, he shot out of the pack at the head of the stretch and ran away from his rivals. Among his victims were Swivel and Projectile, which traveled into the east and became stars during the fall racing.

Not since Reigh Count trained for the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs in 1928 has a colt attracted the attention that Head Play has at the Derby scene this spring.

Eiller to Box Tramblie on Cicero Card

Freddie Eiller, Louisville, Ky., middleweight, agreed yesterday to box Ray Tramblie in an eight round bout at the Cicero stadium tomorrow night in place of Bud Saltis. Saltis was taken off the card after an examination by Dr. Frank La Gorio at the Illinois athletic commission revealed Bud was physically unfit.

Eiller will be making his fourth start here. He knocked out Johnny Balma, whipped Saltis, and lost to Kid Leonard in Chicago. In his latest contest three weeks ago at Nashville, Tenn., Freddy lost to Tommy Freeman, former welterweight titleholder.

Harry Dublinsky, who will face Danny Delmont in the other feature event at eight rounds, is seeking his eighth victory in nine starts this year. He started the year by winning over Prince Saunders at the Cicero arena on Jan. 2. Then he whipped Lou Terry at St. Louis, stopped Frank Bojorski at Pittsburgh, lost to Tony Falco at Pittsburgh, and whipped Eddie Cool at Philadelphia and again at Pittsburgh. He beat Young Firpo and Wildcat O'Connor in his most recent bouts.

Eddie Houghton, heavyweight stablemate of Tommy Loughran, was matched yesterday to meet Jack Robinson in a six round preliminary to the King Levinsky-Charley Retzlaff bout at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday. Other matches are: Art Laskey vs. Tiger Jack Fox, Salvatore Ruggirello vs. Izzy Gastanaga, and Solly Dukelsky vs. Young Walker.

Gastanaga yesterday underwent a minor operation for nasal obstruction. He will start drills today. Laskey is to serve as referee in several interscholastic contests between Fenwick High school and St. Philip boxers at St. Philip tonight.

Frankie O'Brien has accepted a match with Rosy [Kid] Baker at Milwaukee on May 8. . . . Davey Day, west side featherweight, yesterday was placed on the Barney Ross-Joe Ghnouly card at St. Louis Wednesday. Day, Ross, and Art Winch, co-manager, will go to St. Louis Sunday. . . . Bill Rhoderer and Ray Tramblie are to meet at Louisville, Ky., May 15.

William Bolton, brother of Representative John Bolton of Chicago, yesterday was appointed gymnasium inspector. He replaces Max Gorman, who has held the position for six years.

Joe Feldman vs. Bobby Vernon [6]; John Terry vs. Jackie Schweitzer [5]; Joey Palazzola vs. Fred Dolph [4]; Frank Sgillo vs. Johnny Reba [4]; Jimmy Eliopoulos vs. Oscar O'Hanion [4]; Tony Shea vs. Eddie Evans [4].

Six bouts comprise the bill tonight at the Coulon club, 1154 East 54th street. They are:

Paddy Waltier and Eddie Smith [5]; Joe Miller and James Jenkins [4]; Owen Miller and Young Thomas; Ted Carney and John Reba; Jackie Sales and Al DeRose; Andy Natt and Tom Moon.

Eight amateur contests are to be offered tonight at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. The card is sponsored by Calumet council, Knights of Columbus. Bud Ginter, Eddie Jackson, Henry Fuscaldo, and Andy Scrivini will compete.

BOYS FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE SEEK MAT TITLES

Hitch Hikers, Business Men Compete Tomorrow.

Amateur wrestlers from all classes and walks of life make up the entry list of 200 young men from all parts of the country who will compete tomorrow and Saturday nights in the Amateur Athletic union national championship tournament at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

For example, one is a farmer boy from Platteville, Colo., who rode a cattle train from his home; another is a farmer from Chetek, Wis., who is hitch-hiking his way; another is a young man from Baltimore who owns and operates a hard floor business, and a fourth is the son of a wealthy man who is flying his own airplane from Kansas State college and bringing two of his teammates with him.

The rewards are gold medals for winners, silver medals for second place men, and bronze medals for those who land third places.

This One Is a Champion.

The young man who rode the cattle train to Chicago and arrived in the stockyards yesterday is Gifford Alexander. He has won the Rocky Mountain conference title in the 165 pound class twice and is competing for the Denver A. C. His club had no money to send him, so he is managing his own expenses with the help of the cattle train.

The boy hitch-hiking from Wisconsin who is expected today is Kenneth Brown, unattached, and trying for the 145 pound title. He works on a dairy farm and milks twenty cows a day, but finds time to do road work.

The business man from Baltimore is John K. Eareckson, who is entered in the 135 pound class. He will ride here in the comfort of a Pullman car. The flyer from Kansas State college, Manhattan, Kas., is Everett Hinz, also in the 135 pound class, and he expects to make the flight from his school to Chicago in four or five hours, probably arriving tonight.

Early Arrivals Work Out.

A number of wrestlers from distant points in the east and southwest are expected today, and the Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will be open for them to work. Entries received yesterday were from the West Side Y. M. C. A. in New York, entering three men; Springfield college of Springfield, Mass., with three; Rider college of Trenton, N. J., with one, and Fort Wayne with one.

This is the first time since 1914 that the national championships have been decided in Chicago. Two rings will be in operation tomorrow night to work off the elimination matches.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Le Roy Parmelee, making his first appearance of the season for the New York Giants, today missed pitching a no-hit game against the Phillies by the margin of a double, which might have been scored as an error. The Giants won the battle, 3 to 1.

In the third inning, Mickey Finn, Phillies second baseman, cracked a fast hopper down the third base line. Johnny Vergez got his hands on the ball, but was unable to hold it, and Finn pulled up at second. An outfield fly and a wild pitch sent him across the plate.

The one run appeared good enough to win the game until the seventh inning, when the Giants scored twice on a daring bit of base running. With Ott on first base, Leslie drove a double into left. Ott took a chance in trying to score, but was safe when Bartell threw past Virgil Davis. Leslie also scored before the Phillies' catcher could retrieve the ball. Singles by Ryan and Ott, mixed with Parmelee's sacrifice, gave the Giants their third run in the eighth. Score:

MOON MULLINS—MAMIE STARTS A CLEANUP

When Cheering Indiana Track Stars, Don't Overlook Fuqua

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In all that has been written about Indiana's track stars since the Hoosiers startled the conference by winning the 1932 indoor meet, the first title in their history, emphasis has been placed on Henry Brocksmith, last year's champion distance runner, and Charles Hornbostel, star of this year's team.

The excellent work of Ivan Fuqua, quarter-miler, has been overlooked because of record performances by the others. Brocksmith last year broke both the mile and two mile conference records indoors and set a new American collegiate two mile record at the Drake relays. Then this winter Hornbostel added to his reputation by breaking the Big Ten half-mile record.

Fuqua Stars in Prep Days.

Hornbostel won the half-mile at the University of Chicago in 1:53.9, erasing the previous mark of 1:55.7 established by Orval Martin of Purdue.

Fuqua, a former member of the Brazil, Ind., High school team which placed high in the national interscholastic meet at Stagg field several years ago, now is a junior at Indiana. Last year he finished third in the quarter mile at the conference indoor meet. In the Big Ten games at Evanston last spring he came in second to Edwin Russell of Michigan, whose winning time was :49.4.

In the 1932 national collegiate meet at Stagg field Fuqua outdistanced Russell but again was second, because Alex Wilson, Notre Dame's great runner and Canadian Olympic star, won in 48.1 seconds. Russell barely saved fourth place.

The Hoosier thus qualified for the final American Olympic trials on the Pacific coast, and by virtue of his showing there he was named on the American 1,600 meter relay team. Fuqua was lead off man for the quartet which included Ablowich, Warner, and Carr. In the first semi-final the Americans covered the 1,600 meters in 3:11.8, a new Olympic and world's record. Then in the finals the same men cut this time to 3:08.2.

Shows Rapid Improvement.

Fuqua's improvement as a quarter miler was shown conclusively in the 1933 conference indoor meet. Ivan won in the fast time of 50.2 seconds, just failing to equal Russell's indoor record established the year before. Fuqua won't have a chance to perform individually at the Drake relays which start tomorrow at Des Moines, Ia., since there is no quarter mile event. However, he will compete as a member of the Indiana mile relay team.

TIGERS SCORE 2 IN 11TH, BEAT WHITE SOX, 6-4

Grube and Jones fanned and Hayes lined to Owen. Swanson dashed to second when Walker dropped his fly with one out in the third, but Simmons filed to center and Rogell threw out Appling.

Among Jones' few troubles in the early innings was a pass to Webb in the first, but it came with two out and resulted in nothing. Another slight disturbance appeared after two were gone in the second, when a twister hit by Rogell bounced past Hayes for a double. Hayworth grounded to Appling to close the inning. Owen doubled—a clean drive to left—in the third and this also came after two were out. Webb tapped in front of the plate and Jones tossed him out. That was the total of the Tiger attack for six innings.

Two hits were all the Sox needed to fetch in a run in the fifth, giving them a 2 to 0 edge. After two were out Swanson improved his claim for a regular job by banging a double into the left field corner. Simmons had been fooled two times in a row, so the percentage was all in his favor, but the Tigers didn't figure this worth bothering about. Instead of walking Al they pitched to him and he showed his appreciation by driving a single straight into center, Swanson scoring.

Hayes Drives In Grube.

The Sox waited until two were out in the sixth before making it 3 to 0. One of the two outs was made when Dykes tried to steal after surviving on a fumble by Rogell. Grube then singled over short and went to third when Jones duplicated the hit. Hayes shot a single to right to score Grube. Haas then was called out on strikes.

Jones invited trouble for himself in the seventh when he hit Walker with a pitched ball after Gehringer had popped out. Davis drove a hard grounder back at Jones, and the ball caromed to one side for a single. Rogell smashed a single through Hayes' hands and Walker scored. Stone batted for Hayworth and bounced into a force out at second, Davis scoring. Then White batted for Sorrell and singled. The bases were filled when Jones fumbled Fox's easy roller. The situation was relieved by Owen flying to Simmons.

Webb's Hit Ties Score.

Gehringer tried to start something by doubling with one out in the eighth but his fellow Tigers didn't grasp the idea. The ninth was different. Desautels grounded out and Jones walked Reiber, who swung for Herring. Fox died on strikes. Jones put over two strikes on Owen and then suddenly lost his aim and threw four wide of the plate, Owen walking. This brought up Webb, who singled to center, scoring Reiber with the tying run. Gregory stepped in as relief man and nailed Gehringer for the third out.

The Sox thought they were as good as victors in the ninth. Hayes led off against Wyatt with a double over first base. Prospects of a run began to wane when Haas popped to Davis, but revived slightly when Swanson walked, bringing up Simmons. Wyatt pitched himself into a 3 to 1 hole against Simmons and then was yanked in favor of Hogsett, who stopped the slugger on a foul to the catcher. Appling's roller to the pitcher ended the inning.

Durham to Pitch for Sox in Final with Tigers Today

The Sox will battle the Tigers again today and then lock up their park until they return from a four game series at Cleveland. Ed Durham will pitch for the Sox this afternoon and the Tiger nominee will be Fred Marberry, the ex-Senator.

Not many complimentary things were said by the Sox in behalf of Ump Van Grafian after the game. In the ninth, with a 3 and 2 count on Owen, Jones pitched what appeared to be an unquestionable strike, but Van Grafian called it a ball. Had it been ruled a strike the game would have ended right there with the Sox winners, 3 to 2.

Al Simmons appears to have gone into a batting slump. In his last nine times at bat he has produced only once. In his last 17 times at bat he has hit safely only three times.

About 6,000 women guests were present.

The fee is $5. Amateur entrants will be limited to those players having a handicap rating of three strokes or better.

The qualifying rounds for the open will be decided throughout the country on May 15, with the No. 1 and No. 2 courses at Medinah the scene of the Chicago trials. Among the golfers who are exempt from the qualifying rounds by reason of their finishing among the first 30 in the open at Fresh Meadow last year are three Chicagoans—Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Tommy Armour of Medinah and Bob MacDonald.

Two other closing dates to remember are those for the open championship of the Women's Western Golf association, to be held at Olympia Fields June 26-30, and the W. W. G. A. junior open, which will be decided July 24-27 at the Evanston Golf club. Entries for the open close June 20 with Mrs. H. S. Stimson, 3330 Grove avenue, Berwyn. The fee is $3. Entries for the junior should be sent to Mrs. H. D. Raymond, 1223 Grove street, Evanston, by July 19. There is no entrance fee for the junior.

Another brother act has entered the Chicago district professional scene with the arrival of Leonard Loos at Westward-Ho from California. Leonard is a brother of Eddie Loos, professional at Lake Shore, and a veteran in golf since 1914, when he served as assistant to his brother at Charlotte, N. C. Two years later he became professional at Pocono Mano, Pa. He joined the army in 1918 and was stationed at Camp Lee, Va.

After the war Leonard came to Chicago to assist Eddie at Beverly for a few months before taking the professional's job at the Standard club in Louisville. He was there for five years, during which he developed a number of amateur stars and won the Kentucky open and P. G. A. tournaments. In 1925 he transferred to the Ashland Golf club at Lexington, Ky., repeating in the Kentucky and P. G. A. events. Since 1929 he has been with the Pasadena Country club at Pasadena, Cal.

The North Shore Line will begin presently to operate a Golfers' special each Saturday for players bound for courses in the Skokie valley. It will leave the Adams and Wabash station at 12:10 p. m., daylight saving time, making all stops from Niles Center to Mundelein, arriving at Mundelein at 1:19 p. m.

The Glen View club has extended an invitation to officers of the United States Golf association to make the club their headquarters during the national open tournament at North Shore in June.

Medinah expects one of the largest turnouts of the season for its first annual Night of Nights, to be held at the club Saturday night, according to Manager Russell Miller. The No. 3 course, one of the most difficult layouts in the central states, will be officially open for play Saturday.

The troop of women's golf champions at Lincolnshire has enlisted a new recruit in Mrs. O. C. Horn, former titleholder at Casa Del Mar, who recently joined the Crete club. Her membership adds strength to the No. 1 team, captained by Mrs. Melvin Jones, which has ranked among the district's leaders for several years. Other members of the No. 1 team at Lincolnshire last year included Mrs. Edna Aicholzer, Mrs. Thomas J. Orr, and Miss Florence McCoy. The women's membership of the club maintained four teams in district competition last year under the direction of Mrs. Joseph A. Holmes, and plans to increase play in its division this year.

The west park board will meet this afternoon to consider proposals that the golf courses in Garfield and Columbus parks be handed over to concessionaires for the summer season. Golfers on the west side will appear in a protest against the move by the commissioners.

Edward N. Heinz, secretary of the board, explained that the courses piled up a deficit of $17,000 above the receipts from fees last summer and declared that the taxpayers would save money under the new arrangement.

The question is in the hands of the board's finance committee, of which the chairman is Commissioner Albert J. Flynn. The commissioners are considering a clause in the proposed contract that the concessionaire will not charge a fee greater than 20 cents, the same as in previous years. The park will continue to police and maintain the golf courses, according to tentative plans.

A similar concession was recently given by the board for the park boat landings. Last year the deficit from boating activities amounted to $4,000.

CHICAGO BATTLES TRENTON TONIGHT FOR POLO TITLE

Maj. Hunter's Team Seeks Class C Championship.

The 124th Field Artillery of Chicago will battle the 112th Field Artillery of Trenton, N. J., for the national class C indoor polo championship tonight at the armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Both teams have survived many eliminations.

The local team carries the maximum C class rating of 9 goals and the invaders carry the minimum of 5 goals, so that they will begin the game with a four goal lead.

In the opening game of the evening an all-star trio will meet Capt. Maxwell M. Copening's high goal Chicago Riding club team. Included in the lineup of the all-stars will be Stewart B. Iglehart, teammate of Winston Guest and generally considered one of the greatest defensive players in the game; Bill Nicholls, 6 goal Boston ace, and Herb Lorber, bulwark of the trio that won the class B title.

Porter and Hannah to Play.

Capt. Corpening will be supported by two other leading Chicago Riding club stars, Prentice Porter and Jim Hannah, both handicapped at 4 goals. As a team the riding club trio will rate 14 goals, Capt. Corpening being a 6 goal player.

Against them the all-stars will present an 18 goal battle front, with Iglehart handicapped at 7, Nicholls at 6, and Lorber at 5. As a result they will award their Riding club opponents 4 goals before the opening gong.

Hunter's Team Popular.

In the windup affair this evening for the class C title local polo enthusiasts see a chance for the 124th Field Artillery to bring Chicago its second championship of the tournament. The combination of Maj. Richard G. Hunter, Barney Balding, and Capt. William S. Everett has tremendous followings. Playing as a team they have consistently put up a fast, spectacular game featured by marvelous horsemanship and adept work with the mallet.

The New Jersey trio, eastern champions, are depending upon their close knit team play to offset the individual brilliance of the Chicago players.

Both teams will be playing ponies combining speed with polo sense and experience.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—An advance embracing all sections except United States government securities took place in the bond market today. Speculative issues were the leaders of the movement, gaining from one to three points. Obligations of communications companies were especially strong, in keeping with a similar movement in stocks. These companies are reported to be profiting substantially from increased market activity.

The uncertainty in governments reflected uncertainty over the federal reserve system's open market policy. Selling of treasuries, however, was not aggressive; much of it was of the profit taking variety.

Most Groups Steady.

Steady price rises were the rule elsewhere in the market, and the improvement was so unanimous as to indicate renewed confidence in the business outlook, participation of high grade corporation bonds in the recovery tended to bear this out. For the time being, at least, the inflationary movement appeared as a secondary market factor.

Bonds of International Telephone company, Postal Telegraph, Western Union and other speculative utility issues forged ahead rapidly for gains of from one to four points. Trading activity centered in these issues.

Rails Resume Advance.

Speculative railroad bonds resumed their advance, although buying was at a moderated pace. Gains of a point or more were the rule in issues popular in trading circles.

Foreign bonds lacked a uniform trend. Some of the high grade issues moved lower in keeping with the improvement in dollar exchange.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., the Banc-america-Blair corporation, and Wertheim & Co. are offering at prices to yield 4.25 per cent a new issue of $1,000,000 state of Maine 4 per cent bonds, due $100,000 annually May 1, 1939, to 1948, inclusive.

Western Casualty and Surety.

I would appreciate receiving information concerning Western Casualty and Surety company, Fort Scott, Kas. I am particularly interested, as I carry considerable automobile insurance with them.—D. M. J.

Western Casualty and Surety company, Fort Scott, Kas., was established in 1924. It was organized without promotional expenses. It is operated as a running mate with Western Fire Insurance company and is controlled by Western Insurance Securities company.

Net premiums written in 1932 totaled $1,886,000 and premiums earned amounted to $1,897,000. Net premiums written in 1931 amounted to $1,911,000, against $1,646,000 in 1930.

Loss from underwriting in 1932 was $2,327. Including underwriting profit and loss items, loss in the insurance division was $16,500. Gain from investments, after loss of $24,000 on sale of securities, was $46,000. Combined gain was $29,000. After dividends of $37,500 and increase in special reserve of $18,000, deficit for the year was $26,000.

In 1932 losses amounted to 62.28 per cent of premiums earned, against 58.30 per cent in 1931. Underwriting expenses were 38.07 per cent of earned premiums, against 39.08 per cent in 1931.

Admitted assets at the close of 1932 totaled $3,173,000. Bonds totaled $1,486,000 and stocks $425,000 [book values]. The company set up a security depreciation reserve of $122,000 to adjust convention value of stocks to market value. Cash totaled $250,000, agents' balances $453,000, and convention value of securities over book value amounted to $570,000.

Unearned premium liabilities and unpaid losses, etc., aggregated $1,890,000 and unpaid commissions were $108,000.

On the basis of market price for stocks and convention value for bonds surplus in excess of liabilities was $1,002,000.

Russian Bonds.

Please give me information about the Russian bonds traded in on the New York curb.—S. C.

The entire Russian national debt was repudiated by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics on Feb. 3, 1918. Aggregate default of Russia is about two and three-quarter billion pounds sterling.

The committee for protection of American holders of these bonds in 1922 was keeping in close touch with the state department of the United States, apparently in the hope that if U. S. S. R. should be recognized by this country it might be able to force through some measure of recognition of the debt represented by these bonds.

STOCKS BACK AND FILL BUT CLOSE HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—Stocks finished irregularly higher after floundering about uncertainly most of the day while traders idled about the tickers awaiting action by the senate on the inflation question. Volume was the lightest since the inception of the so-called inflation boom, falling below 3,000,000 shares.

Price fluctuations were fairly large considering the slow pace of trading and the absence of any marked influence on speculative sentiment. Observers saw evidence in the many cross currents of price movements that traders were switching from one issue to another in an effort to improve their market positions to "agree" with whatever action congress may take on the currency problem with which it is now wrestling. Growing opposition to the inflation move has made the outlook less certain to many who were speculating so confidently on the inflation side of the market a while back.

Trade News Brighter.

Weekly statistics on trade conditions were a bit more encouraging, especially those on electric power and steel output, and brokers reported some buying based on these evidences of business recovery, rather than on dollar depreciation. Communication company stocks got a boost from reports of somewhat better earnings by the companies due to the awakening of speculative interest in the markets. Western Union rose 3½ points on brisk trading, and Radio and Postal were active and fairly strong.

A flurry of activity in Central of New Jersey attracted attention to the railroad group and net gains of 1 to 2 points were the rule. The New Jersey road soared 12 points on a few sales to 69. Reading, which controls the road, responded with a runup, and both Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central, which in turn control Reading also moved up a point or so.

Aviation issues were in the limelight on news of the larger interest being taken in the industry by General Motors.

General Motors Steady.

The first quarter report of General Motors showing earnings of only 11 cents a share had little effect on the stock. Apologists for the statement extracted comfort from the fact that the corporation had been able to survive the worst period of the depression without running up a deficit.

United States Steel shares, both the preferred and common, likewise refused to be bowled over by that corporation's quarterly earnings statement. Both issues held within a fraction of their previous closing levels.

The gold mining issues were weak for a change in the belated realization that their position may not be so favorable under the "new deal" brand of inflation—whatever it may turn out to be. Homestake dropped 11 points of its recent spectacular gains.

ILLINOIS RULES GAS PIPELINE IS PUBLIC UTILITY

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ruled that the Chicago District Pipeline company, conveyor of natural gas from the oil fields, is a public utility and therefore must place itself under the jurisdiction of the state commission and must serve municipalities with its gas as well as private concerns. The ruling concerned the village of Hinsdale, which has its own gas plant, and the pipeline is obliged to sell gas to the village for resale to the residents.

The pipeline company had contended that its business was interstate and not subject to regulations as if it were intrastate. It denied the jurisdiction of the commerce commission and reserved to itself the right to sell or not to sell, but under yesterday's ruling its property becomes "affected with public interest," and therefore it was ordered to give notice within ten days whether it would accept a certificate of convenience and necessity or would seek to continue as a non-utility enterprise.

The commission is scheduled to begin hearings today on electricity rates. It has cited twenty-seven power companies in the state to show cause why their rates should not be reduced. Eighteen of the companies are expected to respond here today, and the others on May 3 in Springfield.

Bank Receiver Tells Where Money Goes

The most complete statement yet received on a closed bank was issued yesterday by W. F. Leimbert, receiver for the Central Manufacturing District bank. A detailed summary of assets, an account of the liquidation carried out and the application of receipts is contained in the report.

The bank, which had liabilities of $5,089,000 when it closed, has paid no dividends to depositors. The receiver explains that the bank owed $1,450,000 to the R. F. C. and other agencies at the time of closing against which it had pledged the best of its assets. These loans have been gradually repaid without dumping assets at unwarranted prices, he said. No dividends can be paid until a further trust liability of $200,000 is retired.

The alarm from the sub-basement cash vault rang through the foyer of the First National bank shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday. Peace had just been restored throughout the bank after the visit of the delegation of school teachers. Policemen from all parts of the building scurried to the vault room. A wave of excitement swept through the bank. When the breathless police reached the vault all was quiet there. A clerk had touched off the alarm accidentally with his elbow.

Not so many weeks ago one of the leading members of the Board of Trade was seen industriously looking through the newspapers in the visitors room of the exchange. Not finding what he apparently wanted he went into the exchange hall and canvassed the cash crowd for a paper. After a thorough search he emerged triumphant—with an unworked cross word puzzle. He was too busy yesterday even to express his view on the market, other than saying he looked for higher prices.

One ex-hoarder who surrendered his gold and put the proceeds in wheat is congratulating himself on his sagacity. His profit on the wheat is in excess of what he might have realized if the gold content of the dollar were reduced as much as 50 per cent.

Millions of dollars in currency were transported by airplane between various points in the country during the bank troubles of the recent past. Great secrecy surrounded the arrival and departure of these planes because of the fear of air stickups. The treasury is said to have distributed some of the new "asset" currency by plane. Private organizations found it necessary to send currency to stranded branches which were short of cash. Most of the currency was sent by air express and some by air mail.

Economy has resulted in the elimination of another downtown railroad ticket office. The Wabash is closing its ticket office in South Clark street and will combine with the Pennsylvania office at the southeast corner of Monroe and La Salle streets. And Lou W. Bade, assistant passenger traffic manager, is moving his staff to the Utilities building where he will share the offices of the freight department.

SAYS U. S. TRADE CHIEFS GAMBLED IN CITIES SERVICE

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—An assertion that members of the federal trade commission staff has speculated in common stock of the Cities Service company was made today by Thomas W. Mitchell, commission examiner, during an investigation of the Cities Service Securities company, wholly owned by the Cities Service company.

The statement was made when Robert E. Healy, commission chief counsel, questioned Mitchell on his examination of the Securities company affairs. Healy was seeking information as to the extent of speculation in the stocks during 1928 and 1929 and asked the examiner if he had ascertained the amount of the speculation.

Mitchell replied he had not at the time of drafting the voluminous report of the company which had been submitted in evidence, but had secured some specific instances of speculation afterwards.

Dollar Rallies on England's Exchange Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—The dollar rallied sharply today on news of the Franco-British agreement to defend sterling and the franc against the depreciation of American exchange. As the market construed the British announcement of an increase in the exchange equalization fund, coupled with the indications of an understanding between France and England on currency matters, Great Britain is determined to hold down sterling in terms of the dollar in spite of devaluation steps that may be taken here.

On this basis sterling fell quickly, shorts hastened to cover their bear positions in the dollar, and the entire foreign exchange list sustained the widest reaction since the suspension of the gold standard here last week.

Exchanges Drop Sharply.

Sterling closed at $3.80, off 5½ cents; the franc dropped 3½ points net to 4.35½ cents; guilders were down 38 points to 44.40 cents; belgas, off 11 points to 15.45 cents, and Swiss francs, 21 points lower at 21.36 cents. Canadian exchange was alone among the important currencies to show no marked improvement. It closed at 13 per cent discount, against 13 1-16 per cent discount on Tuesday.

The significance of the agreement between France and Britain, as bankers here interpreted the meager details available, is that it will enable Great Britain to hold down the pound sterling without driving France off the gold standard. Earlier this year Britain had fought against the rising tendency of the pound by purchasing dollars. To protect herself against a possible depreciation in the dollar she converted the dollars into gold.

Franc Under British Fire.

As soon as the embargo against gold payments was laid down here last month the exchange equalization fund began to operate against the franc. Francs were purchased just as dollars had been, converted into gold, sold to the Bank of England for more sterling, and so on. Faced with the prospect of losing an indefinite amount of gold through this process, France, in the view of bankers here, was destined to be driven off gold. Instead the new agreement was made.

As this agreement is understood here Great Britain, instead of converting the francs she buys into gold, will lend them to the French government. Presumably the French government will guarantee repayment of the loan in gold so that to all intents and purposes Britain will still be getting gold, but there will be no spectacular drain of gold out of the Bank of France.

PRICES OF FOOD JUMP; HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet's weekly food index, for the week ended April 25, jumped to $1.70, a rise of 12 cents, or 7.4 per cent over the preceding week. This was the greatest weekly gain in this index since April, 1920.

This week's figure, it was pointed out, was also higher by 3.4 per cent than the corresponding week of last year, the first time the index has registered a gain over the preceding year since the week of June 20, 1929. Last week's rise has brought the index to 17.4 per cent above the depression low of $1.49 reached on Feb. 28, last.

Flour, grains, dairy products, livestock and provisions all contributed to the advance. Of the 31 items included in the index, 22 were higher, while only 2, prunes and sheep, were lower.

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—(AP)—Employment of 300 additional men at his airplane factory here was announced tonight by Glen L. Martin for the construction of three 50 passenger transoceanic transport planes.

Martin said the construction will begin at the Middle River plant next Monday. The planes are to be built for the Pan-American Airways at a cost of $875,000. The first will be finished in sixteen months, the second six months later, and the final three months later.

ALLIED CHEMICAL ORDERED TO GIVE CLEARER REPORT

N. Y. Stock Exchange Demands Details.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—Following closely an attack made by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, on the accounting methods of the Allied Chemical and Dye company, the New York stock exchange today ordered the company to submit a detailed report of its financial condition by next Wednesday.

Mr. Gerard assailed the statement offered stockholders at the annual meeting Monday as incomplete. The particular section he objected to was that covering "United States governments and other marketable securities" valued in the report at $92,404,341 out of total current assets of $150,654,699.

The chairman admitted that the securities had a market value on Dec. 31, 1932, about $28,000,000 less than the figure carried in the report.

Gerard Charges "Blind Pool."

The former ambassador charged this item merely covered a "blind pool" and demanded to know the details of the portfolio. Officers in control of the meeting refused to meet the demand and said present accounting methods would be continued.

The step taken today by the governing committee of the stock exchange carries the implied threat of drastic action unless Allied Chemical complies with the order to give a detailed statement of its condition, particularly the securities held in its portfolio.

The action of the governing committee was based on a report submitted to it by the committee on stock list, which reviewed correspondence with Allied Chemical officers seeking to obtain more detailed reports and also summarized the controversy at the company's annual meeting.

Sees Efforts Fruitless.

"In view of the foregoing correspondence and the press statements referred to," the report concluded, "the committee on stock list is forced to the conclusion that further discussion with the corporation will prove unavailing and therefore reports the matter to the governing committee for such action as it may deem appropriate in the circumstances."

The action against Allied is in line with the exchange's recent trend toward complete publicity of organizations listed so that the investing public may have proper knowledge of the shares it is purchasing.

ROPER REPORTS STEADY PICKUP IN APRIL TRADE

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—A steady pick-up in business since the latter part of March was reported today by Secretary Roper, with preliminary data for April indicating that activity in both production and distribution has been higher than during last month.

Automobile production increased, and Roper expressed a belief that final figures for the month would be substantially higher than in March. Lumber was said to have advanced, while retail trade has picked up to an extent that the secretary believes the April comparison with the corresponding month of 1932 would be much more favorable than the returns for the first quarter.

WESTINGHOUSE ORDERS HIGHEST SINCE JULY, 1932

Expect Business Gain in Short Time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—Expressing confidence in the leadership of President Roosevelt and the belief that a real business revival is imminent, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today announced to its stockholders that bookings for March were the largest of any month since July, 1932.

While showing a substantial loss for the first quarter of 1933 attributed to low volume of business the announcement had this to say:

"In spite of the financial situation during the first quarter of this year, March bookings were the largest of any month since July, 1932. While the company secured its share of available business, yet it was so low that operations for the three months ended March 31, 1933, resulted in a net loss of $3,491,572.

Orders by Quarters.

"The comparativt figures for the first quarter of 1933 with the first and the last quarters of 1932, are as follows:

	Quarter end. March 31, 1933.	Quarter end. March 31, 1932	Quarter end. Dec. 31, 1932.
Orders received	$12,847,801	$20,388,658	$14,224,530
Net loss	3,401,572	1,320,148	2,986,289

"At March 31 cash and marketable securities amounted to $41,597,253 compared with $32,851,763 at Dec. 31, 1932. Westinghouse was fortunate in that only a relatively small amount of its cash, compared to the total, was on deposit in banks that have not reopened since the banking holiday.

"At some of our plants certain departments are operating at a higher rate of production, particularly Mansfield, O., and East Springfield, Mass., where Westinghouse refrigerators are made. Indications are that 1933 will produce the largest number of refrigerator sales since the company entered this field.

Expect Business Gains.

"Westinghouse is continuously improving existing products, developing new products and seeking new markets for products allied with the electrical industry."

Referring to future outlook and current national affairs the statement continues:

"The prompt and constructive moves of the new administration at Washington have had a stimulating effect on public sentiment. The President is providing the aggressive leadership needed to insure genuine business revival. Confidence in the banking situation is being gradually restored. Definite aid is assured for agriculture. Reorganization of transportation facilities is being pushed to early completion. Reclamation and reforestation are under way.

"It would seem inevitable that business in general will soon begin to show improvement. Already it is being felt in some directions."

Bethlehem Report Today Likely to Show Bigger Loss

New York, April 26.—Dow, Jones & Co. said today that Bethlehem Steel corporation's report for the first quarter, out tomorrow afternoon, is likely to show a loss after all charges slightly greater than the deficit of $5,621,672 in the last quarter of 1932.

Nation's Plans for Inflation Grow Clearer

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Events of the last few days have convinced well qualified observers that the administration's plan is not to exercise immediately the currency devaluation powers contained in the Thomas inflation bill.

The contemplated sequence of events in the President's inflation program is becoming more clearly defined.

Expansion of currency and credit seems to be first on the list of things to be done. New money is to be pumped into the United States treasury by the sale of additonal government bonds to the federal reserve banks, the latter paying for them either with federal reserve notes or the new "asset money."

Additional currency expansion, according to word from authoritative sources, is to be effected by pouring hundreds of millions of asset money into closed banks, the reserve banks to take the good but slow assets of the closed banks as security and the depositors in the closed banks to get the money.

Delay Dollar Devaluation.

Devaluation of the dollar is scheduled for later on, according to all indications. The actual inflation of currency and credit would occur first and seems to be the thing that is depended upon to boost prices of stocks and commodities.

Later on, when the world powers have agreed upon the relative levels at which the currencies of the various nations shall stand the change in the gold content of the dollar, the pound and the franc would be made as official recognition of the new levels and to nail them fast.

"The only serious danger, as I see it, is that the prospect of inordinate inflation may frighten people into a flight from the dollar," comments one well known financial leader.

Public's Thoughts Are Key.

"The psychological factor is exceedingly important. As long as people buy goods and securities on a rising scale of prices because they are optimistic about the outlook for business, then you have a healthy condition.

"The minute fear of money predominates in their reasons for buying you get an unhealthy situation, because then your prices become bloated by the flight from money.

"If the President has the courage and the strength to stop the process once it reaches a reasonable level all will be well. At that level he should be able to put the brakes on rising prices by shutting off the currency expansion. The government can anchor the currency at that level by going back to the gold standard with the gold content of the dollar reduced proportionately."

So abruptly have decisions been made to alter the very fundamentals of national economy that the various proposals have left even many of the best informed individuals in financial circles almost breathless.

Financial Experts Disagree.

Some of them, quickly surveying the political outlook, have immediately reconciled themselves to the idea of currency expansion and the various other proposals made by the administration.

Others, however, are more reluctant to discard their old beliefs. They are slow to admit that pressing social

Chicago's Use of Electricity Near Year Ago

Electricity output for the Chicago district for the week ended April 22 was only 1 per cent below that for the comparable week a year ago. The percentage comparison makes the best showing, with one exception, since September, 1931.

Similarly, national production, showing a decrease of only 2.6 per cent from the like week of 1932, offers the best comparison since August, 1931, and represents the largest consumption since the week of Feb. 18.

Figures for Chicago District.

The Chicago district for the week ended Saturday had an electricity production of 87,054,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 87,979,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period last year and with 87,864,000 kilowatt hours for the week ending April 15, 1933.

April 8	89,066,000	90,850,000	—2.0
April 1	88,502,000	91,681,000	—3.5

National Production Compared.

According to the Edison Electric institute, the total national output was 1,431,095,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,409,603,000 kilowatt hours in the week ending April 15 and with 1,469,810,000 kilowatt hours for the corresponding week of 1932. The decline in electricity output for the week ending April 15 from the like week of 1932 was 4.8 per cent.

Gains in production over last year were registered in the New England and Atlantic seaboard regions. New England improved 1.1 per cent, the Atlantic seaboard 1 per cent.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 25%; BEST IN A YEAR

Prices Grow Firmer; Demand Expands.

The rate of steel ingot production has been quickened to 25 per cent of the country's capacity, against 23 per cent last week and 15 per cent at the beginning of the month, the Iron Age reported yesterday. The present rate of steel output is the highest for any week since March, 1932.

The journal notes "sharp increases in scrap prices, amounting in some instances to as much as $2 a ton, further strengthening of pig iron quotations, the elimination of many of the concessions that have been granted to finished steel buyers, the prospective blowing in of additional blast furnaces," as further indications of the "broadening activities in the iron and steel industry and among the consuming industries that use iron and steel as their principal raw materials."

Says Demand Is Surprising.

The Daily Metal Trade also observes that "finished steel demand is expanding at a pace not thought possible a few weeks ago. Operations in the industry are fast approaching the 30 per cent level and the end of the spurt is not in sight."

The "reputed value of the scrap market as a barometer of iron and steel trade conditions" lends paramount importance to the marked gain in scrap prices this week," the Iron Age says, adding that "the Pittsburgh market, which has been strengthening for several weeks, has recorded a further rise of only 25 cents a ton on heavy melting scrap, but the Chicago price on this grade has gone up $2, and in eastern Pennsylvania the average price is $1.25 above that of a week ago."

For many steel companies the volume of incoming business has been the largest in fully a year. The industry expects the recent acceleration to continue "at least through May.

Finds Buying Not Speculative.

"While some steel consumers would like to cover their requirements for the third quarter or even the entire last half of the year at present prices," the review says, "steel companies are discouraging such efforts, and probably will put into effect price advances on some products—sheets and strip iron in particular, before the time arrives for third quarter contracting."

With rising motor car output, automobile manufacturers are pushing steel mills for deliveries. Prospects of railroad buying are improving, says the Iron Age. Structural steel lettings in the week totaled 12,350 tons, almost triple those of the preceding week, while new projects call for 11,550 tons.

The Iron Age heavy melting steel composite price has risen to $8.83, against $7.67 last week, and is now the highest since the first week of October, 1931.

WHEAT MOVES UP AS PUBLIC ROUTS BEAR TRADERS

Prices Rise Fractionally; Selling Absorbed.

WHEAT IN U. S. FUNDS

Wheat prices in leading markets reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

Do Argentine	56⅝c	57⅜c
Buenos Aires, May	40¾c	40¼c
Rotterdam, May	47⅝c	49c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The public was regarded as having taken the wheat market away from professional speculators yesterday by many members of the Chicago Board of Trade. Improvement in the character of crop reports from the winter wheat belt, due to recent rains, and the belief that there should be a sizeable reaction in prices led the professionals to take the selling side on all the minor upturns, while on the breaks commission houses absorbed the offerings in small lots.

Prices fluctuated in an erratic manner within a range of 1⅜ to 2⅜ cents with sharp bulges and breaks, and those who sold short in anticipation of a sharp decline were forced to cover. The buying of wheat came in waves, and while the best prices of the day were not maintained, the finish was ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher.

Hedging Transactions Shown.

May wheat was bought and July sold on a liberal scale. Part of such transactions was regarded as turning over hedges on cash grain into the distant future. May closed at 68⅜ to 68⅝ cents, with July at 68½ to 68⅝ cents; September, 69⅝ to 69⅞ cents, and December, 71⅞ to 72 cents.

According to pit gossip, part of the pressure on the wheat market came from a leading local operator, but this was more than offset by the steady influx of public buying. The expectation that the senate would pass the inflation measures of the farm relief bill late in the day had some effect, as did the rally in stocks and cotton. Local traders have been inclined to look for a reaction in the wheat market for four days, but prices at the close yesterday were around 2 cents higher than the finish last Friday.

Observers of conditions in the wheat pit asserted that the amount of public buying and the action of the market in refusing to decline suggested a much larger general trade than had been anticipated. It was claimed that few of the leading traders were long any material amount of wheat at the close.

Corn Under Pressure.

Scattered liquidation developed in May corn early, and there was some pressure on the deferred futures from commission houses with eastern connections. While the market was firm at times, the bulges ran into renewed selling and the finish was at net losses of ¼ to ⅜ cents. May closed at 35¼ to 35⅜ cents; July, 37⅜ to 37⅞ cents, and September, 39¾ cents.

Local operators were on the buying side of oats, and offset commission house profit taking, the close being unchanged to ⅜ cents higher, with May 23¾ to 23⅞ cents, and July, 24⅛ cents.

Rye futures were unsettled and closed ¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, with May at 46⅞ cents and July 47¼ cents. Barley was 1¼ cent lower at the close, with May at 36⅛ cents, and July 38 cents. Cash barley was unchanged to 3 cents higher, feed grades showing the most strength.

problems may make it politically expedient to adopt programs which they have always considered economically unsound or inequitable.

"The President's intention seems to be to lighten the load on the farmer and other debtors by cheapening the dollar," remarks one of those who is strongly opposed to any tampering with the currency. "That will, in effect, be nothing more nor less than a levy on capital.

Eases Debtor, Injures Creditor.

"It will make things easier for the debtor, but it will take away from the creditor a part of his capital. Is this redistribution of wealth justifiable? If I were a farmer with a big mortgage on my back perhaps I would think so. But consider my own case. For many years I have invested heavily in life insurance because it was the most conservative type of investment I could think of. For the 100 cent dollars that I put in life insurance am I to receive in return 50 cent or 20 cent dollars so that the burden may be lighter on the fellow who borrowed from the life insurance company?"

This represents the ultraconservative point of view. The majority in financial circles seem to accept inflation as inevitable and merely hope that the President will be sufficiently strong and courageous to keep inflation under control.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the spiral of deflation in March had proceeded to a point where continuation in that direction would have forced most of the nation through foreclosure and would have precipitated severe social unrest.

DENIES BANKS CAN GUARANTEE PUBLIC DEPOSITS

U. S. Court Says Assets Can't Be Set Aside.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denounced as illegal and against public policy the banking practice of setting aside assets as security for deposits of public funds. The opinion was handed down in the suit of Ben Sneeden, receiver of the City National bank of Herrin, Ill., to recover securities set aside by the bank to guarantee a deposit of $16,430 of city funds.

The suit of Sneeden, who held that the securities involved belonged to all the depositors of the bank, was dismissed for want of equity in the District court and appealed. Judges Will M. Sparks and Walter C. Lindley concurred in the Appellate court opinion, while Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler dissented.

Questions Banking Ethics.

The employment of such practices to obtain deposits was termed in the majority opinion as "wholly unworthy of and inconsistent with the object for which banks are organized." The opinion held that "it is by no means certain from this record that the demand for such procedure is general in its extent, or that it is not actuated by certain depositors rather than by the banks."

"There is manifested in all the legislation bearing on American banking a disposition to throw every possible safeguard around the rights and interests of general depositors, and to treat them all fairly, equitably, and impartially," the opinion said.

"The doctrine of the guaranty of all bank deposits has its advocates and also its opponents, but we have yet to hear of any voluntary public advocacy of guaranteeing a part of the general depositors to the exclusion of others, and securing that guaranty by a pledge of the banks' assets.

Lower Court Decree Reversed.

"Legislation looking to that end, we apprehend, would be quite as unpopular as it would be for a bank publicly to advertise the fact that it was indulging in the practice under guise of an implied incidental power. The judgment of the District court is reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with this opinion."

Judge Alschuler held in his dissenting opinion that the "vice is not with the pledging of the assets, but the laws and regulations confirming the reports and advertisements of banks."
